Commoner Married To Japanese Prince

Ritual Shatters Rigid Tradition Of 2,600 Years

TOKYO, Friday (UPI) —Michiko Shoda, a commoner, was married Friday to Crown Prince Akihito in a ceremony which made her the future empress of Japan.

Dressed in a 12-layer, 50-pound wedding gown borrowed from her imperial mother-in-law, the little Michiko, 24, married Akihito, 25, in the sacred inner sanctum of the palace.

Under ancient Shinto ritual they became husband and wife at the precise moment she sipped the rice wine. From that point until she ascends the throne with her husband she will be known as "her imperial highness, Crown Princess Michiko."

The secret ceremonies broke 2,619 years of rigid tradition by bringing a commoner to the threshold of the Japanese throne for the first time since the legendary Jimmu became emperor in 660 B.C.

Met On Tennis Court

The love match began on a resort tennis court two summers ago where Akihito met and wooed the pretty daughter of a wealthy commoner.

Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako, according to custom, were not at the wedding. They watched what they could of the ceremony over their television set in another building of the Imperial Palace, about a half mile from the marriage sanctuary.

The wedding rites were secret. The 970 guests who attended sat in an outer enclosure from which they could see the marriage procession enter the tiny 20-by-36 foot sanctuary.

Guests included other members of the royal family, the Shoda family, the Japanese cabinet, members of the Diet, and some foreigners.

Tokyo Ablaze With Color

The ceremony was carefully timed to begin at 10 a.m. (8 p.m. e.s.t. Thursday) with chief Shinto ritualist Osanaga Kanroji leading the nine-member wedding group from the nearby Ryokiden waiting house into the sacred Kashikodokoro sanctuary.

After the ceremony the wedding party returned to the waiting house and the guests left. The couple then returned to perform private rituals before two small shrines that flank the Kashikodokoro.

Princess Michiko motored to her dressing house some distance away to change into a cocktail-type dress while the Prince stayed at the waiting house and changed into morning clothes.

Tokyo was ablaze with color. Flags, bunting, artificial flowers, lanterns and signs saying "congratulations" decorated every pole and building along the procession route.

Cuban Trial Set For Nye

HAVANA (AP) — A formal charge of attempting to assassinate Premier Fidel Castro has been placed against Alan Robert Nye, of Whiting, Ind., a government official said Thursday.

Nye, 31, a former U.S. Navy pilot and veteran of the Korean War, goes on trial Saturday night at the Officers Club of La Cabana military fortress where he has been held since January.

He had been detained without formal charges since last Dec. 26.

Capt. Miguel Angel Duque de Estrada, the auditor general of the revolutionary government, said the specific charge against Nye is collaborating with the regime of former President Fulgencio Batista, incendiarism and imperfect assassination.

The captain declined to comment on the maximum penalty Nye could get if found guilty. A Cuban military lawyer said earlier this week a prison sentence up to 30 years is possible.

Thirteen witnesses, including former President Carlos Prio Socarras, are listed in the charge against Nye, the auditor general said.

Although the revolutionary regime had not placed formal charges against Nye, it claimed it had evidence he came to Cuba to kill Castro for $100,000 allegedly offered by henchmen of former President Fulgencio Batista.

Nye has repeatedly denied this accusation, claiming he came to Cuba last November only to help Castro's rebel forces in their war against Batista, who fled into exile Jan. 1.

All-A Student Admits Killing Neighbor Boy

DETROIT (AP) — Quiet-mannered John Turner, 12, an all-A pupil in junior high, stammered out to officers Thursday that he killed a neighbor boy with a knife and hammer because "he teased me and kept calling me names."

Jeffrey Paxton, also 12, was found dead in a garage back of his home in suburban Dearborn township after an all night search.

A tip led officers to question the Turner boy. He took them to the Paxton garage where Jeffrey's body was hidden under a workbench.

Red faced, the Turner boy blurted, "I hit him. I grabbed a hammer and hit him. I didn't mean to hurt him."

The Paxton boy was stabbed six times in the chest and struck on the head with a hammer at least once, medical examiners said.

Detective Sgt. John Balogh said the Turner boy told him he could remember little after first stabbing his victim with a hunting knife. The boys live across the street from one another, but their parents said they rarely played together.

John's father, Albert, a gasoline refinery employe said, "You can't understand a thing like this. Johnny has never given us any trouble."

Charles Paxton, a public relations man and a civic leader in the community, said, "There's no explanation for a terrible thing like this. It is a horror for everyone."

Arab Leaders May Form Own Anti-Red Bloc

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Shocked by the threat of a Communist take-over in Iraq, Arabs may be moved to form their own home-made anti-Communist bloc. It could succeed where a Western attempt to stem communism in the Arab East failed.

The Baghdad Pact, formed in 1955, linked an Arab country, Iraq, to Britain, Turkey and Pakistan in a northern wall against communism. But Arab nationalists rejected it. They associated the West with imperialism and colonialism, suspected its motives. Only the Iraqi monarchy, dominated by the late Premier Nuri Said, went along with the alliance, giving the pact its name.

Arab union remains largely a myth. But a common threat could, at least, bring the rulers of the Arab countries together in a common front to hold off further Soviet penetration.

The lack of Arab unity was clear at the Arab League meeting of foreign ministers here this week. For reasons of their own, some leaders hesitated to join United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser's vigorous anti-Communist campaign.

There is a parallel between what is taking place in the Middle East now and what happened in Europe a decade ago. As one Eastern European country after another fell into the Communist net, Western European countries rallied to the concept of NATO. Even then the defense alliance lacked teeth until the shock of the Korean War.

Arabs now seem to be approaching a similar crisis. The leaders of Jordan, Lebanon, Sudan, Saudi Arabia, Libya, Tunisia, and Morocco fear communism and are ready to acknowledge that a Communist take-over in Iraq would threaten their position.

Snow Blocks Colorado Roads

By The Associated Press

Wintry forces of snow and winds refused Thursday to show signs of beating a retreat from Colorado and Wyoming.

Snow continued to fall in the afternoon in a stubborn storm that began Tuesday. It has kicked up deep drifts in some localities, closed schools and business houses and led to at least two deaths.

Well-traveled U.S. Highway 287 in northern Colorado was closed for a time during the day after lashing winds stirred up ground blizzards and reduced visibility to only a few feet.

U.S. Highway 30 was blocked for awhile in Granite Canyon, 18 miles west of Cheyenne, Wyo., with trucks and automobiles finding it hard to negotiate a hill.

The storm spread snow two-feet deep in the Colorado Springs area with deeper drifts. Denver had had caught almost 15 inches by noon.

Cargoes of fresh snow were dumped along the mountain spine with more than 36 inches of new cover on La Veta Pass and 30 inches on Wolf Creek Pass in southern Colorado.

A woman died at Salida, Colo., of injuries suffered in an overturning car on a slushy road. A Denver man succumbed to a heart attack while clearing his walks of heavy, wet snow.

$500,000 In Heroin Found In Bank Box

NEW YORK (AP)—Heroin valued at $500,000 has been found in a safe deposit box in a bank, police disclosed Thursday.

Detectives seized Louis Landi, 34, of Manhattan, free in bail in another narcotics case, and accused him of having put the heroin—30 ounces—in the bank.

They said it was the first time to their knowledge that a bank had been used to hide narcotics.

Discovery of the heroin stemmed from finding the key to the safe deposit box in a Bronx apartment where $150,000 worth of heroin recently was seized.

The key was traced to a Yorkville branch of the Chemical Corn Exchange Bank and ultimately to Landi, police said. He was booked on a narcotics possession charge.

Buy Now, Pay Later Spree Spreads Happiness, But—

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A 36-year-old mother sobbed to newsmen Thursday that she bought $80,000 worth of merchandise on the installment plan and sold it below cost to make others happy.

"I'm just waiting for the sheriff to knock at my door," said Mary Patricia Snead. "This waiting is driving me crazy."

Authorities were groping for formal charges against her. So far police said, not a single store has made a complaint.

Mrs. Snead said her buy now-pay later spree started last July after she heard a friend wishing for a good camera. She bought one for $80 and sold it to the friend for $40.

"Word got around," she said. "Everything I got was for somebody else. I was just trying to make people happy. Everybody liked me. Now I don't have a friend in the world. I don't care about myself. The tragedy is that my children will be hurt."

Her four children range in age from 8 to 16.

Mrs. Snead said that with the money she got from selling things at low prices she has managed to keep up the payments on the multitude of items, including several used cars.

"I even keep up the rentals on 10 TV sets," she said. The rented sets were sold to acquaintances at bargain rates.

Her husband, Jack, a paving superintendent, said he knew nothing of his wife's buying activities. He said he recently took out a $2,000 second mortgage on the house and has no savings.

Dredging Gear Found On Boat In Oyster War

COLONIAL BEACH, Va. (AP)—Virginia authorities — admitting they found evidence of oyster dredging by three Virginians in a new flareup of the Potomac River oyster war—insisted Thursday it is up to Maryland to prosecute.

This information was given after a conference of Virginia and Maryland officials probing the encounter between Virginia oystermen and Maryland officers which ended in the fatal shooting of one Virginian and the wounding of another.

Killed in the dawn encounter was Berkely Muse, 31, Oak Grove, Va., businessman. A companion, Harvey King, 34, of Colonial Beach, was wounded in the thigh.

A third member of the oystering trip, John F. Griffith, 39, of Colonial Beach, escaped harm in the hail of bullets.

Oyster dredging, a long standing point of contention between the two states, is illegal under Maryland law. Maryland owns the Potomac to the low water mark on the Virginia shore.

At Thursday's meeting Edward S. Digges, Maryland's assistant attorney general for the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, said Virginia State troopers confirmed that there was "physical and visual evidence" of dredging by the three men.

Digges quoted Virginia State Trooper R. G. Jewell as saying he had discovered "apparatus used in dredging operations" aboard the oyster boat.

The evidence was backed up by testimony of one of the two survivors of the oystering expedition during an interview with Virginia State Police, Digges said. Earlier, Virginia officials said the men had denied they were dredging.

Fire Damages British Flattop

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI)—Oil-fed flames Thursday swept through the heart of Britain's mightiest man of war — the atomic-age aircraft carrier H.M.S. Ark Royal.

Hundreds of workmen below decks in the drydocked carrier escaped the clouds of oily smoke that swept the corridors of the proud 60-million dollar flat-top. Eight workmen and four enlisted men suffered smoke inhalation during the battle to douse the flames.

Fire officials said the fire started when a spark from a welder's torch touched off oily bilge water in the boiler room. They said the flames "spread very rapidly and with a great deal of smoke."

Firemen wearing gas masks crawled down slippery below-deck ladders to snatch to safety nine workmen trapped near the smoke-filled boiler room where the trouble began.

Plymouth Fire Chief George Drury reported the fire was snuffed out more than five hours after it began.

AFL-CIO Supports Johnson Proposal

Meany Hails Unemployment Study Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The AFL-CIO Thursday endorsed Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson's proposal to create a federal fact - finding commission that would study the unemployment problem and recommend solutions within 60 days.

AFL-CIO President George Meany called the Johnson plan, introduced in the Senate Wednesday, a "wise, forward step".

But he warned that labor's support did not mean it felt Congress should use the commission's two-month investigation as an excuse for delaying action on measures to increase jobless pay and to spur the economy.

Unemployment at mid - March stood at 4,363,000, 5.8 per cent of the nation's labor force.

Senate colleagues credited Johnson with an adroit political move in sponsoring the unemployment study. He had been criticized by some fellow Democrats recently for failing to show more leadership on legislation to extend emergency federal unemployment pay.

Another Democratic senator disclosed Thursday that he had joined the list of Johnson critics and had complained specifically to the Democratic leader in respect to the unemployment legislation.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark Jr. (D-Pa) said he had written to Johnson on March 26 complaining of his handling of party affairs in the chamber. Clark said he noted specifically in the letter that all freshmen Democratic senators had voted for a broader extension of the compensation program than was adopted.

Sixty-seven senators, including Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) and other GOP chieftains, joined in co-sponsoring the Johnson resolution for a study of unemployment.

Nurse's Hired Killer Must Die

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—Augustine Baldonado must die in the gas chamber for the murder of nurse Olga Duncan, a jury ruled Thursday.

Baldonado, 26, and Luis Moya, 20, confessed they were hired by Elizabeth Duncan to kill Olga, her daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Duncan was found guilty of murder for her death. Baldonado pleaded guilty. The jury was impaneled to decide his fate.

The jury had only two alternatives—death or life imprisonment — after Baldonado changed his plea from innocent because of insanity to guilty of first degree murder in the slaying of the nurse.

Judge Charles F. Blackstock set April 14 as the formal date for sentencing.

Moya awaits trial April 20 on his plea of innocent by reason of insanity. Mrs. Duncan is awaiting review of her death sentence.

During her five-week trial, the prosecution said Mrs. Duncan hired the men to kill her daughter-in-law because of an extraordinarily strong attachment for her lawyer son, Frank.

Her son now is helping Mrs. Duncan with her appeal.

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaiians came up Thursday with their own version of the phone booth and other stuffing craze.

The canoe then sank in shallow water.

Two Clarksburg Women Missing

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Police searched Thursday for two women who have been missing since Wednesday night on a trip from Beckley to their homes in Clarksburg.

Major J. B. Jack identified the women as Mrs. Juanita Ferguson, 50, and Mrs. Virginia Conley, 54.

They were last reported seen about 9 p. m. Wednesday when they ate dinner at a restaurant about four miles north of Sutton.

Jack said they were traveling in a 1955 two-tone green Buick hardtop sedan. He said a thorough search Thursday had filed to produce ny trace of the two women or the car.

Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Conley were in Beckley attending a meeting of a state women's organization.

Connie's Story Again Halted At Crucial Moment

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The often-interrupted murder trial of Minnie B. (Connie) Nicholas halted again Thursday just as she was about to tell a jury how she killed her playboy lover.

Judge Thomas J. Faulconer delayed until Friday morning his decision whether the shapely divorcee could say why she carried her pearl-handled pistol to her last meeting with handsome drug executive Forrest Teel, 54.

"Answering that question would be opening the door to fraud and perjury," argued Deputy Prosecutor Francis Thomason.

The judge ordered the jury to disregard this remark.

Defense Atty. Frank Symmes said Mrs. Nicholas should be allowed to answer, since she is charged with premeditated murder. The 44-year-old defendant's reply was expected to support her contention she did not intend to kill Teel.

Mrs. Nicholas' direct testimony should be finished in about an hour if there are no more delays, said Charles W. Symmes, another defense lawyer and son of Frank Symmes.

The defendant went on the stand Tuesday morning. However, the death of a court clerk and a political tug-of-war over his replacement canceled Wednesday's session and delayed the start again Thursday.

U.S. Navy Seaplane, 10 Aboard, Missing

IWAKUNI, Japan (UPI)—Ships and planes criss-crossed the Korean Strait Thursday in a search for a missing U.S. Navy seaplane with 10 men aboard.

U. S. Navy headquarters said the twin-engined P5M2 Marlin seaplane left Iwakuni on a routine flight Thursday morning. It was reported lost in the vicinity of Chejudo Island about seven hours later.

Frank Lloyd Wright, 89, Master Architect, Dies

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Colorful Frank Lloyd Wright, 89, master architect who fashioned a world reputation for brilliant design, died in a Phoenix hospital Thursday.

Known as the "rebellious old gentleman" of his profession, Wright entered the hospital last Saturday and underwent surgery Monday for removal of an intestinal obstruction. Physicians felt he was holding his own up to an hour before his death.

Wright was the center of controversy throughout his professional life. Many of his designs were unusual in appearance and radical in engineering.

"Early in life I had to choose between honest arrogance and hypocritical humility," he said a few years ago. "I chose honest arrogance and have seen no occasion to change."

He designed more than 700 buildings around the world, including the Imperial Hotel in Tokyo, the Price Tower in Bartlesville, Okla., and the still unfinished Guggenheim Museum in New York.

Born June 8, 1869, in Richland Center, Wis., Wright began his career as an apprentice without waiting to graduate from college.

Some of his sharpest verbal blasts were at the American Institute of Architects and its members.

But in 1948, the institute named him the 15th winner in 42 years of its gold medal "for distinguished service to the advancement of the art and the profession of architecture."

"The only thing wrong with architecture is architects," he once said.

Seven Pilots, In 30s, Pass Rigid Tests

All Of Astronauts Married, Sure They Will Survive Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's first space travelers-to-be were put on view Thursday—seven calm steel-nerved married men in their 30s. They say they're sure they'll come back safe from the most terrifyingly dangerous voyage yet conceived for a human being.

One of the seven will be the first American—the first of any nation, if things go right—to be rocketed into orbit around the earth.

Nobody knows yet which one will get the first historic ride. Each of the seven says it's something of which he has long dreamed.

Each also said at a news conference that it's okay with the wife and children for him to make the first satellite flight.

Wife's Idea, Navy Man Says

In fact, quipped Navy Lt. Malcolm S. Carpenter, 33, of Garden Grove, Calif., one of the astronauts, his going was his wife Rene's idea.

"I was at sea, so my wife called Washington and volunteered for me," he said.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced last Monday that seven space candidates had been selected as the final team for this country's first manned satellite program, Project Mercury.

But not until Thursday did the agency name the seven: Three Air Force jet pilots, three Navy fliers and a Marine test pilot making up the training group. Besides Carpenter, the team includes:

Air Force Capt. Leroy G. Cooper Jr., 32, Carbondale, Colo., and Seattle, Wash.

Ohio Marine Chosen

Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., 37, New Concord, Ohio.

Air Force Capt. Virgil I. Grissom, 33, Mitchell, Ind.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 36, Hackensack, N.J.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr., 35, East Derry, N.H.

Air Force Capt. Donald K. Slayton, 35, Sparta, Wis.

One reason they're as old as they are: It takes years to pile up the flying experience needed.

These seven were selected, after possibly the most rigid physical and mental tests ever given human beings, from among 55 volunteers for the first space flights. One will make the first earth orbit —if he survives.

All seven expect to be satellite passengers — whirling around the world two or three times in about 90 minutes a trip at upwards of 100 miles in the air—before the project ends. Target year for the first flight is 1961.

Tibetan Rebels Battle Chinese

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Fighting has broken out between Tibetan rebels and Chinese Communist forces in Tsinghai and Sikang Provinces on Tibet's frontier, press reports said Thursday.

The Times of India said rebels had cut off Chamdo, deep in Sikand Province on the main supply road between China and Lhasa, the Tibetan capital.

The correspondent said rebels also were fighting Chinese in the Amdo area of Tsinghai Province, birthplace of Tibet's self-exiled Dalai Lama.

Authoritative sources on Nationalist China's Formosa estimated 200,000 tribesmen were fighting the Chinese Communists in Sikang Province and the border area province of Szechwan.

Meanwhile, the fugitive Dalai Lama proceeded by horseback along his placid way toward Tezpur, in northeast India, where he is expected to take a train to his ultimate refuge.

The young Tibetan god-king may go to Mussoorie, in the hills of Kumaon where the palaces of former Indian princes might provide a proper refuge. Prime Minister Nehru is due in Mussoorie April 23 for a meeting. He has said he intends to see the Dalai Lama.

Wintry forces of snow and winds refused Thursday to show signs of beating a retreat from Colorado and Wyoming.

Snow continued to fall in the afternoon in a stubborn storm that began Tuesday. It has kicked up deep drifts in some localities, closed schools and business houses and led to at least two deaths.

Well-traveled U.S. Highway 287 in northern Colorado was closed for a time during the day after lashing winds stirred up ground blizzards and reduced visibility to only a few feet.

U.S. Highway 30 was blocked for awhile in Granite Canyon, 18 miles west of Cheyenne, Wyo., with trucks and automobiles finding it hard to negotiate a hill.

The storm spread snow two-feet deep in the Colorado Springs area with deeper drifts. Denver had had caught almost 15 inches by noon.

Cargoes of fresh snow were dumped along the mountain spine with more than 36 inches of new cover on La Veta Pass and 30 inches on Wolf Creek Pass in southern Colorado.

A woman died at Salida, Colo., of injuries suffered in an overturning car on a slushy road. A Denver man succumbed to a heart attack while clearing his walks of heavy, wet snow.

Dredging Gear Found On Boat In Oyster War

COLONIAL BEACH, Va. (AP)—Virginia authorities — admitting they found evidence of oyster dredging by three Virginians in a new flareup of the Potomac River oyster war—insisted Thursday it is up to Maryland to prosecute.

This information was given after a conference of Virginia and Maryland officials probing the encounter between Virginia oystermen and Maryland officers which ended in the fatal shooting of one Virginian and the wounding of another.

Killed in the dawn encounter was Berkely Muse, 31, Oak Grove, Va., businessman. A companion, Harvey King, 34, of Colonial Beach, was wounded in the thigh.

A third member of the oystering trip, John F. Griffith, 39, of Colonial Beach, escaped harm in the hail of bullets.

Oyster dredging, a long standing point of contention between the two states, is illegal under Maryland law. Maryland owns the Potomac to the low water mark on the Virginia shore.

At Thursday's meeting Edward S. Digges, Maryland's assistant attorney general for the Tidewater Fisheries Commission, said Virginia State troopers confirmed that there was "physical and visual evidence" of dredging by the three men.

Digges quoted Virginia State Trooper R. G. Jewell as saying he had discovered "apparatus used in dredging operations" aboard the oyster boat.

The evidence was backed up by testimony of one of the two survivors of the oystering expedition during an interview with Virginia State Police, Digges said. Earlier, Virginia officials said the men had denied they were dredging.

Fire Damages British Flattop

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI)—Oil-fed flames Thursday swept through the heart of Britain's mightiest man of war — the atomic-age aircraft carrier H.M.S. Ark Royal.

Hundreds of workmen below decks in the drydocked carrier escaped the clouds of oily smoke that swept the corridors of the proud 60-million dollar flat-top. Eight workmen and four enlisted men suffered smoke inhalation during the battle to douse the flames.

Fire officials said the fire started when a spark from a welder's torch touched off oily bilge water in the boiler room. They said the flames "spread very rapidly and with a great deal of smoke."

Firemen wearing gas masks crawled down slippery below-deck ladders to snatch to safety nine workmen trapped near the smoke-filled boiler room where the trouble began.

Plymouth Fire Chief George Drury reported the fire was snuffed out more than five hours after it began.

AFL-CIO Supports Johnson Proposal

Meany Hails Unemployment Study Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The AFL-CIO Thursday endorsed Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson's proposal to create a federal fact - finding commission that would study the unemployment problem and recommend solutions within 60 days.

AFL-CIO President George Meany called the Johnson plan, introduced in the Senate Wednesday, a "wise, forward step".

But he warned that labor's support did not mean it felt Congress should use the commission's two-month investigation as an excuse for delaying action on measures to increase jobless pay and to spur the economy.

Unemployment at mid - March stood at 4,363,000, 5.8 per cent of the nation's labor force.

Senate colleagues credited Johnson with an adroit political move in sponsoring the unemployment study. He had been criticized by some fellow Democrats recently for failing to show more leadership on legislation to extend emergency federal unemployment pay.

Another Democratic senator disclosed Thursday that he had joined the list of Johnson critics and had complained specifically to the Democratic leader in respect to the unemployment legislation.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark Jr. (D-Pa) said he had written to Johnson on March 26 complaining of his handling of party affairs in the chamber. Clark said he noted specifically in the letter that all freshmen Democratic senators had voted for a broader extension of the compensation program than was adopted.

Sixty-seven senators, including Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) and other GOP chieftains, joined in co-sponsoring the Johnson resolution for a study of unemployment.

Nurse's Hired Killer Must Die

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—Augustine Baldonado must die in the gas chamber for the murder of nurse Olga Duncan, a jury ruled Thursday.

Baldonado, 26, and Luis Moya, 20, confessed they were hired by Elizabeth Duncan to kill Olga, her daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Duncan was found guilty of murder for her death. Baldonado pleaded guilty. The jury was impaneled to decide his fate.

The jury had only two alternatives—death or life imprisonment — after Baldonado changed his plea from innocent because of insanity to guilty of first degree murder in the slaying of the nurse.

Judge Charles F. Blackstock set April 14 as the formal date for sentencing.

Moya awaits trial April 20 on his plea of innocent by reason of insanity. Mrs. Duncan is awaiting review of her death sentence.

During her five-week trial, the prosecution said Mrs. Duncan hired the men to kill her daughter-in-law because of an extraordinarily strong attachment for her lawyer son, Frank.

Her son now is helping Mrs. Duncan with her appeal.

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaiians came up Thursday with their own version of the phone booth and other stuffing craze.

Fifty-six persons at Waikiki Beach stuffed themselves into an outrigger canoe which normally holds six.

The canoe then sank in shallow water.

Two Clarksburg Women Missing

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Police searched Thursday for two women who have been missing since Wednesday night on a trip from Beckley to their homes in Clarksburg.

Major J. B. Jack identified the women as Mrs. Juanita Ferguson, 50, and Mrs. Virginia Conley, 54.

They were last reported seen about 9 p. m. Wednesday when they ate dinner at a restaurant about four miles north of Sutton.

Jack said they were traveling in a 1955 two-tone green Buick hardtop sedan. He said a thorough search Thursday had filed to produce ny trace of the two women or the car.

Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Conley were in Beckley attending a meeting of a state women's organization.

Connie's Story Again Halted At Crucial Moment

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The often-interrupted murder trial of Minnie B. (Connie) Nicholas halted again Thursday just as she was about to tell a jury how she killed her playboy lover.

Judge Thomas J. Faulconer delayed until Friday morning his decision whether the shapely divorcee could say why she carried her pearl-handled pistol to her last meeting with handsome drug executive Forrest Teel, 54.

"Answering that question would be opening the door to fraud and perjury," argued Deputy Prosecutor Francis Thomason.

The judge ordered the jury to disregard this remark.

Defense Atty. Frank Symmes said Mrs. Nicholas should be allowed to answer, since she is charged with premeditated murder. The 44-year-old defendant's reply was expected to support her contention she did not intend to kill Teel.

Mrs. Nicholas' direct testimony should be finished in about an hour if there are no more delays, said Charles W. Symmes, another defense lawyer and son of Frank Symmes.

The defendant went on the stand Tuesday morning. However, the death of a court clerk and a political tug-of-war over his replacement canceled Wednesday's session and delayed the start again Thursday.

U.S. Navy Seaplane, 10 Aboard, Missing

IWAKUNI, Japan (UPI)—Ships and planes criss-crossed the Korean Strait Thursday in a search for a missing U.S. Navy seaplane with 10 men aboard.

U. S. Navy headquarters said the twin-engined P5M2 Marlin seaplane left Iwakuni on a routine flight Thursday morning. It was reported lost in the vicinity of Chejudo Island about seven hours later.

Frank Lloyd Wright, 89, Master Architect, Dies

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Colorful Frank Lloyd Wright, 89, master architect who fashioned a world reputation for brilliant design, died in a Phoenix hospital Thursday.

Known as the "rebellious old gentleman" of his profession, Wright entered the hospital last Saturday and underwent surgery Monday for removal of an intestinal obstruction. Physicians felt he was holding his own up to an hour before his death.

Wright was the center of controversy throughout his professional life. Many of his designs were unusual in appearance and radical in engineering.

"Early in life I had to choose between honest arrogance and hypocritical humility," he said a few years ago. "I chose honest arrogance and have seen no occasion to change."

He designed more than 700 buildings around the world, including the Imperial Hotel in Tokyo, the Price Tower in Bartlesville, Okla., and the still unfinished Guggenheim Museum in New York.

Born June 8, 1869, in Richland Center, Wis., Wright began his career as an apprentice without waiting to graduate from college.

Some of his sharpest verbal blasts were at the American Institute of Architects and its members.

But in 1948, the institute named him the 15th winner in 42 years of its gold medal "for distinguished service to the advancement of the art and the profession of architecture."

"The only thing wrong with architecture is architects," he once said.

Seven Pilots, In 30s, Pass Rigid Tests

All Of Astronauts Married, Sure They Will Survive Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's first space travelers-to-be were put on view Thursday—seven calm steel-nerved married men in their 30s. They say they're sure they'll come back safe from the most terrifyingly dangerous voyage yet conceived for a human being.

One of the seven will be the first American—the first of any nation, if things go right—to be rocketed into orbit around the earth.

Nobody knows yet which one will get the first historic ride. Each of the seven says it's something of which he has long dreamed.

Each also said at a news conference that it's okay with the wife and children for him to make the first satellite flight.

Wife's Idea, Navy Man Says

In fact, quipped Navy Lt. Malcolm S. Carpenter, 33, of Garden Grove, Calif., one of the astronauts, his going was his wife Rene's idea.

"I was at sea, so my wife called Washington and volunteered for me," he said.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced last Monday that seven space candidates had been selected as the final team for this country's first manned satellite program, Project Mercury.

But not until Thursday did the agency name the seven: Three Air Force jet pilots, three Navy fliers and a Marine test pilot making up the training group. Besides Carpenter, the team includes:

Air Force Capt. Leroy G. Cooper Jr., 32, Carbondale, Colo., and Seattle, Wash.

Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., 37, New Concord, Ohio.

Air Force Capt. Virgil I. Grissom, 33, Mitchell, Ind.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 36, Hackensack, N.J.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr., 35, East Derry, N.H.

Air Force Capt. Donald K. Slayton, 35, Sparta, Wis.

One reason they're as old as they are: It takes years to pile up the flying experience needed.

These seven were selected, after possibly the most rigid physical and mental tests ever given human beings, from among 55 volunteers for the first space flights. One will make the first earth orbit —if he survives.

All seven expect to be satellite passengers — whirling around the world two or three times in about 90 minutes a trip at upwards of 100 miles in the air—before the project ends. Target year for the first flight is 1961.

Tibetan Rebels Battle Chinese

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Fighting has broken out between Tibetan rebels and Chinese Communist forces in Tsinghai and Sikang Provinces on Tibet's frontier, press reports said Thursday.

The Times of India said rebels had cut off Chamdo, deep in Sikand Province on the main supply road between China and Lhasa, the Tibetan capital.

The correspondent said rebels also were fighting Chinese in the Amdo area of Tsinghai Province, birthplace of Tibet's self-exiled Dalai Lama.

Authoritative sources on Nationalist China's Formosa estimated 200,000 tribesmen were fighting the Chinese Communists in Sikang Province and the border area province of Szechwan.

Meanwhile, the fugitive Dalai Lama proceeded by horseback along his placid way toward Tezpur, in northeast India, where he is expected to take a train to his ultimate refuge.

The young Tibetan god-king may go to Mussoorie, in the hills of Kumaon where the palaces of former Indian princes might provide a proper refuge. Prime Minister Nehru is due in Mussoorie April 23 for a meeting. He has said he intends to see the Dalai Lama.

UAW Accused Of Terror Reign

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP)—The wife of a non-union coal operator, whose loading ramp was destroyed by dynamite Thursday, accused the United Mine Workers Union of fostering a reign of terror in eastern Kentucky.

"We go to bed every night afraid for our lives," said Mrs. H. C. Combs. "We've had many, many telephone threats on our life. They even tap our telephone."

Mrs. Combs said pickets already had driven away one family living near her husband's mine and had used horsewhips on a number of other operators.

"One of them was a cripple, who was beaten when he tried to flee," she added.

The UMW office in Hazard declined comment on Mrs. Combs' statements.

Thus far, one operator has been killed and five UMW members charged in his death. The strike, spread over seven counties, stems from the union's demand for a $24.25 a day wage, or a $2 increase.

Combs said pickets attending a rally at Isom Thursday were told by one unidentified official: "The only way to silence Combs is to kill him."

Combs said he isn't afraid.

Powerful Rocket Engine Is Tested

CEDAR GROVE, N.J. (AP) — The Air Force disclosed Thursday night the successful test firing of the most powerful rocket engine chamber so far developed in this country.

Maj. Gen. M. C. Demler, director of research and development at Air Force headquarters, said progress in the development of the powerful engine designed for future space vehicles had been "rather spectacular."

Demler said the test produced more than one million pounds of thrust from a single chamber.

He made the disclosure in a speech prepared for the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences.

Stat Dept. Reports Dulles Hasn't Decided

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department spokesman said Thursday Secretary John Foster Dulles still has made no decision on whether he will actively resume his job or retire to less strenuous work.

Press officer Lincoln White said this in reply to repeated queries from newsmen.

At President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters in Augusta, Ga., White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said in effect there has been no change in Dulles' plans to finish his stay in Florida before deciding about the future.

'Missing' Ex-Rep. Burdick Says He Wasn't Lost

WILLISTON, N.D. (AP) — A grinning Usher Burdick arrived in Williston Thursday morning and reported: "I wasn't lost, I knew where I was all the time."

The 80-year-old former Republican congressman made the statement after a reporter asked him if he realized the anxiety he had caused by driving alone from Washington this week.

Apparently none the worse for his 2,090-mile trip, Burdick said he intends staying in Williston until he finishes looking after his ranching interests. He might sign a complaint against an individual who apparently took several horses from his ranch. The horses are now in South Dakota.

Wearing a rumpled coat and trousers and smoking his familiar cigar, Burdick said he didn't know why everybody became so concerned.

The trip was no secret, he said, adding his 31-year-old wife wanted him to fly and not make the long trip alone by car. He said that after his wife had gone to church he threw a couple of shirts into a suitcase and took off about Sunday noon.

Burdick said the first he knew that he was considered missing was when a man stopped him in a Minnesota town. Chuckling, Burdick said: "I got my lunch bought by him."

Critically Injured Soviet Seaman Flown To Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A critically injured young Soviet seaman was brought here by plane Thursday.

Lt. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong met the amphibious Coast Guard plane when it landed at 12:03 p.m. at Elmendorf Air Force base.

Armstrong lent a hand as the litter bearing Evgemij Ivanovich Gneushev, 23, of Vladivostok, was lifted from the plane to a waiting ambulance. The seaman was taken quickly to the Elmendorf hospital for treatment.

Gneushev, unconscious and partially paralyzed, suffered a damaging brain injury when he fell five days ago into a hatch on the Soviet fishing factory ship Pischavaya Industria in the Bering Sea.

The arrival of the amphibian ended a four-day international air-sea rescue mission into which were thrown the resources of the U.S. Coast Guard, Navy and Air Force.

It was a mercy mission sought of the country by the Soviet Embassy in Washington Monday night — but one which has gone unnoticed in the Moscow press.

Nothing has been published in the Soviet capital about the incident, The Associated Press bureau in Moscow advised.

The seaman was flown here from Cold Bay, 650 miles to the southwest at the tip of the Alaska peninsula. He was brought there aboard the Coast Guard cutter Storis, which steamed at full speed through the night after a rendezvous at Akun Bay, in the Aleutian chain.

Norstad Backs Ike's Aid Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — NATO's European commander strongly backed Thursday the no-retreat-in-Berlin line taken by the alliance's foreign ministers.

But Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme allied commander in Europe, also urged Congress to keep foreign aid moving so his forces could make up for their small numbers with the best nuclear and other modern weapons.

Norstad urged the House Foreign Affairs Committee to approve President Eisenhower's nearly four billion-dollar foreign aid program.

He met for more than three hours with committee members in strict secrecy.

Afterwards, Chairman Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa) quoted Norstad as saying in effect that the NATO foreign ministers, who met here last week, had taken a stand consistent with the alliance's purposes.

Norstad's appeal for continued funds to keep NATO's armaments up to the minute was contained in a brief, censored summary of his testimony made public by the committee.

Ike Ignores Idea He End Vacation

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—A proposal that President Eisenhower end his vacation and tour unemployment areas got the silent treatment Thursday at his headquarters.

"I haven't any comment whatsoever," said press secretary James C. Hagerty.

But there was no indication the President intends to alter his vacation plans. It looks as though he will stay on at the Augusta National Golf Club for another 10 days or so, with one brief interruption.

As previously announced, Eisenhower will return to Washington Monday to speak at a Republican women's dinner. He will take part the next morning in ceremonies dedicating a memorial at the Capitol to the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

The suggestion that the President end his vacation and tour unemployment regions was made in Washington Wednesday at the AFL-CIO jobless rally attended by more than 5,000 delegates.

GOP Conclave In Early August Gains Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Substantial support for a 1960 Republican national convention starting in early August developed Thursday as the GOP National Committee prepared to open a two-day meeting Friday.

The committee will pick a convention site and elect a new chairman to replace the retiring Meade Alcorn.

Sentiment for an August convention would seem to threaten chances of Chicago as the site. That city's offer is limited to a meeting starting July 25. However, party officials still counted Chicago's chances good.

Five other cities, including Los Angeles, which came through with a formal offer late Thursday, have placed no restrictions as to date. Philadelphia, New York, Miami Beach and San Francisco are other bidders.

The question of a new chairman appears to have been settled barring any last minute developments. The matter was discussed by the party's Executive Committee in closed session Thursday and no name was mentioned in opposition to Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky. Morton is expected to be elected Saturday.

Alcorn named a committee of 10 to call on President Eisenhower at his vacation cottage in Augusta, Ga., Friday to consult him on the chairmanship.

JUPITER ISLAND, Fla. (AP) —Secretary of State John Foster Dulles went to the Palm Beach Air Force Base hospital Thursday for X-ray studies for the first time since his arrival at this resort 11 days ago.

"HOLEY SMOKE" INVENTOR—Miss Betty Lou Raskin, chemist at the radiation laboratory of Johns Hopkins University, is the inventor of a method of making plastic smoke, dubbed "holey smoke" because it is made up mostly of air. She described the technique of the new foamed plastic smoke at the meeting of the American Chemical Society in Boston. It was devised at the request of the Air Force for longer-lasting smoke for screening and signaling. It has possibilities for use in space ships and satellites. (AP Photofax)

TNT Club Outlines Plans For Meeting Activities

Meeting places for the next two months were changed and plans were made for an exchange at the meeting of the TNT Club, which was held in the form of a covered dish supper at the home of Mrs. Esther Arbogast, Goethe Street, Tuesday evening.

An old-fashioned auction is to be held at the May 5 meeting which is to be held at the home of Mrs. Anita Washburn, Bowling Green, instead of at the home of Mrs. Beatrice Bloss. The latter will be hostess for a corn roast in August at her home, Mexico Farms.

The group also made plans for a "coupon exchange." It will be held in June at the home of Jane Hoban, Bowling Green.

A hostess prize was awarded to Mrs. Jane Adams. Club sisters received gifts. Others receiving gifts were Mrs. Mary Louise Lucas, marking her anniversary; Mrs. Harriett Cooper, Mrs. Wanita Washburn, for their birthdays; and Mrs. Phyllis Fradiska for her birthday and anniversary. Policeman's Slayer Appeals

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Johnnie Brown, 37-year-old cook sentenced to die for the slaying of a Salisbury policeman, Thursday asked the Court of Appeals to reverse his conviction for first degree murder.

Patrolman Henry T. Stephens was shot through the neck as he was taking Brown to headquarters on a forgery charge. The Negro defendant claimed his gun fired accidentally while he was trying to get rid of it.

The chief argument presented to the appellate court by Brown's attorney was a claim of insufficient evidence of premeditation.

Attorney Richard M. Pollitt, appointed by the court to represent Brown, claimed the two circuit judges who heard the case should have granted his motion for a directed verdict as to murder in the first degree.

But Clayton A. Dietrich, assistant attorney general representing the state, argued that there was legally sufficient evidence from which the jury could infer Brown fired the fatal shot as part of a plan to escape.

Any adhesive material which on hardening can hold solid substances in place is called "cement," but 98 per cent of American production is "Portland" cement, so named because of its resemblance to stone from the Isle of Portland, in England.

Two Sailors Die In Crash

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Two sailors were killed and another seaman was injured Thursday when their car went out of control and hit a pole on U.S. 522.

State Police said the auto was northbound when the accident occurred just south of the Berkeley Springs town limit.

The dead were identified as Donald G. Belyew, 21, attached to the USS Neosho, and Eugene M. Gallant, 23, stationed on the guided missile cruiser Boston. Their home town addresses were not available.

Their companion, Gary E. Burson, 21, of Route 2, New Florence, Pa., was in the Morgan County Hospital here with a fractured left ankle. Burson is a member of the crew of the amphibious force flagship Pocono.

The three sailors were en route from Norfolk, Va., police said. Their car skidded about 90 feet after hitting the pole.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The temperature hit 92 at 3 p. m. in Baltimore Thursday, breaking the previous high of 87 for the date, set in April 1922.

It also was the warmest day in the city since last Sept. 26, when a 92 reading was recorded. And it was just two degrees short of the all-time high for April, a reading of 94 on April 20, 1941.

'Foolproof' Way To Play Russian Roulette Fatal

ODENTON, Md. (AP)—A 16-year-old boy was sure he had found a foolproof way to play Russian roulette. County police have ruled his death accidental shooting.

Police said the youth, Rufus Johnson, was showing a 15-year-old friend Thursday how to make the empty chamber of a revolver partly loaded revolver stop at the barrel. But he apparently failed to realize that in cocking the pistol, the barrel moves one more turn.

He put the gun to his head and pulled the trigger. He died an hour later at Ft. Meade hospital.

Law Breaks Up U. Md. Ruckus

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—A heavy spring shower and a bit of firm talk on the part of campus police broke up Thursday night what comes naturally to university students at this time of the year.

About 300 University of Maryland males started bon fires, dropped water-filled bags and firecrackers from dorm windows, whooped, shouted and otherwise got going on a ruckus traceable only to the advent of warm weather.

Just as a precaution, and after several fire alarms had been sounded by the youths, Maryland State Police were called.

Campus Police Chief Dan Wieseman, in plain clothes, and a member of his force walked into the mob and with a few well chosen words talked the students out of continuing their antics. And about that time, it started raining. This put out the bonfires and sent the would-be rioters racing for cover.

The state troopers kept their distance, and didn't make an appearance before the gathering, although they were ready to do so.

"Hostiles" Remain

Viscose Calls For Rehearing

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The American Viscose Corp. has petitioned the State Water Control Board for a rehearing on a decision holding the corporation's Front Royal plant responsible for the fish kill in the South Fork of the Shenandoah River.

The board ordered the corporation to pay $154,770—the estimated replacement value of the half million fish killed—to the board within 60 days of the March 26 ruling.

E. Blackburn Moore of Winchester, board chairman, said he will consult with the board's counsel on the petition, a copy of which was sent to Moore. Moore, speaker of the House of Delegates, presently is in Richmond for the special school session of the General Assembly.

In its petition, the corporation said the board's ruling was "unreasonable, unnecessary and illegal."

Adenauer Doesn't Intend To Quit German Affairs

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has made it plain that while he may be retiring from active politics, he has no intention of retiring from the affairs of West Germany.

He speaks of the presidency which he expects to assume as a position containing full possibilities for continued influence.

He also speaks with certainty of the continuation of his foreign policies by his successor as chancellor.

He speaks of those policies as something inherent in the West German international position, not as something attributable to the will of one man as the world has been inclined to view it because he had made them so much his own.

Adenauer, with his unyielding faith in the possibilities for a cooperating Europe, has attained leadership in that community of a type which is almost unbelievable for a German so soon after World War II.

When the Allies sponsored a constitutional convention in Bonn in 1948 with a view to establishing an autonomous West German government, Adenauer was just one of a group of seedy-looking old men. They were expected to act primarily as caretakers until new and younger democratic forces could be mobilized for the purposes of government.

Soviet fighters flew menacingly along the edges of the air corridors to Berlin that summer as the American planes broke the Berlin blockade. Europe was full of fear of a new war.

Max Reimann, West German Red leader whose gray plaid suit contrasted with the somber black of most of the older men, appeared to be the only truly vigorous delegate at the convention.

But Adenauer took over. He fought Reimann tooth and nail, and the influence of communism in West Germany was soon killed.

The old man then proceeded, over the years, to make peace between Germany and France. He won the Saar, and in return gave the hand of German cooperation to the rest of Western Europe. He forced reluctant Germans to accept rearmament and a full place in the defense of the whole community which they had so often attacked. He joined with Jean Monnet and Robert Schuman, with Paul-Henri Spaak and all the others who dreamed of a united Europe, to make the first and subsequent steps in economic cooperation.

And he stood like a rock against all the blandishments of appeasement through which Germany might have been reunited, but on terms favorable to the Soviet Union.

READY FOR A REST—West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, soon to step out as government head to run for president, was greeted with an armful of flowers on arrival in Cadenabbia, Italy, for the start of a month's vacation. Adenauer's decision to step out of the strategic chancellorship startled world diplomatic figures despite the 83-year-old statesman's reassurance that West Germany foreign policies will remain unchanged.

Mississippi Last U.S. Stronghold Of "Drys"

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Most Mississippians regard whisky as a sin to be avoided and Oklahoma's turning wet apparently isn't going to change their minds.

Oklahoma voted Tuesday to turn wet, leaving Mississippi the only dry state among the 50. Mississippi greeted the Oklahoma election results with a "so what" attitude and at least one state official indicated Mississippi won't be following suit—at least soon anyway.

All this came about as delegates from 11 statewide organizations began a three-day conference at Oxford Wednesday on how to care for alcoholics in Mississippi.

Mississippi imposes a black market tax on the liquor that is outlawed by state statutes.

The state voted prohibition into law in 1901, but the dry law soon resolved itself into a local option affair and many counties became as wet as any in the nation.

The black market tax is a 10 per cent levy of the wholesale price and a special eight per cent retail sales tax. Under the black market legislation, bootleggers have flourished.

Some 35 million U. S. families, seven million of them farm families, own automobiles.

Jaycees Name 'Outstanding Young Farmers'

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI)—Four men who have built successful farming operations virtually from scratch were named America's "outstanding young farmers" of 1958 Wednesday night by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The four, chosen by a panel of seven agriculture experts from among 49 finalists, were honored at a banquet climaxing three days of events for the state winners here.

Those honored were:

Paul Ames, 35, Indio, Calif., a citrus and sweet potato grower who also operates a farm management service and has developed numerous methods for improved farming of sandy, desert soils. Married and the father of four children, he farms 1,220 acres.

Dale Koester, 36, Lava Hot Springs, Idaho, a cattleman and general farmer who parlayed a $900 investment for a pickup truck into a $225,000 farm. Married and the father of three children, he farms 1,775 acres.

R. Sullivan Fisher, 31, Rocky Mount, N.C., who saved money from 4-H and Future Farmers of America projects and Navy service to purchase a 345-acre farm. Under his direction, tabocco and cotton production doubled and livestock increased 500 per cent in 11 years. Married and the father of one child, he farms 525 acres.

Willard V. Wilson, 31, Thermopolis, Wyo., who 12 years ago borrowed money to buy a 185-acre run-down spread and turned it into a model farm. Married and the father of two children, he farms 285 acres.

ACCIDENT FATAL

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—An accident while playing on a tree swing proved fatal to Ruth Lilly, 13, of nearby Chesapeake, Ohio, Monday. She died in a hospital here of a head injury suffered when the swing hit the tree trunk.

Adenauer Doesn't Intend To Quit German Affairs

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has made it plain that while he may be retiring from active politics, he has no intention of retiring from the affairs of West Germany.

He speaks of the presidency which he expects to assume as a position containing full possibilities for continued influence.

He also speaks with certainty of the continuation of his foreign policies by his successor as chancellor.

He speaks of those policies as something inherent in the West German international position, not as something attributable to the will of one man as the world has been inclined to view it because he had made them so much his own.

Adenauer, with his unyielding faith in the possibilities for a cooperating Europe, has attained leadership in that community of a type which is almost unbelievable for a German so soon after World War II.

When the Allies sponsored a constitutional convention in Bonn in 1948 with a view to establishing an autonomous West German government, Adenauer was just one of a group of seedy-looking old men. They were expected to act primarily as caretakers until new and younger democratic forces could be mobilized for the purposes of government.

Soviet fighters flew menacingly along the edges of the air corridors to Berlin that summer as the American planes broke the Berlin blockade. Europe was full of fear of a new war.

Max Reimann, West German Red leader whose gray plaid suit contrasted with the somber black of most of the older men, appeared to be the only truly vigorous delegate at the convention.

But Adenauer took over. He fought Reimann tooth and nail, and the influence of communism in West Germany was soon killed.

The old man then proceeded, over the years, to make peace between Germany and France. He won the Saar, and in return gave the hand of German cooperation to the rest of Western Europe. He forced reluctant Germans to accept rearmament and a full place in the defense of the whole community which they had so often attacked. He joined with Jean Monnet and Robert Schuman, with Paul-Henri Spaak and all the others who dreamed of a united Europe, to make the first and subsequent steps in economic cooperation.

And he stood like a rock against all the blandishments of appeasement through which Germany might have been reunited, but on terms favorable to the Soviet Union.

READY FOR A REST—West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, soon to step out as government head to run for president, was greeted with an armful of flowers on arrival in Cadenabbia, Italy, for the start of a month's vacation. Adenauer's decision to step out of the strategic chancellorship startled world diplomatic figures despite the 83-year-old statesman's reassurance that West Germany foreign policies will remain unchanged.

Mississippi Last U.S. Stronghold Of "Drys"

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Most Mississippians regard whisky as a sin to be avoided and Oklahoma's turning wet apparently isn't going to change their minds.

Oklahoma voted Tuesday to turn wet, leaving Mississippi the only dry state among the 50. Mississippi greeted the Oklahoma election results with a "so what" attitude and at least one state official indicated Mississippi won't be following suit—at least soon anyway.

All this came about as delegates from 11 statewide organizations began a three-day conference at Oxford Wednesday on how to care for alcoholics in Mississippi.

Mississippi imposes a black market tax on the liquor that is outlawed by state statutes.

The state voted prohibition into law in 1901, but the dry law soon resolved itself into a local option affair and many counties became as wet as any in the nation.

The black market tax is a 10 per cent levy of the wholesale price and a special eight per cent retail sales tax. Under the black market legislation, bootleggers have flourished.

Some 35 million U. S. families, seven million of them farm families, own automobiles.

Steel Union Pushes Novel Vacation Idea

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Back in 1910 steelworkers put in 70 to 85 hours a week to earn $12.50. Now, nearly 50 years later, they get $120 for a 40-hour week.

This means more ease and more spending money. But the Steelworkers Union says it hasn't yet run out of ideas.

Just the other day, Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald said he had learned of a novel vacation plan while visiting Australia recently and would try to have it adopted in this country.

Steel employers, under this Australian-style "fringe benefit," will be asked to pay for a three-month vacation for workers every five years.

McDonald says frankly it's a device to shorten the work week and help spread a dwindling number of jobs among his members.

With steel plants now approaching 100 per cent of capacity, McDonald says thousands of steelworkers laid off last year when the plants were half idled still have not been rehired because of new production efficiencies.

"This happens every time we have a recession in the steel industry," he said. "New equipment comes in and less manpower is needed. There is nothing we can do about it. This is progress. But we can find ways to keep people from being hurt."

McDonald's vacation plan and his expected wage increase and other demands are likely to run into opposition. The industry is showing every sign this year of holding out for a settlement that it can afford without having to increase prices.

As the magazine Iron Age said: "If the union attempts to gain a steel wage package requiring a steel prices increase, there will be a strike. If the steel union backs down and accepts a small raise—including fringes—there will be no strike. It's as simple as that."

Negotiations open May 18 with present contracts due to run out on June 30.

The two chief negotiators will be McDonald for the union and R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president for personnel of U. S. Steel Corp., for the industry.

This year's bargaining will start as usual with various companies dealing separately with the union. Then, as the crucial stage approaches, the industry is expected to sit down with McDonald and a similar union group.

One of the arguments the industry is already pushing is the sudden rise in foreign competition. The American steel industry has long enjoyed a favorable trade position, in which steel imports from abroad seldom were as much as a third or a fourth of exports.

A remarkable change occurred last year. Imports of iron and steel mill products which were 1,305,000 tons in 1957, jumped to 1,836,000 in 1958. Exports which amounted to 5,454,000 in 1957 dropped to 2,984,000 in 1958.

As steel bargining time approaches government officials are worrying that a strike could throw economic recovery off the track, or that a settlement may involve price boosts that could start a new wave of inflation.

In this situation, President Eisenhower may break his administration's hands-off policy toward labor troubles. He remarked the other day the steel industry and the union this time "must" bargain in such a way as to avoid a price increase. He said he wasn't going to sit idly by.

Commenting on Eisenhower's statement, Clifford Hood, president of U.S. Steel Corp., said "we will exert every effort" to avoid both an increase in employment costs and in prices.

This brought from McDonald a statement that the steel industry is "hell-bent on fomenting a strike."

"This is proof of our charge," McDonald said, "that the industry is deliberately promoting strike talk to stimulate scare buying of its products."

Murderer Dies At 91; Execution Stayed 21 Times

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-one times the execution of William (Major) McAfee for murder was stayed.

He finally died, Monday, at the age of 91, of pneumonia.

The Major, as other prisoners called him, was convicted of murder for a killing Aug. 22, 1937. An apartment house janitor, he slew a woman tenant with a furnace shaker after a prolonged bout with the bottle.

Two juries found him guilty of first-degree murder, making the death sentence mandatory. The second one returned its verdict after the first conviction was upset on technicalities.

Many appeals followed. President Roosevelt in 1939 commuted the death sentence to life imprisonment.

Pilgrimage Boom Attributed To Increased Interest In Religion, More Comfortable Travel Conditions

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — American pilgrims are traveling to shrines around the world in greater numbers than ever. They are making their journeys with ages-old reverence but in jet-age comfort.

Pilgrimages are becoming a bigger item on travel agents' agendas every year. There is at least one travel bureau whose main business is arranging Roman Catholic-sponsored pilgrimages. Airlines have set up special religious tours. Sabena, the Belgian airline, has even established a religious and educational division to look after pilgrims.

Persons engaged in the travel business attribute the pilgrimage boom partly to the interest created in the 1950 Holy Year. They also credit prosperity and cheaper, faster and more comfortable travel conditions.

Both travel experts and religious leaders said, however, that even more important factors were the increased interest in religion among Americans and a growing desire to travel with a purpose.

Tours Offer Variety

All the tours include cultural and entertainment attractions, as well as visits to shrines. Many travelers report they have enjoyed their trips abroad more because of the variety offered them.

Thomas A. Broderick, director of the Guild of Catholic Travel, said that he believed he led the first organized American pilgrimage in 1925, a holy year.

Since then, the Catholic tours have been expanded to include shrines in Portugal, Spain, France, Germany and Ireland, as well as the Holy Land, he said. Usually they are led by Roman Catholic clergymen.

Non-Catholic pilgrimages are headed by ministers, rabbis or biblical scholars.

A group of Presbyterians plans to travel to France, Italy and Switzerland in May and June to join in the observance of the 450th anniversary of the birth of Calvin. Sixty persons will pay $900 each to make the trip.

Caravans To Israel

Sabena has organized a series of caravans to Israel and Europe especially designed for individual Jewish congregations. Air France will make daily flights throughout the spring and summer from Paris to the famous shrine at Lourdes.

Trans World Airlines flies modern-day pilgrims to the Holy Land as part of package tours that also include Rome and other points along the way.

Pilgrimage prices include a nine-day trip from New York to Lourdes for 75 sick and crippled persons at a price of $738 each. A 26-day pilgrimage to Paris, Athens, Corinth, Cairo, Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Haifa, Rome, Nice and Lourdes will cost $1,485.

Several groups paid $1,435 per person for a 27-day trip to spend Palm Sunday in Rome and Easter in Jerusalem, with an audience with the Pope included.

In addition to the shrine tours, a group called Horizons Unlimited, a non-profit educational and religious service, has arranged a number of special-interest itineraries, ranging from a month to six weeks.

Include Study Tours

They include a study tour of Scandinavia and Russia devoted to educational, child development and family life projects, and a study tour of Russia for teachers, writers, social workers and clergymen. There also will be a peace and spiritual life conference tour providing social meetings with natives of seven European countries.

All these tours are paid for in advance. They include transportation, hotels and meals in most cases, leaving the pilgrims free to devote their energies to their travels.

"In bygone days, a pilgrimage to Rome or the Holy Land required determination, endurance, disregard for personal comfort, and for pilgrims from distant points, months of travel," said H. J. Verderber, TWA's tour sales director.

"Today, with the ease, speed and comfort of air travel, such pilgrimages may be conveniently undertaken by persons of average means within a few weeks."

Washington's Statuary Draws Legislator's Fire

By ROBERT A. HUNT

WASHINGTON (AP)—The capital city's many statues got a blow on their marble chins Wednesday.

In a monumental report on men and marble, Rep. Stewart L. Udall (D-Ariz) said most Washington statuary "is poorly conceived both as a work of art and a personal tribute to its subject."

The last official inventory—in 1937—showed 192 statues, monuments and memorials dotting the city's landscape, Udall said in a statement, and there probably are well over 200 now.

Next week will bring dedication of a memorial to the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) who died in 1953. It's a bell tower about one block from the old Senate Office Building.

"If the Taft bell tower is testimony that statues have gone out of fashion," Udall said, "one can be thankful." (But there'll be a full-sized statue of Taft at the base of the tower, too.)

Udall feels the country is following a tradition which came to full flower during the Roman Empire "by cluttering its capital with statues of the great, near-great and forgotten who have helped make its history."

The congressman—Arizona born, raised and educated—is a lawyer. He says adoption of one simple rule of thumb would solve the whole thing. He has introduced a resolution providing that no statue or memorial shall be erected in the capital parks system to commemorate an individual or event until at least 50 years have passed.

"A man's contemporaries are notoriously bad judges of his place in history," he observed.

Pilgrimage Boom Attributed To Increased Interest In Religion, More Comfortable Travel Conditions

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — American pilgrims are traveling to shrines around the world in greater numbers than ever. They are making their journeys with ages-old reverence but in jet-age comfort.

Pilgrimages are becoming a bigger item on travel agents' agendas every year. There is at least one travel bureau whose main business is arranging Roman Catholic-sponsored pilgrimages. Airlines have set up special religious tours. Sabena, the Belgian airline, has even established a religious and educational division to look after pilgrims.

Persons engaged in the travel business attribute the pilgrimage boom partly to the interest created in the 1950 Holy Year. They also credit prosperity and cheaper, faster and more comfortable travel conditions.

Both travel experts and religious leaders said, however, that even more important factors were the increased interest in religion among Americans and a growing desire to travel with a purpose.

Tours Offer Variety

All the tours include cultural and entertainment attractions, as well as visits to shrines. Many travelers report they have enjoyed their trips abroad more because of the variety offered them.

Thomas A. Broderick, director of the Guild of Catholic Travel, said that he believed he led the first organized American pilgrimage in 1925, a holy year.

Since then, the Catholic tours have been expanded to include shrines in Portugal, Spain, France, Germany and Ireland, as well as the Holy Land, he said. Usually they are led by Roman Catholic clergymen.

Non-Catholic pilgrimages are headed by ministers, rabbis or biblical scholars.

A group of Presbyterians plans to travel to France, Italy and Switzerland in May and June to join in the observance of the 450th anniversary of the birth of Calvin. Sixty persons will pay $900 each to make the trip.

All Not Roses When Commoner Marries Prince

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the following story, Michiko Hansen, wife of the UPI news editor in Tokyo, tells from the woman's angle that all is not roses when a girl marries a prince.

By MICHIKO HANSEN

TOKYO, Friday (UPI)—Michiko Shoda gave the Cinderella story a modern touch Friday in a ritual that not many women in Japan would choose to undertake.

Although she abandoned a commoner's status for the magic title "Her Imperial Highness, Crown Princess Michiko", the feeling was that ordeals lay ahead.

Her wedding day, in fact, was a foretaste of the trials to come, and one good reason why most of Japan's women regard her more with sympathy than envy.

It meant rising with the sun, going through two complete changes of clothing and hairdo and performing rituals for the whole panpoly of Shinto gods and Imperial ancestors.

Her wedding outfit weighed 44 pounds and hair interlaced with her own in a wig that reached to her calves weighed a few more pounds.

On top of it all, she had a bad case of bride's nerves.

"April 10th is almost here," she said on her wedding eve. "I am passing each day wrapped in an indescribable sense of tension."

Michiko was up at dawn and by 6:20 a.m. she was dressed in a western style gown. Crown Prince Akihito's chief chamberlain was at the Shoda House in southern Tokyo to drive her to the palace in a maroon Mercedes-Benz with the Imperial chrysanthemum crest on its doors.

She had a three-hour start on the Prince. She needed every minute of it—to get dressed.

Michiko's wedding garment was a 12-layered affair called a "junihitoe". Getting into the 7th Century robes and wig was a three-hour job.

There was something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue, but more by accident than by design.

The accent, of course, was on the old. The wedding garments were both old and borrowed. They originally were used by the Empress Nagako, when she was married to Hirohito 35 years ago. They are valued at more than $7,000.

200 Quit Va. Schools Since Law Repealed

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — An estimated 200 pupils under 16 have left school in Northern Virginia since the state's compulsory attendance law was repealed two months ago.

The largest number of drop-outs was reported by Fairfax County. School officials there said at least 150 have left school.

Approximately 25 have dropped out in Alexandria, 15 in Arlington, and none in Falls Church.

Many of the pupils who have left school would have dropped out as soon as they were 16, authorities said. Most of the drop-outs, they said, are slow learners, those having difficulty in school, or those whose parents have little interest in their children's education.

They said the racial factor has figured in only a few cases.

The state compulsory attendance law was repealed so that a pupil would not have to attend an integrated school. Alexandria and Arlington have limited integration. There are no integrated schools in Fairfax or Falls Church.

Vicious Cycle

CULLOMPTON, England (UPI) —Ronald Foster's motorcycle started a fire in the living room of his home.

Foster, 20, was repairing the machine when it backfired and ignited a can of gasoline. Foster's sister, Elizabeth, 7, and brother, Phillip, 4, were burned.

Advertising Prospectors Rush To Alaska And "Strike" Some Surprising Information

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Something big happens in this big, wonderful land of ours, and right away advertising men speed to the spot, looking for ways to turn some of that wonder into cold cash.

Here's Alaska, barely a state, and already it has been invaded by advertising prospectors.

Their report, made to a meeting held by the Food and Container Institute for the armed services, came in by dog sled Wednesday. And what the ad men found out may surprise even those who think they know quite a bit about Alaska.

Did you know, for instance, that the typical Alaskan is 26 years old, that he has been there for 8 to 10 years, and that he thinks it's the finest place in the world?

That the men outnumber the women by 2 to 1?

That the Alaskan has become so used to flight that two-airplane families are not uncommon?

That the birth rate up there runs 47 per cent higher than the rest of America? ("A fantastic number of kids under 10 years of age," say the ad men. "A great market for baby buggies and lollipops.")

That the rich Mantanuska Valley, with 20 hours of daily sunlight during the growing season, produces mammoth strawberries and 40-pound cabbages? Even so, 95 per cent of all food must be imported.

That prices seem fantastic even by our inflated standards? Milk costs 58 cents a quart in Fairbanks and gasoline 60 cents a gallon.

That Alaskans prove there's no truth in the old saw about how you can't sell refrigerators to Eskimos? They go in for home freezers, and beat the meat prices the way the pioneers did. "Many Alaskans," the ad men say, "hunt their own meat. On the highway it seems that four out of five cars have great racks of moose or caribou on their roofs."

That one custom of the old sourdough still prevails? According to one survey, the average Alaskan swigs eight times as much liquor as the average rest of us.

That Alaska is so big even an ad man is at loss for words when he starts to describe it? The team sent out by Benton & Bowles, a New York firm, got its first surprise quickly. Packing long underwear to go with their gray flannels, the ad men landed in Anchorage — and found it warmer than New York.

Anchorage, by the way, possibly offers the most exciting proof of what's happening in Alaska.

A town with 3,500 people before World War II, it has burst up to 80,000. And here the ad men sound as if they had been tampered with by the Alaska Chamber of Commerce. In 20 years, they say, Anchorage will have a population of more than 400,000.

One final, distressing note: There's still gold there, and platinum and uranium, too. However, it isn't any of these exotic minerals that produces the most money.

It may be hard to dream about, but there's big money in Alaska's sand and gravel.

Prays For Popes

VATICAN CITY (UPI)— Pope John XXIII prayed over the tombs of his predecessors Thursday in the grottos beneath St. Peter's Basilica.

The Pontiff made his monthly visit to the tomb of Pope Pius XII who died Oct. 9, 1958. After praying there, Pope John, accompanied by his secretary and one aide, visited the tombs of Popes Pius XI and Benedict XV for brief prayers.

He then descended to the lower floors to inspect excavations around the site where St. Peter was believed to have been buried.

Grace Leaves Clinic

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) —Princess Grace of Monaco was released from Clinic Cecil Thursday, six days after removal of an inflamed appendix.

The Princess went to the lakeside Hotel Beavurivage, where she will spend at least a week in recuperation. Her family doctor from Philadelphia, James A. Lehman, went with Grace to the hotel. He performed the appendectomy Saturday.

"April 10th is almost here," she said on her wedding eve. "I am passing each day wrapped in an indescribable sense of tension."

Michiko was up at dawn and by 6:20 a.m. she was dressed in a western style gown. Crown Prince Akihito's chief chamberlain was at the Shoda House in southern Tokyo to drive her to the palace in a maroon Mercedes-Benz with the Imperial chrysanthemum crest on its doors.

She had a three-hour start on the Prince. She needed every minute of it—to get dressed.

Michiko's wedding garment was a 12-layered affair called a "junihitoe". Getting into the 7th Century robes and wig was a three-hour job.

There was something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue, but more by accident than by design.

The accent, of course, was on the old. The wedding garments were both old and borrowed. They originally were used by the Empress Nagako, when she was married to Hirohito 35 years ago. They are valued at more than $7,000.

200 Quit Va. Schools Since Law Repealed

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — An estimated 200 pupils under 16 have left school in Northern Virginia since the state's compulsory attendance law was repealed two months ago.

The largest number of drop-outs was reported by Fairfax County. School officials there said at least 150 have left school.

Approximately 25 have dropped out in Alexandria, 15 in Arlington, and none in Falls Church.

Many of the pupils who have left school would have dropped out as soon as they were 16, authorities said. Most of the drop-outs, they said, are slow learners, those having difficulty in school, or those whose parents have little interest in their children's education.

They said the racial factor has figured in only a few cases.

The state compulsory attendance law was repealed so that a pupil would not have to attend an integrated school. Alexandria and Arlington have limited integration. There are no integrated schools in Fairfax or Falls Church.

Vicious Cycle

CULLOMPTON, England (UPI) —Ronald Foster's motorcycle started a fire in the living room of his home.

Foster, 20, was repairing the machine when it backfired and ignited a can of gasoline. Foster's sister, Elizabeth, 7, and brother, Phillip, 4, were burned.

Advertising Prospectors Rush To Alaska And "Strike" Some Surprising Information

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Something big happens in this big, wonderful land of ours, and right away advertising men speed to the spot, looking for ways to turn some of that wonder into cold cash.

Here's Alaska, barely a state, and already it has been invaded by advertising prospectors.

Their report, made to a meeting held by the Food and Container Institute for the armed services, came in by dog sled Wednesday. And what the ad men found out may surprise even those who think they know quite a bit about Alaska.

Did you know, for instance, that the typical Alaskan is 26 years old, that he has been there for 8 to 10 years, and that he thinks it's the finest place in the world?

That the men outnumber the women by 2 to 1?

That the Alaskan has become so used to flight that two-airplane families are not uncommon?

That the birth rate up there runs 47 per cent higher than the rest of America? ("A fantastic number of kids under 10 years of age," say the ad men. "A great market for baby buggies and lollipops.")

That the rich Mantanuska Valley, with 20 hours of daily sunlight during the growing season, produces mammoth strawberries and 40-pound cabbages? Even so, 95 per cent of all food must be imported.

That prices seem fantastic even by our inflated standards? Milk costs 58 cents a quart in Fairbanks and gasoline 60 cents a gallon.

That Alaskans prove there's no truth in the old saw about how you can't sell refrigerators to Eskimos? They go in for home freezers, and beat the meat prices the way the pioneers did. "Many Alaskans," the ad men say, "hunt their own meat. On the highway it seems that four out of five cars have great racks of moose or caribou on their roofs."

That one custom of the old sourdough still prevails? According to one survey, the average Alaskan swigs eight times as much liquor as the average rest of us.

That Alaska is so big even an ad man is at loss for words when he starts to describe it? The team sent out by Benton & Bowles, a New York firm, got its first surprise quickly. Packing long underwear to go with their gray flannels, the ad men landed in Anchorage — and found it warmer than New York.

Anchorage, by the way, possibly offers the most exciting proof of what's happening in Alaska.

A town with 3,500 people before World War II, it has burst up to 80,000. And here the ad men sound as if they had been tampered with by the Alaska Chamber of Commerce. In 20 years, they say, Anchorage will have a population of more than 400,000.

One final, distressing note: There's still gold there, and platinum and uranium, too. However, it isn't any of these exotic minerals that produces the most money.

It may be hard to dream about, but there's big money in Alaska's sand and gravel.

Prays For Popes

VATICAN CITY (UPI)— Pope John XXIII prayed over the tombs of his predecessors Thursday in the grottos beneath St. Peter's Basilica.

The Pontiff made his monthly visit to the tomb of Pope Pius XII who died Oct. 9, 1958. After praying there, Pope John, accompanied by his secretary and one aide, visited the tombs of Popes Pius XI and Benedict XV for brief prayers.

He then descended to the lower floors to inspect excavations around the site where St. Peter was believed to have been buried.

Grace Leaves Clinic

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) —Princess Grace of Monaco was released from Clinic Cecil Thursday, six days after removal of an inflamed appendix.

The Princess went to the lakeside Hotel Beavurivage, where she will spend at least a week in recuperation. Her family doctor from Philadelphia, James A. Lehman, went with Grace to the hotel. He performed the appendectomy Saturday.

HOLLYWOOD — The $100,000 Dore Schary planked down when he sent Leon Uris to Israel to write "Exodus" has come back threefold. It has been a best seller on every list. It is Dore's intention to make it into a motion picture.

Now Uris has left Israel and is in Warsaw, Poland, where he is writing another dramatic story, which I suppose is for Dore. Uris' Polish story is about the small, but determined group of old and young Jewish soldiers, who held off overwhelming numbers of Nazis in one of the most courageous stories of World War II. Beyond "The Story of Poland," Uris hasn't named his new epic.

I am not supposed to tell you this, but I happen to know that Natalie Wood has been tapped on the shoulder by Warner Brothers and given the news that her first picture on her return engagement at that studio will probably be "Cash McCall."

Natalie will co-star with the popular James Garner. The picture is based on a most popular book of a few years ago and offers Natalie a very nice role.

Bob and Natalie stopped in to see me just after I had heard about "Cash McCall," but she refused to make any comment other than to say it would be very nice.

An Hungarian has been added to the Carlo Ponti production of "Olympia" with Hungarian - born Michael Curtiz slated to direct the Molnar story starring Sophia Loren, Maurice Chevalier and John Gavin.

When Mike was a small boy he appeared on the stage in Vienna with his mother, who was a concert singer, and returning to Vienna for "Olympia" is like going home.

Isabel Jeans, who was so good as the aunt in the Academy Award winning "Gigi", and Angela Lansbury, who has just finished "Summer of the 17th Doll", also join the cast.

After flying to New York to talk with director Sidney Lumet about "Orpheus Descending," Producer Richard Shepherd flew back here. At Kansas City a man got on the plane, sat down beside Shepherd and introduced himself saying, "I am Harry Truman," and for the rest of the trip Richard says he never had a more stimulating traveling companion. He says the ex-President is brilliant.

Getting back to "Orpheus Descending", Anna Magnani arrives in New York on April 17 and Marlon Brando has given his word that he will be in New York June first to start rehearsals.

We're going to lose Margaret O'Brien to New York following her marriage to Bob Allen in August. While the former child star grown into such a charmer isn't giving up her career, I say she's a smart girl to go where her future husband's business calls him. Bob is being sent east by one of the big "ad" agencies with which he is taking a job when he graduates from art school in June.

The company wants him to have at least a year's training in New York—and Miss Maggie says where Bob goes, she goes. Broadway and TV appearances are open to her there and even some movies are being filmed in the east.

And still the second generation talent comes along: Wendell Corey's 14-year-old daughter, Robin, will star in "The Diary of Anne Frank" in summer stock throughout the East this summer. Need I add that Robin is a good little actress—she'd have to be to undertake the dramatically taxing role of Anne.

Wendell and Alice Corey, her proud parents, have signed to portray Mr. and Mrs. Frank in the same company that Harold J. Kennedy, summer stock impresario, is backing. The whole Corey clan heads east as soon as Wendell completes his 13 TV chapters for "Peck's Bad Girl" for CBS.

Convinced that he had no defense against a spade contract today, East decided to sacrifice. His choice of four hearts may seem daring, but actually it was sent out as a feeler. In view of West's overcall, a five diamond bid should not prove too costly, and East did not intend to stand for hearts if he ran into a double.

South's bid of four spades indicated a lack of curiosity. With the king of hearts behind the heart bidder and a void of the other adverse suit, most persons would have given consideration to slam possibilities. Possession of the ace of spades and the king of clubs by North would make the slam a virtual laydown.

Against the final contract of five spades, West opened the seven of hearts. Declarer, realizing it was a singleton, since surely East's bidding indicated a six card suit, saw that the contract was doomed by reason of the impending heart ruff. In this extremity he dropped the king of hearts under the ace. This was convincing enough for East, who returned a diamond permitting declarer to unload his losing heart.

Despite the apparent futility of trying to cash another heart trick, analysis will show that the queen of hearts is the proper play at trick two. Attempting to set up a diamond trick is an empty gesture. Declarer can have at the most only one diamond, and if West has a six card diamond suit declarer will have none. If the jack of hearts is established it will provide declarer with only one discard. And what can he discard on the jack of hearts? A club, but it is clear that one club discard will not be helpful to South, who is marked with several of that suit.

Declarer, realizing it was a singleton, since surely East's bidding indicated a six card suit, saw that the contract was doomed by reason of the impending heart ruff. In this extremity he dropped the king of hearts under the ace. This was convincing enough for East, who returned a diamond permitting declarer to unload his losing heart.

Despite the apparent futility of trying to cash another heart trick, analysis will show that the queen of hearts is the proper play at trick two. Attempting to set up a diamond trick is an empty gesture. Declarer can have at the most only one diamond, and if West has a six card diamond suit declarer will have none. If the jack of hearts is established it will provide declarer with only one discard. And what can he discard on the jack of hearts? A club, but it is clear that one club discard will not be helpful to South, who is marked with several of that suit.

Market Session Marked By Narrow Irregularity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks went through another session of narrow irregularity, with activity falling still further as Wall Street apparently hesitated in the face of uncertainty over possible federal reserve board action on margin restrictions.

Turnover totaled 2,830,000 shares for the session, compared with 3,260,000-share turnover on Wednesday and one of the least active days since last September.

There were individual strong features, and brief attempts at a rally, but the undertone continued lower. The recent selling, noticeably devoid of pressure, is attributed in part to the need of some investors to raise cash for income tax payments due on April 15.

Upside interest centered chiefly in the drug and electronics issues. Autos were firm, reflecting April production schedules at the best level in four years and reports of strong new car interest. Steels also were firm, with gains here ranging past a point in Republic and close to a point in National Steel.

Auto interest centered in Ford, which held ⅜ point of an early wider gain, and General Motors which finished unchanged on the day. Both were among the day's most active issues.

Top spot in the volume list went to Aluminum, off ½ at 27¾; Pan American, up ⅜ at 33¾; American Can, up ⅛ at 43¾ and Textron, off 1⅛ at 22. The last reflected a company plan to market a new debenture issue and additional common stock.

Among the higher features were American Home Products, up 3¼ ex-dividend, and Bristol Myers, 2⅜ higher, in the drugs. Litton, up 3¼, and Texas Instruments, 4¼ higher, in the electronics. International Harvester rose 1⅜, White Motor 2¾. James Lees 2⅛, Martin Co. 1¼, Sunbeam 3½, Ideal Cement 1⅜.

Among the wider declines, Allied Chemical lost 1½. Nopco 2 points, American Telephone ¾ point, International Paper 2¼, International Nickel 1¼.

Among rails, Baltimore & Ohio fell a point; Rock Island gained ⅞. Houston Lighting and Panhandle Eastern pipeline lost over a point, Philadelphia Electric more than 2 in utilities. American Natural Gas, however, picked up nearly 1.

Of a total 1,213 issues traded, 493 were lower, 449 higher.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—The grain futures market closed moderately uneven today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was up ¼ to up ⅝; corn off ¾ to off ¼; oats up ⅛ to ⅜; new oats unchanged to up ¼; rye off ⅜ to off 1⅛; soybeans off ⅜ to up 1¼.

Trade in wheat futures was rather slow, with May prices declining on scattered commission house selling. Leading longs bought May early, while houses with southwestern connections were early buyers of July. Light offerings were largely responsible for relative firmness of new crop contracts. Weekly crop reports stressed a need of moisture in spring wheat areas.

Corn opened firm with the help of further buying by commercial interests and selling by local traders, but the corn market weakened later. Longs sold May corn, and July selling was scattered. Receipts were larger, and the spot basis was not as strong as yesterday. Commodity credit corporation export acceptances totaled 1,980,000 bushels.

The oats market was mostly firm and quiet. Some cash house buying was apparent in May. There was scattered commission house demand for deferred contracts due to backward seeding of oats.

May rye met commission house offerings, and soybean prices were weaker after earlier steady levels. There was local and cash house selling of May and November beans, and a large commission house sold July.

Little export activity was reported yesterday.

Oils were firm, but meal easier. Outside markets were mostly steady. The range:

Economist Gives Advice On Choosing, Getting A Job

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Most graduates from high school or college wait too long before seeking jobs. The same applies to most employers who are seeking new workers. Now is the time for both prospective graduates and employers to get busy.

Watch Science Fairs

Most states are now holding Science Fairs exhibiting models and inventions by high school students of certain cities or counties. The original idea was suggested by William Guild of St. Petersburg, Fla.; but with the help of J. C. Council of the Tampa, Fla. Tribune these "Fairs" have been promoted by the leading newspapers in their vicinity. Of course, they are not "Fairs"—as they have nothing to sell—but are rather exhibits of ambitious high school students who may have worked months on their projects. This is the place for corporations and others to find students with extraordinary initiative and inventive capacity. These young people have no trouble securing good jobs or scholarships, whichever they desire.

As I read my daily newspapers I am discouraged by the crimes in which "teen-agers" are involved. It truly makes me feel that our country is "going to the devil," so to speak. But when attending one of these Science Fairs I become very optimistic about American you

Market Session Marked By Narrow Irregularity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks went through another session of narrow irregularity, with activity falling still further as Wall Street apparently hesitated in the face of uncertainty over possible federal reserve board action on margin restrictions.

Turnover totaled 2,830,000 shares for the session, compared with 3,260,000-share turnover on Wednesday and one of the least active days since last September.

There were individual strong features, and brief attempts at a rally, but the undertone continued lower. The recent selling, noticeably devoid of pressure, is attributed in part to the need of some investors to raise cash for income tax payments due on April 15.

Upside interest centered chiefly in the drug and electronics issues. Autos were firm, reflecting April production schedules at the best level in four years and reports of strong new car interest. Steels also were firm, with gains here ranging past a point in Republic and close to a point in National Steel.

Auto interest centered in Ford, which held ⅜ point of an early wider gain, and General Motors which finished unchanged on the day. Both were among the day's most active issues.

Top spot in the volume list went to Aluminum, off ½ at 27¾; Pan American, up ⅜ at 33¾; American Can, up ⅛ at 43¾ and Textron, off 1⅛ at 22. The last reflected a company plan to market a new debenture issue and additional common stock.

Among the higher features were American Home Products, up 3¼ ex-dividend, and Bristol Myers, 2⅜ higher, in the drugs. Litton, up 3¼, and Texas Instruments, 4¼ higher, in the electronics. International Harvester rose 1⅜, White Motor 2¾. James Lees 2⅛, Martin Co. 1¼, Sunbeam 3½, Ideal Cement 1⅜.

Among the wider declines, Allied Chemical lost 1½, Nopco 2 points, American Telephone ¾ point, International Paper 2¼, International Nickel 1¼.

Among rails, Baltimore & Ohio fell a point; Rock Island gained ⅞. Houston Lighting and Panhandle Eastern pipeline lost over a point, Philadelphia Electric more than 2 in utilities. American Natural Gas, however, picked up nearly 1.

Of a total 1,213 issues traded, 493 were lower, 449 higher.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—The grain futures market closed moderately uneven today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was up ¼ to up ⅝; corn off ⅝ to off ¼; oats up ⅛ to ⅜; new oats unchanged to up ¼; rye off ⅜ to off ½; soybeans off ⅝ to up 1¼.

Trade in wheat futures was rather slow, with May prices declining on scattered commission house selling. Leading longs bought May early, while houses with southwestern connections were early buyers of July. Light offerings were largely responsible for relative firmness of new crop contracts. Weekly crop reports stressed a need of moisture in spring wheat areas.

Corn opened firm with the help of further buying by commercial interests and selling by local traders, but the corn market weakened later. Longs sold May corn, and July selling was scattered. Receipts were larger, and the spot basis was not as strong as yesterday. Commodity credit corporation export acceptances totaled 1,960,000 bushels.

The oats market was mostly firm and quiet. Some cash house buying was apparent in May. There was scattered commission house demand for deferred contracts due to backward seeding of oats.

May rye met commission house offerings, and soybean prices were weaker after earlier steady levels. There was local and cash house selling of May and November beans, and a large commission house sold July.

Little export activity was reported yesterday.

Oils were firm, but meal easier. Outside markets were mostly steady. The range:

Economist Gives Advice On Choosing, Getting A Job

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Most graduates from high school or college wait too long before seeking jobs. The same applies to most employers who are seeking new workers. Now is the time for both prospective graduates and employers to get busy.

Watch Science Fairs

Most states are now holding Science Fairs exhibiting models and inventions by high school students of certain cities or counties. The original idea was suggested by William Guild of St. Petersburg, Fla.; but with the help of J. C. Council of the Tampa, Fla. Tribune these "Fairs" have been promoted by the leading newspapers in their vicinity. Of course, they are not "Fairs"—as they have nothing to sell—but are rather exhibits of ambitious high school students who may have worked months on their projects. This is the place for corporations and others to find students with extraordinary initiative and inventive capacity. These young people have no trouble securing good jobs or scholarships, whichever

"Terrific Potential"

OTTAWA (AP)—About 24 big Soviet fishing craft are expected this year on the Grand Banks off Newfoundland, says Dr. J. L. Kask, chairman of Canada's Federal Fishing Research Board. He told the Fisheries Council of Canada at its annual meeting that the Soviet ships are up to 4,000 tons and have "terrific fishing potential." Last year the Russians sent eight ships to the banks, he said.

Big Trouble In The Twenties

"This one's about Pete Kelly. It's about the world he goes around in. It's about the big music, the big trouble, and the big Twenties," says the announcer at the very opening of "Pete Kelly's Blues." Well, the prose style is self-conscious but it's promising, I thought.

The whole idea of a program set in the jazz age, in the speakeasies with all that wonderful nonsense to draw on, how could it miss? But it did. By quite a margin. It's too bad, too, and perhaps not irrevocable because "Pete Kelly's Blues" still has vast possibilities. The pictures are good. The music is great. At the opening, when we discover Pete Kelly, a cornetist in a smoky little speakeasy, with the little identification window at the door, I thought for an instant Jack Webb had really done it again.

The illusion was dispelled the minute the story got started. "We're doin' okay, playin' the second notes in the set, when I saw her. She still had a message for me," said one of those offstage narrations in the voice of the hero. From there on in, it was Mickey Spillane crossed with Bix Beiderbecke. "All right, breathe a little," says Kelly when he wants the boys to take a break. That's the way everyone talks, elliptical. But somehow it isn't quite right. And that's a shame since there's nothing more colorful than the talk of musicians when it's right. Trouble is when it's right, it's largely incomprehensible.

From the entrance of the blonde babe, who looked like a wrong note the moment I saw her, we got into cops-and-killers monkeyshines that seriously interrupted the music. Kelly is on the trail of one murder and stumbles onto another dying musician. "Who dealt this?" he asks. Another guy gets mowed down in front of our eyes.

Finally, the villain somehow contrives to shoot himself while struggling with Kelly, proving a denouement, a death scene, and one last corpse. The last corpse is a square trumpet player, a sweet and commercial musician, who beats up his lady singers. Right away you know who's going to be the bad guys in this opera. The Lawrence Welks, that's who.

"Pete Kelly's Blues" is produced and directed and, to some extent, even written by Jack Webb, who played the hero in a movie of the same name. Here Pete Kelly is played by a handsome, intent, impassive young man named William Reynolds whose acting is rudimentary. So far, most of the acting has been pretty awful. For instance, Connee Boswell, the middle girl of the great Boswell sisters of my distant youth, plays a running character called Savannah. She still sings a mean blues, that girl. Now, if she'd just swear off acting . . .

When the plot stopped to breathe, a very fine combination of musicians played "Charleston" and "Blues in F Minor" and that part was simply splendid. In fact, I think I may just tune into it every week and listen to the music. Maybe the plots will get better.

I hope so because I just love those smoke-filled settings. A program like this is for us big city fellers who are so all-fired sick of all that fresh air blowing in from the Westerns. The Twenties with their exuberance and sinful ways should be a fine backdrop for a much better series than this—at least than the first one.

I think Art Carney is a great man. On the last Chevvy show, he killed me. This last year has been especially kind to him. He's been acclaimed as a straight actor. He's got rid of that second banana status—although he was the best at that in the business. He's an entity in his own right, a comedian of rare power and distinction, and a gentleman. Now, if he'd just stay away from puppets . . .

Actually, I love to watch the Bil Baird puppets. And I'm crazy for Carney. I just don't think they mixed well Sunday. Carney played a magician in "Art Carney Meets the Sorcerer's Apprentice," which combined Ogden Nash's lyrics with Paul Dukas' original "Sorcerer's Apprentice" music. There were some witty moments but it was pretty slow and, at times, confusing. Aaah, well, maybe the kids liked it.

Paving Project Is Progressing

Street Department crews are making progress on a paving project at the Public Safety Building.

Most of the damaged concrete has been replaced and curbs partially built for grassed areas flanking the front steps of Police Headquarters.

$5½ Million In Road Work Soon To Be Under Way In Two Counties

Over 5½ million dollars in road construction soon will be under way in Allegany and Garrett counties, and more highway jobs are in prospect for the summer.

Projects in various stages of completion and one that has been awarded bring the total allocation in SRC money to $5,627,846.

George E. Geary, acting district engineer, said to be advertised soon are the northwest ramp of the Cumberland Thruway at Route 40 and Willowbrook Road; the industrial boulevard from Third Street to Williams Street; an overpass over the B&O Railroad at Wineow Street, and the section of Route 36 from Barrelville to Mt. Savage.

Also under study is a contract for which bids have been received. That is the stretch from Long on Route 40 to the Six Mile House.

The Cumberland Contracting Company is well under way on the south end of the industrial boulevard section of the Cumberland Thruway.

This 2.089-mile segment runs from Oldtown Road and along the B&O Railroad yards to Third Street. It is being built at a cost of $779,306.

The bridge across Evitts Creek, which is a part of this section, has been completed by the George Construction Company at a cost of $370,478.

The contracts due to be let this year will complete this leg of the thruway.

The S. T. Brotemarkle and Son Company will soon resume work on the widening and resurfacing of Route 40 from the old intersection of Route 36 to the vicinity of the LaVale Fire Hall. This .982-mile section is being done for a low bid of $363,810.

The other section from the fire hall to the intersection of Route 40 has been advertised and bids have been opened. But the contract has not been awarded pending a study of proposed engineering changes.

The Cumberland Contracting Company started last Monday on the widening and resurfacing of 2.37 miles of Route 50 from the entrance to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company to Spring Gap. This project will cost $349,768.

The George F. Hazelwood Company has continued work all winter on the 2.353-miles connection between the recently completed east slope of Martins Mountain. This is a $1,071,827 project. Grading is 90 per cent completed and paving will start late this month.

Modernized Route 36 from Route 40 past Corriganville will get additional work this summer when the Brotemarkle firm will widen and relocate the very hazardous section to Barrelville. The Brotemarkle company was low bidder with a price of $1,027,496.

The Hazelwood firm will begin work about May 1 on the $1,257,510 contract on Route 219 from Gortner to Oakland, and Route 135 from Oakland to Mountain Lake Park. This covers 5.789 miles.

Burkholder and Burkholder, Winchester road builders, have 75 per cent of the grading completed on Route 135 on a 2.561-mile section on the top of Backbone Mountain.

No work was done this past winter on the bridge carrying Route 219 across the B&O Railroad and the Little Youghiogheny River two miles south of Oakland.

Geary said this project being handled by David Goldberg and Sons, Uniontown, at a cost of $157,310 is about 30 per cent complete.

Big Trouble In The Twenties

"This one's about Pete Kelly. It's about the world he goes around in. It's about the big music, the big trouble, and the big Twenties," says the announcer at the very opening of "Pete Kelly's Blues." Well, the prose style is self-conscious but it's promising, I thought.

The whole idea of a program set in the jazz age, in the speakeasies with all that wonderful nonsense to draw on, how could it miss? But it did. By quite a margin. It's too bad, too, and perhaps not irrevocable because "Pete Kelly's Blues" still has vast possibilities. The pictures are good. The music is great. At the opening, when we discover Pete Kelly, a cornetist in a smoky little speakeasy, with the little identification window at the door, I thought for an instant Jack Webb had really done it again.

The illusion was dispelled the minute the story got started. "We're doin' okay, playin' the second notes in the set, when I saw her. She still had a message for me," said one of those offstage narrations in the voice of the hero. From there on in, it was Mickey Spillane crossed with Bix Beiderbecke. "All right, breathe a little," says Kelly when he wants the boys to take a break. That's the way everyone talks, elliptical. But somehow it isn't quite right. And that's a shame since there's nothing more colorful than the talk of musicians when it's right. Trouble is when it's right, it's largely incomprehensible.

From the entrance of the blonde babe, who looked like a wrong note the moment I saw her, we got into cops-and-killers monkeyshines that seriously interrupted the music. Kelly is on the trail of one murder and stumbles onto another dying musician. "Who dealt this?" he asks. Another guy gets mowed down in front of our eyes.

Finally, the villain somehow contrives to shoot himself while struggling with Kelly, proving a denouement, a death scene, and one last corpse. The last corpse is a square trumpet player, a sweet and commercial musician, who beats up his lady singers. Right away you know who's going to be the bad guys in this opera. The Lawrence Welks, that's who.

SS Manager Attending Meet

James Gwin, manager of the local office of the Social Security Administration, is attending a three-day conference of district managers at Charlottesville, Va.

Gwin said 66 district managers from Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Virginia and District of Columbia are attending the conference at the Monticello Hotel in Charlottesville. The theme of the conference is "Discussion of Ways and Means of Expediting Claims and Payments."

House Speaker Defends Adjournment

BALTIMORE (AP) — Speaker Wilkinson (D - Prince Georges) disagrees with critics of the manner in which the Maryland House of Delegates adjourned last Saturday.

"Some thought the House adjourned just a little too early," said Wilkinson, "but we didn't leave until we had taken care of all the business before us."

The Prince Georges County lawmaker said "everyone was satisfied" with the House adjournment.

Backers of legislation to increase teachers' pay and to hold a referendum on a bonus for veterans criticized the House for abruptly adjourning for the year at 6:45 p. m. Saturday, two days before the deadline for the 90-day session.

The delegates went home after approving the first-year phase of Gov. Tawes' four-year teacher pay program and after refusing to suspend their rules so that a final-passage vote might be taken on the Senate-approved bonus bill.

The Senate, most of whose members were at dinner recess and unaware that the House had adjourned, reconvened at 8 p.m. and refused to agree to the House version of the teacher pay bill. Instead, the senators approved the governor's program in its original form.

If the House had remained in session, a conference committee would have been set up to work out a compromise. But with the House adjourned, the senators angrily voted, in effect, to give the teachers no salary increase at all.

Some observers also believed that the bonus bill would have been enacted if the House had remained in session. Sixty-two delegates voted to keep the bill alive by trying to suspend the rules, compared with 11 who voted against and 48 who abstained.

To suspend the rules 82 votes are required. Only 62 are necessary for approval of a bill on final passage under normal procedure.

Sen. Phoebus (R - Somerset) charged that George H. Hocker, beer industry spokesman and advisor to Tawes, caused the bonus and teacher bills to die by premature adjournment of the House. In a floor speech Phoebus said Hocker promoted the early adjournment because he opposed the bonus bill, which would have been financed by a seven-cent hike in the three-cents-a-gallon beer tax.

Wilkinson did not comment directly on this, but he stated that proponents of the bonus bill had two attempts to keep it alive—once by trying to suspend the rules for an immediate final-passage vote, and again by moving for adjournment until Monday.

Wilkinson said Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th) had been kept abreast of House leadership plans to adjourn.

He later refused to comment when newsmen asked why Senate Majority Leader Northrop (D - Montgomery) was not also kept abreast.

"If we had not adjourned and a conference committee had been appointed on the teachers salary bill," he said, "we would have gone on through Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and might still be there," he said.

"I did not intend to end a legislative session like that."

Work Is Under Way On New PPG Project

The contract for the completion of Works 7 of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company as originally planned has been let and the contractor is working on the site.

The Mellon-Stewart Construction Company of Pittsburgh has been granted the general contract for installing the floor of the twin polishing building.

The plant had been originally planned to provide an endless and continuous ribbon of glass from the melting tank, through the grinding and polishing processes into the wareroom for cutting and shipping.

However, during the construction of the plant, a polishing department, using the conventional method of finishing one side of the glass at a time, was located off the straight-line of production.

Today, the glass is cut into large sections after going through twin grinders. Then it is taken on a 90-degree turn on a conveyor into the polishing room.

Another turn in the conveyor system is necessary before the glass winds up in the wareroom or shipping department.

As announced by company officials at the start of the construction here, the eventual aim was to install the huge twin polishers.

This is one of the greatest innovations in the production of plate glass, and Pittsburgh Plate has been pushing pilot development on the equipment.

So, when the plant was built, a large room was left vacant at the end of the twin grinder line.

This was explained to those thousands of local residents during the tour of the plant to be the future location of the twin polishers.

Mellon-Stewart has had workers on the job for the past two or three weeks, and it was reported yesterday that another contractor, Catalytic Construction Company of Philadelphia will set up a field office Monday.

Among the subcontractors on the job is the Lloyd E. Mitchell Company of Baltimore, piping contractors.

It was reported that electricians, and carpenters and laborers are on the site working.

Railway Official Visits Here

George M. Leilich, vice president-operations, of the Western Maryland Railway, is making an inspection tour of the Connellsville subdivision of the Western Division.

He was accompanied to the west end yesterday by Joseph M. Miller, Western Division superintendent.

Leilich was also a guest at the Pittsburgh Night meeting of the Tri-State Traffic Club at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club Wednesday.

Allegany Wins Chess Match

Members of the Allegany team which won their games were John Marvin, Charles Maiko, Paul Ossip, Jack Tosh, Edward Wendt, Russell Kuykendall, Ronald Glicksman and Donald McCoy. Also playing for Allegany were David Boon, James Hager and Robert Roeder.

LaSalle's matches were won by Gary Peterson, Ralph Condry and Arthur Merriott. Other LaSalle players were Raymond Mewshaw, Joseph Brookman, Walter Grabenstein, James Knight, James Schlereth, David Burke, Patrick Lynch and Raymond Whitehair.

Don't be a snob, but never compromise with good taste.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Your Own Good Taste

A girl who believes that to be a social success she must fall in line with everybody is what I call an "overboarder." She's so busy following the crowd that she completely loses sight of her own good taste, her personal sense of discrimination.

A snob, on the other hand, is always a bit upstage, with her nose so high she has to look down to see what the rest of us are doing or saying. That habit of looking down instead of around not only creates a very unpleasant impression but is hard on facial beauty as well. Looking down makes others look away from instead of up to you.

But where does propriety end and snobbishness begin? That's the question the overboarder can't answer.

She laughs at a joke that makes fun or light of another's feelings or beliefs . . . just because the crowd does. She repeats the gossip she heard . . . just because it's what the crowd is buzzing about. She never admits her real contempt for offensive conversation or manners—she's afraid the crowd might think she's a bit upstage!

The woman of good taste is neither a snob nor an overboarder. She exercises her free will and follows her own innate sense of what is right and considerate. She is never the slave of popular opinion, yet she is never guilty of attempting to make others feel inferior by pretending to be superior herself.

Having the courage to take a stand for what you know and believe to be right or kind will gain for you the center of the stage that is unattainable for both the snob and the overboarder. It is the principle that is unswervingly adhered to by leaders in both social and business life. Never compromise with your own good taste if you don't want to get lost in the mob . . . or ushered right out of the scene entirely!

This is a basic key to success. But there are many lesser points—well worth picking up. A number of these are concisely put forth in "Your Steps to a Successful Career." You may receive a copy of this booklet simply by enclosing a stamped, return envelop and 10c and writing your request to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this paper.

Work Is Under Way On New PPG Project

The contract for the completion of Works 7 of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company as originally planned has been let and the contractor is working on the site.

The Mellon-Stewart Construction Company of Pittsburgh has been granted the general contract for installing the floor of the twin polishing building.

The plant had been originally planned to provide an endless and continuous ribbon of glass from the melting tank, through the grinding and polishing processes into the wareroom for cutting and shipping.

However, during the construction of the plant, a polishing department, using the conventional method of finishing one side of the glass at a time, was located off the straight-line of production.

Today, the glass is cut into large sections after going through twin grinders. Then it is taken on a 90-degree turn on a conveyor into the polishing room.

Another turn in the conveyor system is necessary before the glass winds up in the wareroom or shipping department.

As announced by company officials at the start of the construction here, the eventual aim was to install the huge twin polishers.

This is one of the greatest innovations in the production of plate glass, and Pittsburgh Plate has been pushing pilot development on the equipment.

So, when the plant was built, a large room was left vacant at the end of the twin grinder line.

This was explained to those thousands of local residents during the tour of the plant to be the future location of the twin polishers.

Mellon-Stewart has had workers on the job for the past two or three weeks, and it was reported yesterday that another contractor, Catalytic Construction Company of Philadelphia will set up a field office Monday.

Among the subcontractors on the job is the Lloyd E. Mitchell Company of Baltimore, piping contractors.

It was reported that electricians, and carpenters and laborers are on the site working.

Railway Official Visits Here

George M. Leilich, vice president-operations, of the Western Maryland Railway, is making an inspection tour of the Connellsville subdivision of the Western Division.

He was accompanied to the west end yesterday by Joseph M. Miller, Western Division superintendent.

Leilich was also a guest at the Pittsburgh Night meeting of the Tri-State Traffic Club at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club Wednesday.

Don't be a snob, but never compromise with good taste.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Your Own Good Taste

A girl who believes that to be a social success she must fall in line with everybody is what I call an "overboarder." She's so busy following the crowd that she completely loses sight of her own good taste, her personal sense of discrimination.

A snob, on the other hand, is always a bit upstage, with her nose so high she has to look down to see what the rest of us are doing or saying. That habit of looking down instead of around not only creates a very unpleasant impression but is hard on facial beauty as well. Looking down makes others look away from instead of up to you.

But where does propriety end and snobbishness begin? That's the question the overboarder can't answer.

She laughs at a joke that makes fun or light of another's feelings or beliefs . . . just because the crowd does. She repeats the gossip she heard . . . just because it's what the crowd is buzzing about. She never admits her real contempt for offensive conversation or manners—she's afraid the crowd might think she's a bit upstage!

The woman of good taste is neither a snob nor an overboarder. She exercises her free will and follows her own innate sense of what is right and considerate. She is never the slave of popular opinion, yet she is never guilty of attempting to make others feel inferior by pretending to be superior herself.

Having the courage to take a stand for what you know and believe to be right or kind will gain for you the center of the stage that is unattainable for both the snob and the overboarder. It is the principle that is unswervingly adhered to by leaders in both social and business life. Never compromise with your own good taste if you don't want to get lost in the mob . . . or ushered right out of the scene entirely!

This is a basic key to success. But there are many lesser points—well worth picking up. A number of these are concisely put forth in "Your Steps to a Successful Career." You may receive a copy of this booklet simply by enclosing a stamped, return envelop and 10c and writing your request to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this paper.

April 15 Last Day For Clergy To File For SS

Many clergymen will lose their rights to Social Security benefits unless they do something about it before April 15, James A. Gwinn, district manager of the local Social Security office, said yesterday.

Mr. Gwinn said ministers who do not have Social Security cards should visit the office as soon as possible. He also said they should go to the nearest Internal Revenue office and ask for a waiver form which should be filled out and left at the Internal Revenue office.

If a minister takes these steps, and makes $400 or more in a year, his earnings will count toward old-age, survivors, and disability insurance benefits.

Mr. Gwinn pointed out that taking these steps will mean the minister and his dependents can get monthly benefit checks when he retires at age 65 or later. His family could get payments if he should die at any age. Also, if he becomes too disabled to do any more work he may be able to get monthly benefit checks starting at age 50.

The important thing for many ministers to keep in mind, Mr. Gwinn noted, is that time is running out. If they want social security insurance protection for themselves and their families, they should do something about it now.

Mr. Gwinn said ministers who do not have Social Security cards should visit the office as soon as possible. He also said they should go to the nearest Internal Revenue office and ask for a waiver form which should be filled out and left at the Internal Revenue office.

If a minister takes these steps, and makes $400 or more in a year, his earnings will count toward old-age, survivors, and disability insurance benefits.

Mr. Gwinn pointed out that taking these steps will mean the minister and his dependents can get monthly benefit checks when he retires at age 65 or later. His family could get payments if he should die at any age. Also, if he becomes too disabled to do any more work he may be able to get monthly benefit checks starting at age 50.

The important thing for many ministers to keep in mind, Mr. Gwinn noted, is that time is running out. If they want social security insurance protection for themselves and their families, they should do something about it now.

Time To Think Of Polio Protection

Introduction of the Salk vaccine made 1955 a turning point in the fight against paralytic polio. Will 1959 become another important year in that effort? It could be — if the public generally will cast off the 1958 apathy toward what seemed a winning fight against polio and renews its efforts to deliver the final knockout punch.

Continued apathy in 1959 would result in more twisted bodies.

The Health Information Foundation points out that a constantly rising incidence of polio in the first half of this century brought a peak of almost 58,000 cases in 1952. After perfection of the Salk vaccine in 1955 the figure fell to only 5,500 cases (2,500 paralytic) in 1957.

But the disease is not a thing of the past. There was too little use of available vaccine last year. So in 1958 the national total of polio cases rose again to more than 6,000 (3,100 paralytic).

The Salk vaccine is held to provide protection for three years or longer. The Health Information Foundation says "most of last year's victims were persons who had not been fully vaccinated." Even those who received three shots in the early years of Salk vaccine are urged to take a fourth or booster inoculation. The vaccine is reported to be more effective now.

Berlin

Public questions can be complicated by politicians and pundits until they are beyond understanding. The Berlin crisis is the product of an error made in 1944. Historic errors often lead to war or revolution; they can rarely be corrected by other means. The 1944 error was the division of Berlin into zones of occupation without a sensible arrangement for specific routes of communication between the Allied Zones in West Germany and their zones in Berlin.

The error was not due to malice; it was due to historic ignorance of Soviet Russia and a sentimental response to the nature of the Grand Alliance. Time passed. Soviet Russia became our principal enemy; West Germany became our ally.

By 1946, it was obvious that there would be no peace treaty concerning Germany. The country was divided, its Eastern sector becoming a satellite of Soviet Russia; the Western sector developed into the most stabilized state in Europe.

In 1948-9, Soviet Russia decided to challenge the right of the West to have access to Berlin. This produced the Berlin Blockade and the Airlift which Soviet Russia used as a cover for the completion of the conquest of China.

Suddenly the Western Allies discovered that they had made a frightful error; that Russia had no intention of signing a peace treaty, of making peace in Europe; that it was Soviet Russia's purpose to carry forward the Marxist creed of a universal Communist society based on dialectical materialism. Many of the leading political figures of the world were caught in an unbelievable ignorance, for after all Marxism has been upon the world since 1847 and it is to be presumed that educated men would know something about it and about the several Internationals and about the effect of Marxism on society. But the truth is that most politicians play by ear and the less they know, the less impeded they are in making decisions.

So by 1950, in the United States and Great Britain, the official attitude toward Soviet Russia changed and we entered upon the Cold War. War is war, whether hot or cold.

The term Cold War means that a war exists between the United States and Soviet Russia by other than conventional weapons of war. The weapons used in the Cold War are propaganda, corruption of officials, infiltration through Communist Parties, espionage, economic aid, military aid, fomenting local revolutions, economic competition, the distribution of gold, the provision of arms, etc. It is war for place rather than for conquest; it is also a war designed to impoverish our side by forcing excessive expenditures and inflation, while it delays for Russia the raising of the standard of living of its people.

West Germany's success has complicated the situation because it offers a show-case to all the world of the benefits of capitalism and the inability of a Marxist state to serve its own people. West Berlin is a rich, beautiful, clean city; East Berlin is a blighted area from which people flee in huge numbers.

Soviet Russia's policy has been to separate itself from the results of World War II. In the theory of dialectical materialism that which exists is an undeniable fact and when conditions have changed, the contractual basis for a relationship may become unrealistic. What is unrealistic is false, therefore cancellable. A contract which is unrealistic may be cancelled by the party that finds it unrealistic; otherwise, the party which insists upon holding on to an unrealistic contract is oppressing the other party. Therefore, the contract is null and void.

The Western mind cannot conceive of such logic and it took Western statesmen a long time to recognize that that is precisely a normal Russian mental process. It is unfortunate that some of the leaders of the Western world are incapable of believing that not all peoples think alike and that we and the Russians think differently of the same things. By "peaceful coexistence," Soviet Russia really means the inevitable development of mankind to the next stage in civilization, namely, socialism; by "peaceful coexistence," we can only understand each nation going its own way in a neighborly fashion, competing in the world markets but avoiding friction.

If one reads the American and Russian outpourings on the Berlin crisis, it is so clear that a common meaning to words and ideas has not yet been discovered.

'Now They're Getting ME Confused'

Congress To Probe Freeze-Out Of Small Business In Missiles

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — In all the Congressional probes of national defense no one has put the finger on one reason the cost of defense is so high. This is the increasing monopolization of defense orders by big business and the steady freeze-out of little business.

At long last, however, Congressman Eddie Hebert of New Orleans, the defense watchdog, is calling two of the big airplane companies, Lockheed and North American Aviation, to see why 84 per cent of the new missile manufacture, plus missile parts, have been going to the giants of industry—in many cases without competitive bids.

Hebert will probe, among other things, charges that the big missile manufacturers have hundreds of millions of dollars worth of unfilled government orders, dating back to seven years. Some are reported so long unfilled that the missile parts are obsolete.

Meanwhile the big corporations have not farmed out subcontracts to small companies.

The Congressman also wants to investigate charges that the big corporations have been holding back missile parts specifications so small companies can't bid.

One witness who will be hauled up before Congress for special cross-examination is A. C. Lazure, general counsel of Army Ordnance, and a key figure in the Army's missile procurement.

When George Estok, Bridgeport, Conn., electronic manufacturer, complained to Lazure that he and other small producers were being denied missile parts contracts by Army Ordnance, Lazure sharply countered:

"You have no inherent right to expect military contracts."

"I agree that I have no inherent right to contracts," replied Estok, "but I do have a right to bid on them. My firm and other small producers, however, which are able to produce quickly and cheaply, are not given even a chance to bid."

Note — After Congressman Hebert finishes with Lockheed and North American he has some other big defense contractors on his list for investigation.

Difficult Old Men

British leaders have been complaining privately but vigorously about the problem of dealing with old men. They don't say much about elderly, ailing John Foster Dulles or elderly President Eisenhower — though the British press has. But they do say plenty about 83-year-old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of Germany.

In fact, Prime Minister Macmillan, who is two decades younger than Adenauer, has been making bitter cracks about the German Chancellor. Adenauer, in turn, has been making cracks about Macmillan. British circles compare Adenauer to another 83-year-old ruler of another divided country—President Syngman Rhee of South Korea who also refuses to compromise.

Macmillan has complained privately that Adenauer welshed on their agreement to offer concessions at the summit which might lead to a realistic German settlement.

In his own private conversations, Adenauer has snorted that Macmillan must learn Britain is no longer the leader on the European continent. Adenauer has found French President Charles de Gaulle, a stern old leader like himself, more to his liking. They have agreed to dominate western policy on the continent and leave Britain out in the Atlantic where they think she belongs.

"Adenauer can't make up his mind. He wants the status quo until he can decide what his position is," Lloyd complained privately. This unyielding attitude, he charged, was a betrayal of Adenauer's promise to Macmillan.

"Dulles is siding with Adenauer, who is his old and dear friend," Lloyd added sourly, referring to the American Secretary of State. "De Gaulle is also siding with Adenauer."

The British Foreign Minister acknowledged that it was useless to take a flexible position at the summit without Adenauer's consent.

Since then, Adenauer has agreed to become President of West Germany, but effective in October—only after the summit conference.

The Less Heralded Taft

Around Washington, the name "Taft" is usually associated with William Howard Taft, the President of the United States who succeeded Teddy Roosevelt; or with the name of his son, Robert, the late Senator from Ohio. However, Bob Taft's younger brother, Charlie, also has served his fellow men.

Charlie Taft began, 32 years ago, working on the Cincinnati City Council, has been Mayor of Cincinnati, prosecutor for Hamilton Cohnty, has helped make his home town one of the cleanest and best-governed in the USA.

In addition, Charlie Taft served under the Roosevelt administration during the war as Director of U.S. Community War Services, Director of Wartime Economics, and in various unspectacular but necessary jobs. Later when Ike wanted someone to sell unpopular foreign aid to the nation, he drafted Charlie Taft. And when he wanted someone to sell reciprocal trade to the nation, again he drafted Charlie Taft.

So the other day in Cincinnati the Eternal Light Award, given by the Jewish Theological Seminary of America to those who have helped the cause of brotherhood and human dignity, went to the less heralded member of the Taft family for his efforts in making democracy live.

Supreme Court Upholds Segregation Of Sexes

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Segregation of men or women in schools controlled by state authority has just been upheld, in effect, by the Supreme Court of the United States. Two white women were denied enrollment in an all-male state college in Texas.

This ruling would not have occasioned any surprise five years ago, because the states previously were allowed to use their own discretion in deciding what pupils should be admitted to public educational institutions.

But, in view of the fact that the Supreme Court in 1954 said that discrimination on account of race or color could produce a feeling of "inferiority" and that mixed classes are beneficial from an educational standpoint, the query now is whether women haven't just as much right to use that argument with respect to discrimination against them because of sex. In fact, in appealing the current case of the Supreme Court, the two women cited the 1954 decision and argued that a woman is a "person" just as much as is a Negro. They pointed out that the Fourteenth Amendment says "all persons born or naturalized in the United States" are citizens.

"Are women people?" was the heading of a weekly column by the late Alice Duer Miller, famous novelist, more than 40 years ago in what was then the New York "Tribune." The question was finally answered by the adoption in 1920 of the Nineteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which declares:

"The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Many of us true liberals—or "Progressives," as we were known in those days—had not thought an amendment was necessary because the Fourteenth Amendment had already forbidden the states to deny the "equal protection of the laws" and had said the "privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States" cannot be abridged by any state. Certainly women were entitled to be classified as citizens.

But, since neither voting nor sex nor color nor education was mentioned in the Fourteenth Amendment, the Supreme Court of the United States by its decisions indicated that these subjects would have to be treated separately in other amendments. In fact, the Fifteenth Amendment—which declares that voting rights shall not be denied or abridged on account of race or color—was adopted a year later than the Fourteenth because it was desired by Congress to make clear that voting rights, usually prescribed by the states, should not be abridged because of race or color.

So, inasmuch as there was no tendency in those days to rely on the Supreme Court to amend the Constitution to give women the "equal protection of the laws" in respect to voting rights, even though they are citizens, many of us enthusiastically supported the adoption of the Nineteenth Amendment that would at last—as we thought—put women on a basis of equality with men.

But the Supreme Court this week has dashed our hopes once more. Evidently, because discrimination in educational institutions of a public character by reason of sex was not mentioned in the Fourteenth Amendment, it will be necessary to seek a new amendment that will forbid the exclusion of any female citizen from such schools.

It is, to be sure, the principle of the thing which is bothersome. Many women prefer to go to separate schools—in fact, some believe their opportunities for an education are much better when what they consider the lower intelligence quotient of the male sex is not present in the classroom. But even those women who may feel that way about their superiority will not relish any court ruling which says, in effect, that they can be barred by law from associating in the schoolroom with members of the opposite sex. They have never believed that any physical characteristic should diminish their rights as citizens.

There may be some men, too, who will object to the discrimination and who would prefer desegregation of the sexes. But the Supreme Court has spoken, and its decisions and rulings must be obeyed, for they are "the law of the land." These are days, moreover, when the Supreme Court as an institution must not be "undermined." Indeed, there have recently been outcries that the rulings of the highest court must not even be subjected to severe criticism.

So the alternative is to abide by the ruling and try for a Constitutional amendment which will give women the equality they had long thought they already possessed as citizens. But they must be careful not to agitate too vigorously, lest they be charged with "massive resistance."

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — This town is a pressed rose in the book of American history. The morning sun slants across old rooftops and picks up the black barrels of cold cannon in the fields around. They are still ready, but the men have gone. They left on July 4, 1863, when the three-day battle was done. Some are still upon the hill, resting.

Lee departed to the west and south, with thousands of bayonets glinting in the summer sun. His train of wounded was 17 miles long. Meade, the Union general, counted 10,000 bodies on the field. In the town of Gettysburg, 21,000 men moaned for mercy in the churches as army doctors removed arms and legs and reset shattered bones.

This was the big battle between the brothers. If General Lee had won it decisively, there is no doubt that he would have turned his gallant greys down the Baltimore Turnpike to Washington and this country, today, might have been divided into several nations.

It was not to be. Robert E. Lee was the best general on the field on those three hot July mornings. He may have been the best soldier too. But his subordinates were slow. Jubal Early couldn't seem to get the drive from his corps that he had in earlier engagements. Longstreet's morning attack didn't start until the sun was over Cumberland Gap. Pickett's heroes trotted across a mile of open fields to where the Union men waited behind low stone walls to kill them. Jeb Stuart's cavalry couldn't be found.

It was not to be. Today, except for automobiles and television antennae, Gettysburg looks as it did in 1863. The Western Maryland Railroad station is as it was that November, when the melancholy man in the stove pipe hat stepped down to dedicate the new national cemetery. He wrote his simple speech "Four score and seven years ago" in a second floor bedroom on the square and attended services in the Presbyterian Church at Baltimore and High.

A week ago, a newer President sat in his farm, two miles southwest, and wrote a foreign policy speech to be delivered at Gettysburg College. He too attended services at the same church, sitting three pews behind where Lincoln asked for help.

In the woods near Culp's Hill, a stone monument at the bottom of the glen is dedicated to a Maryland Regiment that stormed the heights for the South. At the top of the hill, a monument is dedicated to the Maryland Regiment that fought for the North and repulsed the attack. Proudest of all were the men of North Carolina. One out of every four who fell on this battlefield for the South came from that state.

Still, it was the last of the battles between gentlemen. A Southern officer, spotting a wounded Union general, talked to him and, learning that the Northern officer's wife was a nurse somewhere on the field, went to fetch her so that she could bind her husband's wounds.

Both forces had sharpshooters inside the town, but killed only one civilian. She was Jenny Wade, 20. Her older sister was pregnant. Jenny remained in the house with her, and was kneading dough. A bullet splintered through two doors to find her.

There are two thousand monuments on the fields, each one telling which unit of what state fought that piece of ground. Across a mile of meadow grass, General Lee sits his bronze horse, facing Meade on the little heights. At the bloody angle, a little hummock of trees is enclosed by an iron fence. This was the high-water mark of the Confederacy.

Here, the Southerners broke through the lines and a general stood on a fieldstone wall and said: "Give them the cold steel, boys." He died there. They did too. Off to the left is where Union General Dan Sickles lost a leg, and rode around the battlefield on the shattered remnant. Almost at the base of Little Roundtop, my father's old regiment, the 4th N. J. Volunteers, bled red on the gray rocks.

Among the statues on these fields is an accident of history. The bronzes come from many sculptors in many states. The generals are all on horseback. Long ago, Editor Paul Roy of the Gettysburg Times noticed that the statues of generals who lived through this battle have horses with all four hooves down. Every general who was wounded has a horse with one hoof lifted. Generals who died here have horses with two hooves lifted.

At the foot of Culp's Hill is a vagrant stream called Spangler's Spring. After the second day of battle, when the sun was down, soldiers of the blue and grey filled their canteens. The weary men eyed each other, but no one drew a gun, none uttered a mean word.

The words in bronze on the North Carolina monument could be said for all the men who fought here: "To the eternal glory of the North Carolina soldiers, who on this battlefield displayed heroism unsurpassed, sacrificing all in support of their cause, their valorous deeds will be enshrined in the hearts of men long after these transient memorials have crumbled into dust . . ."

There was enough glory here for all. And enough heartache too . . .

Frozen Foods Require Temperature Control

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The frozen food industry is highly competitive and costly to operate. The items lose their quality and nutritive value unless they are kept in a frozen state in the warehouse and during distribution and merchandising.

These services represent 50 per cent of the retail cost of a package of frozen food. But, despite the high cost of handling, the housewife can find many bargains because competition is so keen.

The food chemist, John P. Nielsen, in an article in the Journal of the American Dietetic association, writes about a number of ways to tell whether frozen foods have been maintained at the ideal storage temperature of 0 degrees F.

He says: "Peaches turn brown, especially at the ends of the package; strawberries develop an off flavor and color; raspberries bleed their red color into the syrup; cherries turn dark brown; orange juice concentrate loses its cloud and settles out rapidly when reconstituted. Vegetables lose their bright green color. Frost formation around the loose-packed vegetables often is apparent. Poultry darkens and may show dehydration. The fat under the skin becomes rancid, which is noticeable on cooking. Chemically, determination of ascorbic acid in fruits and vegetables is a good indicator of mishandling."

Why is this important? The nutritional loss that occurs when foods are frozen is approximately the same as when they are canned. The decrease in quality should be negligible, even after storage for a year, provided the temperature remains at 0 degrees F. There is a threefold loss in quality when the temperature is raised to 10 degrees and it is 60 times greater when stored at 30 degrees.

At ordinary refrigerator temperature (20 degrees F.) the loss is 15 times as great as in a deep-freeze. Storage for six days at 30 degrees leads to the same amount of deterioration as storage for one year at 0 degrees. Furthermore, at this temperature, germs multiply and spoilage takes place.

WHOOPLESS COUGH

D. F. writes: Can a tot have whooping cough without a whoop?

REPLY

Yes. Mild whooping cough may not be associated with this manifestation. The whoop is absent also during the early stages of the disease.

CHILI-MILK

J. M. writes: Is it safe to drink milk with a chili supper?

REPLY

Yes, and the milk may cool it off.

REACTS STRONGLY

R. F. writes: What do you mean by a hyper-reactor to cold?

REPLY

There are two possibilities. Some individuals are so sensitive to cold the skin blanches and becomes numb when they are exposed to moderately low temperatures. The other possibility is a physical allergy to cold. The man or woman who is bothered along this line develops a hivelike reaction whenever contact is made with something cold, such as a piece of ice or a cold bottle.

ATTACKS OF HICCUPS

W. J. writes: Every now and then I get hiccups. Whenever I ask my doctor about it, he says I will have to have hiccups in his office before he can tell me what to do. But they never come on there. Can you tell me what to do?

REPLY

Your physician is either skeptical or wise or both. He could give you medicine but I'm sure is holding off until you develop another long siege. He is acting in this manner to keep you from rushing to the medicine cabinet whenever you feel a hic coming on.

NEWBORN PRESENTATION

Mrs. G. writes: My last child was a posterior birth. I'm wondering if my current pregnancy also will be posterior.

REPLY

Unless a pelvic defect exists, there is every reason to believe that your next baby will present itself in the usual way.

WHAT'LL YOU HAVE?

E. W. writes: In your health hint you say "Drink what you need, not what you want." Did you refer to water?

REPLY

No—firewater. Since the need for alcohol seldom exists, my hint was supposed to be a subtle way of advising that the intake of this chemical be restricted.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

During his career as a law man in the Rocky Mountain area, where he personally arrested more than 3,000 culprits, Gen. D. J. Cook (of the Colorado Militia) adhered strictly to one frequently enunciated principle: "Never hit a prisoner over the head with your pistol, because you may afterwards want to use your weapon and find it disabled."

The story of Gen. Cook's battles with horse thieves, murderers, road agents, etc., from 1859 to 1882, is told in a new University of Oklahoma publication called "Hands Up."

From a pep talk delivered by the president of a banking group in Arizona: "One day as I sat musing, a kindly voice came to me from out of the gloom, counselling, 'Cheer up, things could be worse.' And so, gentlemen, I cheered up — and sure enough things got worse."

Many of the leading political figures of the world were caught in an unbelievable ignorance, for after all Marxism has been upon the world since 1847 and it is to be presumed that educated men would know something about it and about the several Internationals and about the effect of Marxism on society. But the truth is that most politicians play by ear and the less they know, the less impeded they are in making decisions.

So by 1950, in the United States and Great Britain, the official attitude toward Soviet Russia changed and we entered upon the Cold War. War is war, whether hot or cold.

The term Cold War means that a war exists between the United States and Soviet Russia by other than conventional weapons of war. The weapons used in the Cold War are propaganda, corruption of officials, infiltration through Communist Parties, espionage, economic aid, military aid, fomenting local revolutions, economic competition, the distribution of gold, the provision of arms, etc. It is war for place rather than for conquest; it is also a war designed to impoverish our side by forcing excessive expenditures and inflation, while it delays for Russia the raising of the standard of living of its people.

West Germany's success has complicated the situation because it offers a show-case to all the world of the benefits of capitalism and the inability of a Marxist state to serve its own people. West Berlin is a rich, beautiful, clean city; East Berlin is a blighted area from which people flee in huge numbers.

Soviet Russia's policy has been to separate itself from the results of World War II. In the theory of dialectical materialism that which exists is an undeniable fact and when conditions have changed, the contractual basis for a relationship may become unrealistic. What is unrealistic is false, therefore cancellable. A contract which is unrealistic may be cancelled by the party that finds it unrealistic; otherwise, the party which insists upon holding on to an unrealistic contract is oppressing the other party. Therefore, the contract is null and void.

The Western mind cannot conceive of such logic and it took Western statesmen a long time to recognize that that is precisely a normal Russian mental process. It is unfortunate that some of the leaders of the Western world are incapable of believing that not all peoples think alike and that we and the Russians think differently of the same things. By "peaceful coexistence," Soviet Russia really means the inevitable development of mankind to the next stage in civilization, namely, socialism; by "peaceful coexistence," we can only understand each nation going its own way in a neighborly fashion, competing in the world markets but avoiding friction.

If one reads the American and Russian outpourings on the Berlin crisis, it is so clear that a common meaning to words and ideas has not yet been discovered.

Congress To Probe Freeze-Out Of Small Business In Missiles

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — In all the Congressional probes of national defense no one has put the finger on one reason the cost of defense is so high. This is the increasing monopolization of defense orders by big business and the steady freeze-out of little business.

At long last, however, Congressman Eddie Hebert of New Orleans, the defense watchdog, is calling two of the big airplane companies, Lockheed and North American Aviation, to see why 84 per cent of the new missile manufacture, plus missile parts, have been going to the giants of industry—in many cases without competitive bids.

Hebert will probe, among other things, charges that the big missile manufacturers have hundreds of millions of dollars worth of unfilled government orders, dating back to seven years. Some are reported so long unfilled that the missile parts are obsolete.

Meanwhile the big corporations have not farmed out subcontracts to small companies.

The Congressman also wants to investigate charges that the big corporations have been holding back missile parts specifications so small companies can't bid.

One witness who will be hauled up before Congress for special cross-examination is A. C. Lazure, general counsel of Army Ordnance, and a key figure in the Army's missile procurement.

When George Estok, Bridgeport, Conn., electronic manufacturer, complained to Lazure that he and other small producers were being denied missile parts contracts by Army Ordnance, Lazure sharply countered:

"You have no inherent right to expect military contracts."

"I agree that I have no inherent right to contracts," replied Estok, "but I do have a right to bid on them. My firm and other small producers, however, which are able to produce quickly and cheaply, are not given even a chance to bid."

Note — After Congressman Hebert finishes with Lockheed and North American he has some other big defense contractors on his list for investigation.

Difficult Old Men

British leaders have been complaining privately but vigorously about the problem of dealing with old men. They don't say much about elderly, ailing John Foster Dulles or elderly President Eisenhower — though the British press has. But they do say plenty about 83-year-old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of Germany.

In fact, Prime Minister Macmillan, who is two decades younger than Adenauer, has been making bitter cracks about the German Chancellor. Adenauer, in turn, has been making cracks about Macmillan. British circles compare Adenauer to another 83-year-old ruler of another divided country—President Syngman Rhee of South Korea who also refuses to compromise.

Macmillan has complained privately that Adenauer welshed on their agreement to offer concessions at the summit which might lead to a realistic German settlement.

In his own private conversations, Adenauer has snorted that Macmillan must learn Britain is no longer the leader on the European continent. Adenauer has found French President Charles de Gaulle, a stern old leader like himself, more to his liking. They have agreed to dominate western policy on the continent and leave Britain out in the Atlantic where they think she belongs.

Meanwhile British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd left last week's NATO negotiations in Washington grumbling over Adenauer's attitude.

"Adenauer can't make up his mind. He wants the status quo until he can decide what his position is," Lloyd complained privately. This unyielding attitude, he charged, was a betrayal of Adenauer's promise to Macmillan.

"Dulles is siding with Adenauer, who is his old and dear friend," Lloyd added sourly, referring to the American Secretary of State. "De Gaulle is also siding with Adenauer."

The British Foreign Minister acknowledged that it was useless to take a flexible position at the summit without Adenauer's consent.

Since then, Adenauer has agreed to become President of West Germany, but effective in October—only after the summit conference.

The Less Heralded Taft

Around Washington, the name "Taft" is usually associated with William Howard Taft, the President of the United States who succeeded Teddy Roosevelt; or with the name of his son, Robert, the late Senator from Ohio. However, Bob Taft's younger brother, Charlie, also has served his fellow men.

Charlie Taft began, 32 years ago, working on the Cincinnati City Council, has been Mayor of Cincinnati, prosecotor for Hamilton Cohnty, has helped make his home town one of the cleanest and best-governed in the USA.

In addition, Charlie Taft served under the Roosevelt administration during the war as Director of U.S. Community War Services, Director of Wartime Economics, and in various unspectacular but necessary jobs. Later when Ike wanted someone to sell unpopular foreign aid to the nation, he drafted Charlie Taft. And when he wanted someone to sell reciprocal trade to the nation, again he drafted Charlie Taft.

So the other day in Cincinnati the Eternal Light Award, given by the Jewish Theological Seminary of America to those who have helped the cause of brotherhood and human dignity, went to the less heralded member of the Taft family for his efforts in making democracy live.

Supreme Court Upholds Segregation Of Sexes

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Segregation of men or women in schools controlled by state authority has just been upheld, in effect, by the Supreme Court of the United States. Two white women were denied enrollment in an all-male state college in Texas.

This ruling would not have occasioned any surprise five years ago, because the states previously were allowed to use their own discretion in deciding what pupils should be admitted to public educational institutions.

But, in view of the fact that the Supreme Court in 1954 said that discrimination on account of race or color could produce a feeling of "inferiority" and that mixed classes are beneficial from an educational standpoint, the query now is whether women haven't just as much right to use that argument with respect to discrimination against them because of sex. In fact, in appealing the current case of the Supreme Court, the two women cited the 1954 decision and argued that a woman is a "person" just as much as is a Negro. They pointed out that the Fourteenth Amendment says "all persons born or naturalized in the United States" are citizens.

"Are women people?" was the heading of a weekly column by the late Alice Duer Miller, famous novelist, more than 40 years ago in what was then the New York "Tribune." The question was finally answered by the adoption in 1920 of the Nineteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which declares:

"The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Many of us true liberals—or "Progressives," as we were known in those days—had not thought an amendment was necessary because the Fourteenth Amendment had already forbidden the states to deny the "equal protection of the laws" and had said the "privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States" cannot be abridged by any state. Certainly women were entitled to be classified as citizens.

But, since neither voting nor sex nor color nor education was mentioned in the Fourteenth Amendment, the Supreme Court of the United States by its decisions indicated that these subjects would have to be treated separately in other amendments. In fact, the Fifteenth Amendment—which declares that voting rights shall not be denied or abridged on account of race or color—was adopted a year later than the Fourteenth because it was desired by Congress to make clear that voting rights, usually prescribed by the states, should not be abridged because of race or color.

So, inasmuch as there was no tendency in those days to rely on the Supreme Court to amend the Constitution to give women the "equal protection of the laws" in respect to voting rights, even though they are citizens, many of us enthusiastically supported the adoption of the Nineteenth Amendment that would at last—as we thought—put women on a basis of equality with men.

But the Supreme Court this week has dashed our hopes once more. Evidently, because discrimination in educational institutions of a public character by reason of sex was not mentioned in the Fourteenth Amendment, it will be necessary to seek a new amendment that will forbid the exclusion of any female citizen from such schools.

It is, to be sure, the principle of the thing which is bothersome. Many women prefer to go to separate schools—in fact, some believe their opportunities for an education are much better when what they consider the lower intelligence quotient of the male sex is not present in the classroom. But even those women who may feel that way about their superiority will not relish any court ruling which says, in effect, that they can be barred by law from associating in the schoolroom with members of the opposite sex. They have never believed that any physical characteristic should diminish their rights as citizens.

There may be some men, too, who will object to the discrimination and who would prefer desegregation of the sexes. But the Supreme Court has spoken, and its decisions and rulings must be obeyed, for they are "the law of the land." These are days, moreover, when the Supreme Court as an institution must not be "undermined." Indeed, there have recently been outcries that the rulings of the highest court must not even be subjected to severe criticism.

So the alternative is to abide by the ruling and try for a Constitutional amendment which will give women the equality they had long thought they already possessed as citizens. But they must be careful not to agitate too vigorously, lest they be charged with "massive resistance."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — This town is a pressed rose in the book of American history. The morning sun slants across old rooftops and picks up the black barrels of cold cannon in the fields around. They are still ready, but the men have gone. They left on July 4, 1863, when the three-day battle was done. Some are still upon the hill, resting.

Lee departed to the west and south, with thousands of bayonets glinting in the summer sun. His train of wounded was 17 miles long. Meade, the Union general, counted 10,000 bodies on the field. In the town of Gettysburg, 21,000 men moaned for mercy in the churches as army doctors removed arms and legs and reset shattered bones.

This was the big battle between the brothers. If General Lee had won it decisively, there is no doubt that he would have turned his gallant greys down the Baltimore Turnpike to Washington and this country, today, might have been divided into several nations.

It was not to be. Robert E. Lee was the best general on the field on those three hot July mornings. He may have been the best soldier too. But his subordinates were slow. Jubal Early couldn't seem to get the drive from his corps that he had in earlier engagements. Longstreet's morning attack didn't start until the sun was over Cumberland Gap. Pickett's heroes trotted across a mile of open fields to where the Union men waited behind low stone walls to kill them. Jeb Stuart's cavalry couldn't be found.

It was not to be. Today, except for automobiles and television antennae, Gettysburg looks as it did in 1863. The Western Maryland Railroad station is as it was that November, when the melancholy man in the stove pipe hat stepped down to dedicate the new national cemetery. He wrote his simple speech "Four score and seven years ago" in a second floor bedroom on the square and attended services in the Presbyterian Church at Baltimore and High.

A week ago, a newer President sat in his farm, two miles southwest, and wrote a foreign policy speech to be delivered at Gettysburg College. He too attended services at the same church, sitting three pews behind where Lincoln asked for help.

In the woods near Culp's Hill, a stone monument at the bottom of the glen is dedicated to a Maryland Regiment that stormed the heights for the South. At the top of the hill, a monument is dedicated to the Maryland Regiment that fought for the North and repulsed the attack. Proudest of all were the men of North Carolina. One out of every four who fell on this battlefield for the South came from that state.

Still, it was the last of the battles between gentlemen. A Southern officer, spotting a wounded Union general, talked to him and, learning that the Northern officer's wife was a nurse somewhere on the field, went to fetch her so that she could bind her husband's wounds.

Both forces had sharpshooters inside the town, but killed only one civilian. She was Jenny Wade, 20. Her older sister was pregnant. Jenny remained in the house with her, and was kneading dough. A bullet splintered through two doors to find her.

There are two thousand monuments on the fields, each one telling which unit of what state fought that piece of ground. Across a mile of meadow grass, General Lee sits his bronze horse, facing Meade on the little heights. At the bloody angle, a little hummock of trees is enclosed by an iron fence. This was the high-water mark of the Confederacy.

Here, the Southerners broke through the lines and a general stood on a fieldstone wall and said: "Give them the cold steel, boys." He died there. They did too. Off to the left is where Union General Dan Sickles lost a leg, and rode around the battlefield on the shattered remnant. Almost at the base of Little Roundtop, my father's old regiment, the 4th N. J. Volunteers, bled red on the gray rocks.

Among the statues on these fields is an accident of history. The bronzes come from many sculptors in many states. The generals are all on horseback. Long ago, Editor Paul Roy of the Gettysburg Times noticed that the statues of generals who lived through this battle have horses with all four hooves down. Every general who was wounded has a horse with one hoof lifted. Generals who died here have horses with two hooves lifted.

At the foot of Culp's Hill is a vagrant stream called Spangler's Spring. After the second day of battle, when the sun was down, soldiers of the blue and grey filled their canteens. The weary men eyed each other, but no one drew a gun, none uttered a mean word.

The words in bronze on the North Carolina monument could be said for all the men who fought here: "To the eternal glory of the North Carolina soldiers, who on this battlefield displayed heroism unsurpassed, sacrificing all in support of their cause, their valorous deeds will be enshrined in the hearts of men long after these transient memorials have crumbled into dust . . ."

There was enough glory here for all. And enough heartache too . . .

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The frozen food industry is highly competitive and costly to operate. The items lose their quality and nutritive value unless they are kept in a frozen state in the warehouse and during distribution and merchandising.

These services represent 50 per cent of the retail cost of a package of frozen food. But, despite the high cost of handling, the housewife can find many bargains because competition is so keen.

The food chemist, John P. Nielsen, in an article in the Journal of the American Dietetic association, writes about a number of ways to tell whether frozen foods have been maintained at the ideal storage temperature of 0 degrees F.

He says: "Peaches turn brown, especially at the ends of the package; strawberries develop an off flavor and color; raspberries bleed their red color into the syrup; cherries turn dark brown; orange juice concentrate loses its cloud and settles out rapidly when reconstituted. Vegetables lose their bright green color. Frost formation around the loose-packed vegetables often is apparent. Poultry darkens and may show dehydration. The fat under the skin becomes rancid, which is noticeable on cooking. Chemically, determination of ascorbic acid in fruits and vegetables is a good indicator of mishandling."

Why is this important? The nutritional loss that occurs when foods are frozen is approximately the same as when they are canned. The decrease in quality should be negligible, even after storage for a year, provided the temperature remains at 0 degrees F. There is a threefold loss in quality when the temperature is raised to 10 degrees and it is 60 times greater when stored at 30 degrees.

At ordinary refrigerator temperature (20 degrees F.) the loss is 15 times as great as in a deep-freeze. Storage for six days at 30 degrees leads to the same amount of deterioration as storage for one year at 0 degrees. Furthermore, at this temperature, germs multiply and spoilage takes place.

WHOOPLESS COUGH

D. F. writes: Can a tot have whooping cough without a whoop?

REPLY

Yes. Mild whooping cough may not be associated with this manifestation. The whoop is absent also during the early stages of the disease.

CHILI-MILK

J. M. writes: Is it safe to drink milk with a chili supper?

REPLY

Yes, and the milk may cool it off.

REACTS STRONGLY

R. F. writes: What do you mean by a hyper-reactor to cold?

REPLY

There are two possibilities. Some individuals are so sensitive to cold the skin blanches and becomes numb when they are exposed to moderately low temperatures. The other possibility is a physical allergy to cold. The man or woman who is bothered along this line develops a hivelike reaction whenever contact is made with something cold, such as a piece of ice or a cold bottle.

ATTACKS OF HICCUPS

W. J. writes: Every now and then I get hiccups. Whenever I ask my doctor about it, he says I will have to have hiccups in his office before he can tell me what to do. But they never come on there. Can you tell me what to do?

REPLY

Your physician is either skeptical or wise or both. He could give you medicine but I'm sure is holding off until you develop another long siege. He is acting in this manner to keep you from rushing to the medicine cabinet whenever you feel a hic coming on.

NEWBORN PRESENTATION

Mrs. G. writes: My last child was a posterior birth. I'm wondering if my current pregnancy also will be posterior.

REPLY

Unless a pelvic defect exists, there is every reason to believe that your next baby will present itself in the usual way.

WHAT'LL YOU HAVE?

E. W. writes: In your health hint you say "Drink what you need, not what you want." Did you refer to water?

REPLY

No—firewater. Since the need for alcohol seldom exists, my hint was supposed to be a subtle way of advising that the intake of this chemical be restricted.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

During his career as a law man in the Rocky Mountain area, where he personally arrested more than 3,000 culprits, Gen. D. J. Cook (of the Colorado Militia) adhered strictly to one frequently enunciated principle: "Never hit a prisoner over the head with your pistol, because you may afterwards want to use your weapon and find it disabled."

The story of Gen. Cook's battles with horse thieves, murderers, road agents, etc., from 1859 to 1882, is told in a new University of Oklahoma publication called "Hands Up."

From a pep talk delivered by the president of a banking group in Arizona: "One day as I sat musing, a kindly voice came to me from out of the gloom, counselling, 'Cheer up, things could be worse.' And so, gentlemen, I cheered up — and sure enough things got worse."

Prevailing Wage Is Sought On Housing Project

Mayor J. Edwin Keech yesterday asked the Housing Authority to include provisions for prevailing wages and the employment of local labor when asking bids on the city's third low-rent public housing project.

The mayor pointed out that the Authority will soon be advertising for bids on the 80-unit development to be located in the Oldtown Road - Lamont Street section.

He said the city feels the specifications should include a provision that the successful bidder pay the prevailing wage scale and that the firm should employ, wherever possible, local persons.

If the contractor has to pay the prevailing wage rates, the mayor said, he would have no reason to bring in outside workers.

Man Ordered Held For Jury

Ellis H. Shifflet, 32, Bowman's Addition, was ordered held for action of the October Grand Jury at a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on a charge of breaking and entering.

Magistrate Morris Baron ordered Shifflet committed to the County Jail when he was unable to post $500 bond.

Shifflet was picked up Wednesday by City Police in connection with the breaking and entering of Weslow's Gulf Station, corner of Market and North Mechanic streets.

The service station was broken into early Wednesday and the intruder stole a knife and a wrist watch valued at $10, both of which have been recovered by the police.

Shifflet was questioned yesterday by Detective Lt. James E. Van, Detective Thomas J. See and County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya.

Lt. Van said Shifflet also admitted breaking into or attempting to break into four other buildings, including an entry at Wagner's Esso Servicenter, Market and North Mechanic streets; the theft of an automobile from the Thrifty Auto Sales Company garage, 305 South Centre Street; an attempt to enter Cooley's Pharmacy at Henderson Avenue and Valley Street; and an attempt to break into the Cumberland Welding and Supply Company. All were reported to police since Monday.

Maryland State Police recovered the stolen automobile abandoned on Lake Avenue, Bowman's Addition.

Rev. Keefe also announced that a nursery for smaller children will be provided each evening during the evangelistic services. It will be supervised by Mrs. Harry Reynolds, nursery superintendent.

The revival program is part of the overall Baptist Jubilee advance programming. The Jubilee convention will be held in Philadelphia in 1964.

New West Virginia Highway Laws Will Benefit State's Urban Areas

By BILL BARRETT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Legislation that was originally proposed to help reduce driving hazards on Interstate highways also will be used to correct some difficulties in present traffic patterns in urban areas of West Virginia.

The law — allowing establishment of minimum speeds on state highways—was passed by the recent Legislature. It gives the road commissioner authority to require motorists to travel at a reasonable rate of speed in certain areas.

The legislation was introduced as a joint effort by the Road Commission and State Police to eliminate traffic problems in some areas where slow drivers impede the flow of traffic and actually create hazards.

It likely will be six months or longer before the first minimum speed signs are placed on state highways.

Once they go up, failure of Motorists to meet their requirements can be costly. First offense violations can result in fines up to $100 and 10 days in jail. They are doubled for a second offense and third and subsequent offenders are liable for fines up to $500 and jail sentences of up to six months.

Before minimum speed zones are established surveys will be conducted by the SRC's planning division. The SRC said it had no plans for conducting such surveys in the immediate future.

Lt. T. A. Welty, head of the State Police Accident Prevention Bureau, noted that the new law provides a way to curb the slow drivers who often times cause accidents in conjested areas.

"Our roads no longer will accommodate the so-called Sunday drivers and allow for the normal flow of traffic," Welty said. "The safe and courteous thing for sightseers to do is to pull off the highway and then do their looking."

It is unfair to the large numbers of highway users today for anyone to interfere with the normal flow of traffic, he said.

"The new law will allow a study of given areas so that the fastest safespeed possible to keep traffic moving in a normal flow can be instituted. This seems to be the only way to handle the congested traffic problems in many areas."

Welty said the law was in conformity with a uniform traffic code adopted in more than half of the states of the nation. He said minimum speed zones also were being recommended by the National Safety Council.

Welty said as far as State Police were concerned this procedure will be followed in establishing minimum speed zones:

Troopers with particular problems in the areas to which they are assigned will have the right to request a survey by the Road Commission's planning division. If the results of these surveys indicate a minimum speed zone should be established, the commissioner will so order it.

"We are not trying to hurt anyone," Welty pointed out, "but slow driving has become a major cause of accidents in some areas and we feel that by requiring all motorists to maintain a minimum speed we can eliminate some of the hazards."

Recover Radio

City police have recovered a transistor radio and case which was reported stolen from Richard Dick, Route 3, Bedford Road Wednesday. They said the radio, taken from a parked car on Virginia Avenue, was in the possession of a soldier en route to Fort Knox, Ky. They said no prosecution is desired in the case.

The deepest oil well drilled in 1900 was about 3,000 feet; by 1950 the world's deepest well went down more than 20,000 feet — about 4 miles.

Prevailing Wage Is Sought On Housing Project

Mayor J. Edwin Keech yesterday asked the Housing Authority to include provisions for prevailing wages and the employment of local labor when asking bids on the city's third low-rent public housing project.

The mayor pointed out that the Authority will soon be advertising for bids on the 80-unit development to be located in the Oldtown Road - Lamont Street section.

He said the city feels the specifications should include a provision that the successful bidder pay the prevailing wage scale and that the firm should employ, wherever possible, local persons.

If the contractor has to pay the prevailing wage rates, the mayor said, he would have no reason to bring in outside workers.

Man Ordered Held For Jury

Ellis H. Shifflet, 32, Bowman's Addition, was ordered held for action of the October Grand Jury at a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on a charge of breaking and entering.

Magistrate Morris Baron ordered Shifflet committed to the County Jail when he was unable to post $500 bond.

Shifflet was picked up Wednesday by City Police in connection with the breaking and entering of Weslow's Gulf Station, corner of Market and North Mechanic streets.

The service station was broken into early Wednesday and the intruder stole a knife and a wrist watch valued at $10, both of which have been recovered by the police.

Shifflet was questioned yesterday by Detective Lt. James E. Van, Detective Thomas J. See and County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya.

Lt. Van said Shifflet also admitted breaking into or attempting to break into four other buildings, including an entry at Wagner's Esso Servicenter, Market and North Mechanic streets; the theft of an automobile from the Thrifty Auto Sales Company garage, 305 South Centre Street; an attempt to enter Cooley's Pharmacy at Henderson Avenue and Valley Street; and an attempt to break into the Cumberland Welding and Supply Company. All were reported to police since Monday.

Baptists Unite In Crusade

FROSTBURG — Rev. E. Elwood Settle, pastor of First English Baptist Church, and Rev. Wesley H. Harris, pastor of Welsh Memorial Baptist Church announce plans for the coming Frostburg Baptist Evangelistic Crusade which begins April 12 and continues through April 24.

Rev. Paul R. Becker Sr. will be the evangelist for the two week crusade. He has been a successful pastor and evangelist for 15 years. He is presently located in Syracuse, N.Y., where he is engaged in pioneer mission work for the Southern Baptist Convention.

This is an unusual crusade in that both congregations will be uniting together in this effort. On Sunday morning Rev. Becker will preach at Welsh church. For the Sunday evening services both congregations will meet together at First English church. Throughout the week the services will be held daily at 7:30 p.m. at the English church. During the second week the crusade will continue with both congregations meeting at the Welsh church.

Committees Are Selected

Committees for the simultaneous evangelistic campaign planned by Grace Baptist Church, April 19-26, have been appointed, Rev. W. Randolph Keefe Jr., pastor, announced yesterday.

The evangelistic program is being conducted throughout the Southern Baptist Convention and other Western District churches are planning programs during the next two weeks, Rev. Keefe said.

Melvin Grindle has been named chairman of the revival committee.

The evangelistic program will be preceded by cottage prayer meetings April 14 and 15 under the direction of Mrs. James Kirkpatrick and the Women's Missionary Society. All organized classes of the church will participate in the prayer meetings.

Rev. Leonard D. Carmack, pastor of First Baptist Church, Brunswick, will be the evangelist, speaking each evening at 7:30 p. m. Theme of the revival sessions will be "New Life For You."

Miss Mary Robb will be in charge of the special music and congregational singing during the evangelistic services.

Joseph K. Trenton is chairman of the visitation team program; Thomas L. Rudd will head the "Pack A Pew" teams to endeavor to attract better attendance for the revival program; and John W. Knowlton has been named publicity chairman.

The Matthew Robb Bible Class and the Win-A-Couple Bible Class will distribute posters for the services. The Royal Ambassadors Class of young boys, under the guidance of Chester E. Smith, will place door knob hangers throughout the West Side area.

Rev. Keefe also announced that a nursery for smaller children will be provided each evening during the evangelistic services. It will be supervised by Mrs. Harry Reynolds, nursery superintendent.

The revival program is part of the overall Baptist Jubilee advance programming. The Jubilee convention will be held in Philadelphia in 1964.

New West Virginia Highway Laws Will Benefit State's Urban Areas

By BILL BARRETT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Legislation that was originally proposed to help reduce driving hazards on Interstate highways also will be used to correct some difficulties in present traffic patterns in urban areas of West Virginia.

The law — allowing establishment of minimum speeds on state highways—was passed by the recent Legislature. It gives the road commissioner authority to require motorists to travel at a reasonable rate of speed in certain areas.

The legislation was introduced as a joint effort by the Road Commission and State Police to eliminate traffic problems in some areas where slow drivers impede the flow of traffic and actually create hazards.

It likely will be six months or longer before the first minimum speed signs are placed on state highways.

Once they go up, failure of Motorists to meet their requirements can be costly. First offense violations can result in fines up to $100 and 10 days in jail. They are doubled for a second offense and third and subsequent offenders are liable for fines up to $500 and jail sentences of up to six months.

Before minimum speed zones are established surveys will be conducted by the SRC's planning division. The SRC said it had no plans for conducting such surveys in the immediate future.

Lt. T. A. Welty, head of the State Police Accident Prevention Bureau, noted that the new law provides a way to curb the slow drivers who often times cause accidents in conjested areas.

"Our roads no longer will accommodate the so-called Sunday drivers and allow for the normal flow of traffic," Welty said. "The safe and courteous thing for sightseers to do is to pull off the highway and then do their looking."

It is unfair to the large numbers of highway users today for anyone to interfere with the normal flow of traffic, he said.

"The new law will allow a study of given areas so that the fastest safespeed possible to keep traffic moving in a normal flow can be instituted. This seems to be the only way to handle the congested traffic problems in many areas."

Welty said the law was in conformity with a uniform traffic code adopted in more than half of the states of the nation. He said minimum speed zones also were being recommended by the National Safety Council.

Welty said as far as State Police were concerned this procedure will be followed in establishing minimum speed zones:

Troopers with particular problems in the areas to which they are assigned will have the right to request a survey by the Road Commission's planning division. If the results of these surveys indicate a minimum speed zone should be established, the commissioner will so order it.

"We are not trying to hurt anyone," Welty pointed out, "but slow driving has become a major cause of accidents in some areas and we feel that by requiring all motorists to maintain a minimum speed we can eliminate some of the hazards."

Recover Radio

City police have recovered a transistor radio and case which was reported stolen from Richard Dick, Route 3, Bedford Road Wednesday. They said the radio, taken from a parked car on Virginia Avenue, was in the possession of a soldier en route to Fort Knox, Ky. They said no prosecution is desired in the case.

The deepest oil well drilled in 1900 was about 3,000 feet; by 1950 the world's deepest well went down more than 20,000 feet — about 4 miles.

The Spreading Communist Conspiracy

WASHINGTON — Another island of freedom — Tibet — has been inundated by the tidal wave of international communism. With an irreverence for truth, morality and ethics which has typified the malignity of this spreading conspiracy, the Soviet Chinese cast aside a 1951 treaty which guaranteed religious freedom and political autonomy to the Tibetans as a mere piece of paper. As the free world traverses the treacherous path to another summit conference, this latest ravage of a free and brave people should prove for all to see, or better said, for all who want to see, the futility of negotiating with a pack of global cutthroats.

Even so, it is reasonable to expect that the chant for recognition of Red China will soon be joined by a sing-song chorus proclaiming that the Chinese Communists were merely putting down an "armed rebellion." All too soon, the Red China lobby, in the United States as elsewhere, will be seduced by the propaganda of the Communists. Our people somehow never seem to catch the meaning of the sage maxim that "the past is prologue." Some of our good neighbors are unwitting accomplices of those who would exploit the decency and traditional tolerance of our Nation.

Of late, some church groups and other organizations have echoed the Soviet-inspired call for U.S. recognition of Red China. While affirming that "such recognition does not imply approval," a resolution adopted last November in Cleveland at the Fifth World Order Conference of the National Council of Churches declared that our Government "has demonstrated a frightening insensibility to international reality." The ensuing plaudits of the Communist press prompted many to dissociate themselves from this Cleveland action. But still there are those who loudly insist that the American people must face up to the reality that Red China is a powerful ogre with which we must deal and which must be admitted to the United Nations.

To them, against the background of history and the Tibetan situation, it should only be necessary to recall that Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. characterizes Red China in these words: ". . . It is unthinkable that a regime that stands convicted of aggression by the United Nations and whose conduct continues to be that of an international bandit and blackmailer should be permitted to sit in the United Nations . . ." In stating that recent developments only intensify my opposition to the extending of diplomatic respectability to Red China, I suppose the Baltimore Sunpapers will again vilify my position as "nonsense." However, with this latest capstone of depravity, it is suggested that the iconoclasts of the Sunpapers are themselves nonsensically insensible to the appalling realities of the communist conspiracy.

Fresh Anjou Pear Salad Sings Of Springtime

Traditionally, the first March winds don't conjure up a picture of warm spring weather but rather of cool, chilly days. But on second thought, March also "goes out like a lamb" meaning spring is here. Pick one of these gay spring days to treat yourself to this Pear Springtime Salad. This refreshing luncheon salad will set your mind to thinking about the warm, fun-filled days of spring and summer that are ahead.

The star of this delightful salad is fresh Anjou pears, that marvelous fresh fruit that is 'as fresh as spring' and available throughout the spring months for all sorts of delicious treats.

Calorie-conscious persons will welcome fresh pears for they are low in calories, yet sweet and satisfying with their levulose sugar.

Pear Springtime Salad

3 fresh Anjou pears
4 canned peach halves
2 No. 16 scoops sherbet
¼ cup frozen blueberries
Parsley
Salad greens

Wash, halve, and core pears. Arrange 3 halves on bed of salad greens. Cut peach halves into 3 slices each. Arrange 2 slices between each pear half. Place scoop of sherbet in center of plate. Sprinkle blueberries around sherbet. Garnish with parsley. Serve with your favorite fruit salad dressing, if desired. Serves 2.

Crab Amontillado

For a delectable supper dish, serve this Spanish-inspired crab mixture in individual casseroles. First "toast" 12 coarsely chopped almonds in 2 tablespoons butter and ½ tablespoon olive oil. Add 1 package frozen Alaska crab, cut in chunks, and 2 tablespoons amontillado sherry, simmer 1 minute. Smooth in 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt, cook until smooth, then slowly add 1 cup milk or light cream, 2 pimientos, diced, and 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs. Makes 4 servings. Best beverage to serve with it is a very dry Spanish sherry, a "fino."

Mediterranean Soup

¾ pound ground beef
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed minestrone soup
1 soup can water

Shape meat into 12 small meatballs (if desired, add dash of oregano to meat mixture before shaping). Brown slowly in saucepan (use a little shortening, if necessary). Pour off any excess drippings. Stir in soup and water. Simmer a few minutes. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

An extra-special cream sauce or custard is made with half milk, half cream.

Favorite Tomato Soup Cake

2 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground cloves
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup

Preheat oven to moderate (350° F.). Grease and flour two 8-inch round layer pans. Sift dry ingredients together. In large bowl, thoroughly cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs; beat until light and fluffy. Add alternately, dry ingredients and soup. Mix until smooth after each addition. (If desired, 1 cup chopped nuts or 1 cup chopped raisins may be folded into batter after dry ingredients and soup have been added.) Pour into pans. Bake about 30 to 35 minutes. Remove from oven. Let cool in pans 10 to 15 minutes. Remove; cool thoroughly on rack. Frost with cream cheese frosting given or use your favorite white frosting.

Cream Cheese Frosting

Blend a 3-ounce package cream cheese with 1 tablespoon milk. Gradually add 2½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar; blend well. Mix in ½ teaspoon vanilla extract, if desired. Makes enough icing for tops of two 8-inch layers. (For additional frosting, double recipe.)

Broccoli Colonial Pie

Simple Simon's pieman could have boosted business with Broccoli Colonial Pie. To make the crust, press the following mixture into a 9-inch pie pan: 1 egg white (beaten until foamy), 1½ cups dry bread crumbs, ¼ cup melted shortening. Reserve ¼ cup mixture for top of pie. Bake crust in moderate oven (350°F.) for 15 minutes. Cook 6 broccoli stalks (split in half, lengthwise). On the crumb crust, radiate the 12 stalks with tops at edge of crust. For the filling: Combine 1 cup each of cream sauce (seasoned with thyme and bay leaf), diced cooked ham and grated process cheese. Pour mixture into crust between broccoli 'wheel spokes." Top with remaining crumb mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 25 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before cutting into wedges for serving.

Modern Entertaining: Dessert-Coffee Party

A popular new way of entertaining has caught on in New York City and points west. It's simply this -- inviting friends in after dinner for dessert and coffee.

Needless to say, young couples love to entertain this way because it's easy to do, informal and quite inexpensive. Of course, the guests like it, too, for it gives them a chance to relax at home before going out for the evening. Best of all, it requires only a sweet dessert and plenty of steaming, freshly-brewed coffee to make everyone happy.

Demitasse coffee is particularly appropriate for an after-dinner coffee party. It's delicious, a little bit exotic and fun to serve in those pretty, but seldom-used, demitasse cups. When it comes to an appropriate dessert, none is more appealing than this Coffee-Vanilla Angel Pie. It's a creamy and luscious confection that's framed in a lovely meringue shell and garnished with shaved chocolate and whipped cream. Here's a pie you'll surely make time and time again. . . at the request of your adoring coffee-loving guests.

COFFEE-VANILLA ANGEL PIE

1 10-inch meringue pie shell
2 envelopes gelatine
1½ cups cold coffee, divided
1½ cups sugar, divided
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
3 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar

Make meringue pie shell well ahead of time. Soften gelatine in ½ cup cold coffee. Combine 1 cup sugar, salt, remaining coffee and milk in saucepan. Stir over low heat until scalding point is reached. Beat egg yolks and hot mixture slowly. Return to saucepan. Stir over low heat until boiling point is reached. Stir in softened gelatine. Chill until syrupy. Beat smooth and add vanilla. Whip cream and fold in. Beat egg whites to soft peaks and add cream of tartar. Add remaining sugar slowly while continuing to beat. Fold coffee mixture into beaten egg whites. Spoon into meringue pie shell. Chill until set. Garnish with shaved chocolate.

MERINGUE PIE SHELL

Use 1 packet from packaged meringue mix, following directions for meringue shell. Spread in 10-inch pie pan. If desired make a fancy edge with pastry tube, using rosette tip. Put into oven, pre-heated to 400oF. Turn oven heat off immediately. Leave shell in oven 3 hours or overnight.

Swiss Cheese Soup A New Favorite

Soups may have a variety of personalities—from homespun to sophisticated. Here's one in the sophisticated class which will make an elegant headliner for a luncheon menu. It's a smooth cream soup with the nut-like flavor of Swiss cheese—sure to be a favorite with all cheese lovers.

Swiss cheese has long been popular for sandwiches, salads, and dessert trays, yet, many homemakers are unfamiliar with its use in cooked dishes. Now Swiss cheese is available as the pasteurized, process type which melts readily, making possible its use as a flavor accent in a variety of cream sauces and casseroles. Blended into a nourishing cream soup, the flavor of the Swiss cheese stands out.

Cream soups are high in complete protein, so can take the starring role in a menu. With Swiss Cheese Soup, serve toasted tomato and lettuce sandwiches or a large salad of tossed greens. Add fruit cobbler for dessert and cold milk to drink to complete a simple and nourishing luncheon.

Swiss Cheese Soup

2 chicken bouillon cubes
1 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
5 cups milk
½ pound process Swiss cheese, shredded (about 2 cups)
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water. Saute onion in butter over low heat until transparent. Blend in flour. Stir in bouillon and milk and cook until smooth and slightly thickened. Turn heat off. Add cheese and blend until cheese melts. Stir in seasonings. Makes 6 servings.

Cranberry Stuffed Celery Makes Unusual Salad Tray

A blend of cream cheese, horseradish and jellied cranberry sauce whips up into the smoothest, tastiest treat you'll ever imagine. It's perfect stuffed inside chilled and washed pieces of celery. Good, too, as a spread for crackers.

Cranberry stuffed celery along with hard cooked eggs and green olives belongs with fish. Frozen filets, fish sticks, fresh or canned fish in casseroles make cooking easy and taste so good. You'll like the tart flavor that canned cranberry sauce lends to a fish menu.

Frozen Filets of Founder
Cranberry Stuffed Celery
Hard-Cooked Egg Slices
Vegetables, Skillet Style
Chocolate Pudding with Whipped Cream
Milk Coffee

Cranberry Stuffed Celery

1 (8-oz.) package cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons extra hot horseradish
½ (1-lb.) can jellied canberry sauce

Beat softened cream cheese until smooth. Beat in horseradish and jellied cranberry sauce until thoroughly blended. Chill thoroughly. Fill washed and chilled celery pieces. Makes 1½ cups.

Note: Use, too, as spread for crackers. Top with tiny cut-outs of jellied cranberry sauce.

If you like a barbecue sauce to serve on fish or spareribs, try this cranberry combination.

Cranberry Sauce Piquant

1 can (1-lb.) jellied cranberry sauce
¼ cup finely diced onion
3 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt

Beat cranberry sauce with rotary beater until smooth. Stir in remaining ingredients. Simmer 5 minutes. Keep hot and serve over broiled or baked fish. Makes 2 cups.

It's cranberry juice cocktail time. Time to blend cranberry juice with spices to make this unusual syrup to pour over fresh fruit cup or canned fruit at dessert time. Such a pretty color, too.

Canned purple plums are usually economical to serve for dessert; to vary them give them a topping, just before serving, of sliced banana.

Small onion rings make attractive garnishes for vegetables, meat and fish.

"Souper" Barbecue Sauce

⅓ cup chopped onion
⅓ cup chopped celery
1 small clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons shortening
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

Kitchen Time-Saver

During busy times of cooking in the kitchen, any labor-saving idea is a good one. A meal easy to prepare and as easy to serve is doubly appreciated since it saves scouring those extra pots and pans.

Such a meal is this frankfurter "barbecue."

Barbecued Frankfurters

To serve six, prepare the barbecue sauce by adding the following to 2 tablespoons of melted fat in skillet: ¼ cup chopped onion; 1 cup tomato catsup; ½ cup water; 2 tablespoons brown sugar; ½ teaspoon salt; ⅛ teaspoon black pepper; ⅛ teaspoon cayenne; 2 tablespoons vinegar; ¼ cup lemon juice; 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce; ½ teaspoon prepared mustard. Fresh Anjou Pear Salad Sings Of Springtime

Traditionally, the first March winds don't conjure up a picture of warm spring weather but rather of cool, chilly days. But on second thought, March also "goes out like a lamb" meaning spring is here. Pick one of these gay spring days to treat yourself to this Pear Springtime Salad. This refreshing luncheon salad will set your mind to thinking about the warm, fun-filled days of spring and summer that are ahead.

The star of this delightful salad is fresh Anjou pears, that marvelous fresh fruit that is 'as fresh as spring' and available throughout the spring months for all sorts of delicious treats.

Calorie-conscious persons will welcome fresh pears for they are low in calories, yet sweet and satisfying with their levulose sugar.

Pear Springtime Salad

3 fresh Anjou pears
4 canned peach halves
2 No. 16 scoops sherbet
¼ cup frozen blueberries
Parsley
Salad greens

Wash, halve, and core pears. Arrange 3 halves on bed of salad greens. Cut peach halves into 3 slices each. Arrange 2 slices between each pear half. Place scoop of sherbet in center of plate. Sprinkle blueberries around sherbet. Garnish with parsley. Serve with your favorite fruit salad dressing, if desired. Serves 2.

Crab Amontillado

For a delectable supper dish, serve this Spanish-inspired crab mixture in individual casseroles. First "toast" 12 coarsely chopped almonds in 2 tablespoons butter and ½ tablespoon olive oil. Add 1 package frozen Alaska crab, cut in chunks, and 2 tablespoons amontillado sherry, simmer 1 minute. Smooth in 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt, cook until smooth, then slowly add 1 cup milk or light cream, 2 pimientos, diced, and 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs. Makes 4 servings. Best beverage to serve with it is a very dry Spanish sherry, a "fino."

Mediterranean Soup

¾ pound ground beef
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed minestrone soup
1 soup can water

Shape meat into 12 small meatballs (if desired, add dash of oregano to meat mixture before shaping). Brown slowly in saucepan (use a little shortening, if necessary). Pour off any excess drippings. Stir in soup and water. Simmer a few minutes. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

An extra-special cream sauce or custard is made with half milk, half cream.

Favorite Tomato Soup Cake

2 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground cloves
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup

Preheat oven to moderate (350° F.). Grease and flour two 8-inch round layer pans. Sift dry ingredients together. In large bowl, thoroughly cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs; beat until light and fluffy. Add alternately, dry ingredients and soup. Mix until smooth after each addition. (If desired, 1 cup chopped nuts or 1 cup chopped raisins may be folded into batter after dry ingredients and soup have been added.) Pour into pans. Bake about 30 to 35 minutes. Remove from oven. Let cool in pans 10 to 15 minutes. Remove; cool thoroughly on rack. Frost with cream cheese frosting given or use your favorite white frosting.

Cream Cheese Frosting

Blend a 3-ounce package cream cheese with 1 tablespoon milk. Gradually add 2½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar; blend well. Mix in ½ teaspoon vanilla extract, if desired. Makes enough icing for tops of two 8-inch layers. (For additional frosting, double recipe.)

Broccoli Colonial Pie

Simple Simon's pieman could have boosted business with Broccoli Colonial Pie. To make the crust, press the following mixture into a 9-inch pie pan: 1 egg white (beaten until foamy), 1½ cups dry bread crumbs, ¼ cup melted shortening. Reserve ¼ cup mixture for top of pie. Bake crust in moderate oven (350°F.) for 15 minutes. Cook 6 broccoli stalks (split in half, lengthwise). On the crumb crust, radiate the 12 stalks with tops at edge of crust. For the filling: Combine 1 cup each of cream sauce (seasoned with thyme and bay leaf), diced cooked ham and grated process cheese. Pour mixture into crust between broccoli 'wheel spokes." Top with remaining crumb mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 25 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before cutting into wedges for serving.

Modern Entertaining: Dessert-Coffee Party

A popular new way of entertaining has caught on in New York City and points west. It's simply this -- inviting friends in after dinner for dessert and coffee.

Needless to say, young couples love to entertain this way because it's easy to do, informal and quite inexpensive. Of course, the guests like it, too, for it gives them a chance to relax at home before going out for the evening. Best of all, it requires only a sweet dessert and plenty of steaming, freshly-brewed coffee to make everyone happy.

Demitasse coffee is particularly appropriate for an after-dinner coffee party. It's delicious, a little bit exotic and fun to serve in those pretty, but seldom-used, demitasse cups. When it comes to an appropriate dessert, none is more appealing than this Coffee-Vanilla Angel Pie. It's a creamy and luscious confection that's framed in a lovely meringue shell and garnished with shaved chocolate and whipped cream. Here's a pie you'll surely make time and time again. . . at the request of your adoring, coffee-loving guests.

COFFEE-VANILLA ANGEL PIE

1 10-inch meringue pie shell
2 envelopes gelatine
1½ cups cold coffee, divided
1½ cups sugar, divided
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
3 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar

Make meringue pie shell well ahead of time. Soften gelatine in ½ cup cold coffee. Combine 1 cup sugar, salt, remaining coffee and milk in saucepan. Stir over low heat until scalding point is reached. Beat egg yolks and hot mixture slowly. Return to saucepan. Stir over low heat until boiling point is reached. Stir in softened gelatine. Chill until syrupy. Bea t smooth and add vanilla. Whip cream and fold in. Beat egg whites to soft peaks and add cream of tartar. Add remaining sugar slowly while continuing to beat. Fold coffee mixture into beaten egg whites. Spoon into meringue pie shell. Chil until set. Garnish with shaved chocolate.

MERINGUE PIE SHELL

Use 1 packet from packaged meringue mix, following directions for meringue shell. Spread in 10-inch pie pan. If desired make a fancy edge with pastry tube, using rosette tip. Put into oven, pre-heated to 400oF. Turn oven heat off immediately. Leave shell in oven 3 hours or overnight.

Swiss Cheese Soup A New Favorite

Soups may have a variety of personalities—from homespun to sophisticated. Here's one in the sophisticated class which will make an elegant headliner for a luncheon menu. It's a smooth cream soup with the nut-like flavor of Swiss cheese—sure to be a favorite with all cheese lovers.

Swiss cheese has long been popular for sandwiches, salads, and dessert trays, yet, many homemakers are unfamiliar with its use in cooked dishes. Now Swiss cheese is available as the pasteurized, process type which melts readily, making possible its use as a flavor accent in a variety of cream sauces and casseroles. Blended into a nourishing cream soup, the flavor of the Swiss cheese stands out.

Cream soups are high in complete protein, so can take the starring role in a menu. With Swiss Cheese Soup, serve toasted tomato and lettuce sandwiches or a large salad of tossed greens. Add fruit cobbler for dessert and cold milk to drink to complete a simple and nourishing luncheon.

Swiss Cheese Soup

2 chicken bouillon cubes
1 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
5 cups milk
½ pound process Swiss cheese, shredded (about 2 cups)
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water. Saute onion in butter over low heat until transparent. Blend in flour. Stir in bouillon and milk and cook until smooth and slightly thickened. Turn heat off. Add cheese and blend until cheese melts. Stir in seasonings. Makes 6 servings.

Cranberry Stuffed Celery Makes Unusual Salad Tray

A blend of cream cheese, horseradish and jellied cranberry sauce whips up into the smoothest, tastiest treat you'll ever imagine. It's perfect stuffed inside chilled and washed pieces of celery. Good, too, as a spread for crackers.

Cranberry stuffed celery along with hard cooked eggs and green olives belongs with fish. Frozen filets, fish sticks, fresh or canned fish in casseroles make cooking easy and taste so good. You'll like the tart flavor that canned cranberry sauce lends to a fish menu.

Party Dish Of Distinction

Come for luncheon, ladies. This invitation calls for an attractive dish with flair, but not much fuss. Parmesan Tuna on Asparagus is the choice. Canned asparagus, tuna and cream of mushroom soup make it easy fixing; the mayonnaise, almonds and Parmesan cheese provide the flair. Add crisp tossed salad, hot rolls, Pineapple Refrigerator Cake and coffee for a menu that will please all.

Parmesan Tuna On Asparagus

1 can (14 oz.) asparagus spears
1 can (7 oz.) solid pack tuna
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup mayonnaise
⅓ cup chopped toasted almonds
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Put drained asparagus into a shallow baking dish. Top with chunks of tuna. Combine soup, mayonnaise and almonds. Pour mixture over tuna and asparagus. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) about 20 minutes. Six servings.

Spinach Italienne

1 pound fresh spinach
½ cup chopped ripe olives
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
¼ pound sliced Mozarella or Scamorza cheese
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
¼ teaspoon ground oregano
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
4 slices enriched bread

Clean spinach and soak in very hot water for ten minutes. Drain and place in the bottom of a greased (1½ quart) baking dish. Sprinkle ripe olives and Parmesan cheese over spinach and top with slices of cheese. Pour tomato sauce over all. Combine oregano and melted butter. Trim bread slices, brush one side of each with oregano butter, and cut each slice into five strips. Arrange bread strips, buttered side up, on top of baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for thirty minutes.

Yield: 6 servings.

Week's Food Economies

You can see and feel that spring is really here. You can taste it too as some produce typical of the change of season is on the market for your choice. Perk up family appetities with economical selections from the best-buys, says Virginia L. McLuckie, Food Economist, Baltimore Office, University of Maryland, Department of Markets.

At the produce counter signs of spring are reflected in the stock of avocadas, fresh pineapple and rhubarb. The avocado is also called alligator pear. To tell if this fruit is ripe, hold the fruit gently between cupped hands and press lightly. If it gives or feels soft it is ready to eat. The current local supply is arriving from California. Although this fruit is usually thought of a salad item it can be made into dips, spreads and cooked dishes. Fresh pineapple is a treat. This is the time to enjoy it at attractive prices. Pineapples now on the market are Red Spanish from Cuba. A pineapple should be heavy for its size and a ripe one will be fragrant. An easy way to prepare it for fruit cups and salads is to place it on a cutting board and slice before peeling. Remember fresh pineapple will not work in gelatin salads. Endymes prevent the jelling action. We eat fresh rhubarb in the spring and enjoy it canned or frozen at other times. Rhubarb grown in Michigan in hot houses has been on the market for several weeks. Classed as a vegetable, it is usually eaten as a dessert or sauce. Most of the hot house type rhubarb is young, tender and radiant in color. Nearby rhubarb will probably be available within a month.

At the produce counter there are increasing receipts of California asparagus. Green beans from Florida have decreased in price from recent weeks and are on the list of best-buys. Florida celery is in liberal supply of top quality and low in price. Lettuce grown in Arizona, irrigated desert areas, is another of the best-buys. The best selection in a dark green vegetable is Kale from Virginia.

Bacon and eggs are on the best-buy list. Start the day with an adequate breakfast using these two companion foods.

Coronado Eggs

⅛ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon chili powder
⅛ teaspoon ground pepper
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon onion salt
2 tablespoons cream
4 eggs
4 slices enriched white bread
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon paprika

Combine curry powder, chili powder, pepper, baking powder and onion salt; then blend these into the cream. Separate the eggs and beat whites slightly, gradually adding the cream mixture. Trim crusts from bread slices and spread with butter. Fit the buttered bread slices into buttered individual baking dishes. Pour egg mixture into each bread cup and float one egg yolk in the center of each. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a slow oven (325°F.) for 15 minutes, or until egg yolks have barely set and the rest of the mixture is slightly browned on top.

Yield: 4 servings.

Cabbage Rolls

Here's a recipe for Stuffed Cabbage Rolls, recommended by U. S. Department of Agriculture home economists, that you'll find suitable for both family and company meals — it's delicious and easy to prepare, too.

8 cabbage leaves
1 or 1½ cup ground meat
1 small green pepper, chopped fine
1 small onion, chopped fine
3 cups cooked rice or mashed or diced potato
1½ cup stewed tomatoes
1 tsp. salt
Few grains of pepper

Cut leaves from the head of cabbage and drop into boiling salted water for 2 minutes. Then drain. Mix meat, onions, green pepper, seasonings, and rice or potato. Place 2 or 3 tablespoons of mixture in each leaf, and fold leaf around the stuffing. Arrange folded side down in baking dish, and pour on tomatoes. Bake in moderate oven 20 to 30 minutes.

Party Dish Of Distinction

Come for luncheon, ladies. This invitation calls for an attractive dish with flair, but not much fuss. Parmesan Tuna on Asparagus is the choice. Canned asparagus, tuna and cream of mushroom soup make it easy fixing; the mayonnaise, almonds and Parmesan cheese provide the flair. Add crisp tossed salad, hot rolls, Pineapple Refrigerator Cake and coffee for a menu that will please all.

Parmesan Tuna On Asparagus

1 can (14 oz.) asparagus spears
1 can (7 oz.) solid pack tuna
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup mayonnaise
⅓ cup chopped toasted almonds
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Put drained asparagus into a shallow baking dish. Top with chunks of tuna. Combine soup, mayonnaise and almonds. Pour mixture over tuna and asparagus. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) about 20 minutes. Six servings.

Cabbage Rolls

Here's a recipe for Stuffed Cabbage Rolls, recommended by U. S. Department of Agriculture home economists, that you'll find suitable for both family and company meals — it's delicious and easy to prepare, too.

8 cabbage leaves
1 or 1½ cup ground meat
1 small green pepper, chopped fine
1 small onion, chopped fine
3 cups cooked rice or mashed or diced potato
1½ cup stewed tomatoes
1 tsp. salt
Few grains of pepper

Cut leaves from the head of cabbage and drop into boiling salted water for 2 minutes. Then drain. Mix meat, onions, green pepper, seasonings, and rice or potato. Place 2 or 3 tablespoons of mixture in each leaf, and fold leaf around the stuffing. Arrange folded side down in baking dish, and pour on tomatoes. Bake in moderate oven 20 to 30 minutes.

Spinach Italienne

1 pound fresh spinach
½ cup chopped ripe olives
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
¼ pound sliced Mozarella or Scamorza cheese
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
¼ teaspoon ground oregano
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
4 slices enriched bread

Clean spinach and soak in very hot water for ten minutes. Drain and place in the bottom of a greased (1½ quart) baking dish. Sprinkle ripe olives and Parmesan cheese over spinach and top with slices of cheese. Pour tomato sauce over all. Combine oregano and melted butter. Trim bread slices, brush one side of each with oregano butter, and cut each slice into five strips. Arrange bread strips, buttered side up, on top of baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for thirty minutes.

Yield: 6 servings.

Week's Food Economies

You can see and feel that spring is really here. You can taste it too as some produce typical of the change of season is on the market for your choice. Perk up family appetities with economical selections from the best-buys, says Virginia L. McLuckie, Food Economist, Baltimore Office, University of Maryland, Department of Markets.

At the produce counter signs of spring are reflected in the stock of avocadas, fresh pineapple and rhubarb. The avocado is also called alligator pear. To tell if this fruit is ripe, hold the fruit gently between cupped hands and press lightly. If it gives or feels soft it is ready to eat. The current local supply is arriving from California. Although this fruit is usually thought of a salad item it can be made into dips, spreads and cooked dishes. Fresh pineapple is a treat. This is the time to enjoy it at attractive prices. Pineapples now on the market are Red Spanish from Cuba. A pineapple should be heavy for its size and a ripe one will be fragrant. An easy way to prepare it for fruit cups and salads is to place it on a cutting board and slice before peeling. Remember fresh pineapple will not work in gelatin salads. Endymes prevent the jelling action. We eat fresh rhubarb in the spring and enjoy it canned or frozen at other times. Rhubarb grown in Michigan in hot houses has been on the market for several weeks. Classed as a vegetable, it is usually eaten as a dessert or sauce. Most of the hot house type rhubarb is young, tender and radiant in color. Nearby rhubarb will probably be available within a month.

At the produce counter there are increasing receipts of California asparagus. Green beans from Florida have decreased in price from recent weeks and are on the list of best-buys. Florida celery is in liberal supply of top quality and low in price. Lettuce grown in Arizona, irrigated desert areas, is another of the best-buys. The best selection in a dark green vegetable is Kale from Virginia.

Bacon and eggs are on the best-buy list. Start the day with an adequate breakfast using these two companion foods.

Coronado Eggs

⅛ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon chili powder
⅛ teaspoon ground pepper
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon onion salt
2 tablespoons cream
4 eggs
4 slices enriched white bread
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon paprika

Combine curry powder, chili powder, pepper, baking powder and onion salt; then blend these into the cream. Separate the eggs and beat whites slightly, gradually adding the cream mixture. Trim crusts from bread slices and spread with butter. Fit the buttered bread slices into buttered individual baking dishes. Pour egg mixture into each bread cup and float one egg yolk in the center of each. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a slow oven (325°F.) for 15 minutes, or until egg yolks have barely set and the rest of the mixture is slightly browned on top.

Yield: 4 servings.

Lime Pie In Crunchy Crust Is Harbinger Of Spring

Treat your family to a breath of spring by making a lime pie in a corn flake crust. This refreshing pie depends on frozen concentrated limeade for the lime flavor. Fresh limes are not necessary, although they do make an attractive garnish if available.

The elegant appearance of this lime pie belies its ease of preparation and inexpensive ingredients. Both the crust and the filling are so easy to make that even the most inexperienced cook is assured of success. Simply follow the directions in the recipe.

Pie crusts are but one of the many ingredient uses of versatile breakfast cereals. Entrees, breads, cookies, desserts, muffins, and confections take on new flavors and textures as well as increased nutritional values with the addition of breakfast cereals.

Simply use the rolled oats just as they come from the box.

This salmon loaf recipe freezes well. Prepare an extra quantity of the recipe to freeze. When thoroughly cooled, wrap in freezer paper, and freeze.

A double recipe of Salmon Cereal Loaves prepared in four 5½ x 3 x 2-inch pans makes an especially attractive buffet luncheon entree when served with a sauce of creamed peas and onions, creamed peas and celery, or creamed peas and mushrooms.

Vitamin A Protects Your Vision

Do you have trouble distinguishing oncoming cars and other objects while driving at night? Or do you have an excessive number of colds during the winter?

One of the factors behind these annoyances might be a lack of vitamin A in your diet. Mrs. Judith Pheil, nutrition specialist at the University of Maryland, says that vitamin A is extremely important for normal vision, especially in dim light. A sufficient amount of the vitamin helps protect against infection through the linings of the nose, mouth and inner organs. If these surfaces are weakened, bacteria can invade more easily. Even the enamel on your teeth and your skin condition is helped by the vitamin A in your diet.

What foods have vitamin A? Mrs. Phiel says that liver, butter, cream, whole milk, cheese made from whole milk or cream, eggs, fortified margarine, and fish liver oils are very good animal sources of vitamin A.

Green, leafy and yellow vegetables are excellent sources of the vitamin, too. The best vegetable sources are green beans, broccoli, brussel sprouts, collards, kale, green peas, spinach, turnip greens, okra, endive, carrots, sweet potatoes, pumpkin, and yellow winter squash. The darker green or yellow the vegetable is, the more vitamin A it contains.

A daily serving of one of these vegetables should be included with the other food you eat. Since your body can store vitamin A it's to your advantage to eat heartily of food containing the vitamin to protect you against an emergency or sudden infection.

Pour into crumb lined pan. Bake in slow oven, 325 degrees, 60 minutes, or until firm. Cool. Combine apple sauce, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and chopped almonds. Vitamin A Protects Your Vision

Do you have trouble distinguishing oncoming cars and other objects while driving at night? Or do you have an excessive number of colds during the winter?

One of the factors behind these annoyances might be a lack of vitamin A in your diet. Mrs. Judith Pheil, nutrition specialist at the University of Maryland, says that vitamin A is extremely important for normal vision, especially in dim light. A sufficient amount of the vitamin helps protect against infection through the linings of the nose, mouth and inner organs. If these surfaces are weakened, bacteria can invade more easily. Even the enamel on your teeth and your skin condition is helped by the vitamin A in your diet.

What foods have vitamin A? Mrs. Phiel says that liver, butter, cream, whole milk, cheese made from whole milk or cream, eggs, fortified margarine, and fish liver oils are very good animal sources of vitamin A.

Green, leafy and yellow vegetables are excellent sources of the vitamin, too. The best vegetable sources are green beans, broccoli, brussel sprouts, collards, kale, green peas, spinach, turnip greens, okra, endive, carrots, sweet potatoes, pumpkin, and yellow winter squash. The darker green or yellow the vegetable is, the more vitamin A it contains.

A daily serving of one of these vegetables should be included with the other food you eat. Since your body can store vitamin A it's to your advantage to eat heartily of food containing the vitamin to protect you against an emergency or sudden infection.

Oyster Carrot Fritters, 3-Minute Cheese Sauce

(Makes about 6 servings)

- 2 cups all-purpose biscuit mix
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1 egg

Manzanas Fritas

In Spain they make a wonderful dessert of fried apples: thickly-sliced cored apples are marinated in Spanish sherry (preferably a cream or oloroso type), then dusted with a mixture of 1 tablespoon flour, 2 tablespoons sugar and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Fry in butter until crisply golden on each side.

Placed At Head Of List, Casserole

All during life a person will find competition. Learned historians have often said that without competition, there would be no progress.

Even recipes will compete for attention. That's why they must be practical and well tested.

One recipe standout which will undoubtedly attract your attention immediately is Veal Delight. It's not only a delight to eat, but actually it's a delight to prepare.

Very little chopping and cutting is involved.

Veal, being quite mild in flavor, is attractively accented in this recipe by the addition of the dehydrated onion soup, while green pepper and pimiento add the necessary color complement.

Veal Delight
- 2 veal round steaks, cut ½ inch thick
- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained and reserving liquid
- 1 green pepper, cut into 1-inch squares
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1 package (1½ ounces) dehydrated onion soup
- ¼ cup 1-inch squares pimiento

Cut steaks into six servings. Pound to ¼ inch thickness. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Drain mushrooms and cook in butter or margarine until tender. Stir in flour. Add milk, mushroom liquid and onion soup. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Place veal steaks in a greased 8 x 12-inch baking dish. Pour sauce over them. Place pimiento on top. Cover and bake in a slow oven (300° F.) for 30 minutes. Uncover and continue baking 15 minutes or until tender. Yield: 6 servings.

Peanut crunch topping — Fold ½ cup finely crushed peanut brittle into 1 cup whipping cream, whipped stiff. Makes 3 cups topping for cake or gingerbread.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I'm really worried about her, Doc! She hasn't even TRIED to use the phone for two days!"

"Well, what are you waiting for?"

Cream Of Carrot Soup Made In 10 Minutes

Be it chowder or stew, creamed soup or meat soup, broth, borscht, or bisque, a nourishing bowl of hot soup is one of America's favorite dishes. Suitable for luncheon or dinner, soups may be served as a main course with accompanying crackers, salad, and fruit, or as an early course in a more elaborate meal.

If soups are to be served frequently, it is important for the sake of appetite interest that a variety be served. Good cooks avoid menu monotony by varying types of food as well as flavors. An unending series of creamed soups can be almost as monotonous as serving the same flavor of soup too frequently. Consequently, it is desirable to alternate broths, stews, creamed soups, and chowders.

Fortunately, the variety of soups is limited only by the cook's imagination. Using established soup recipes, countless variations may be produced with the addition, subtraction, or substitution of herbs, spices, and other ingredients. Many delicious and unusual soups do not require lengthy cooking or complicated preparations. Often frozen and canned foods — including canned soups—serve as basic soup ingredients.

For example, here are recipes for three truly distinctive, but inexpensive soups—and each can be made in less than 10 minutes. "Cream of Carrott Potage" saves cooking time through the use of canned cream of chicken soup and prepared baby food—chopped carrots "junior" style. The recipe for "Spinach Soup Bonne Femme" also uses baby food—creamed spinach "junior" style, as well as canned consomme. Both recipes save the cook the time and trouble of pureeing the vegetables. Although "Corn and Cheese Chowder" has the flavor of a gourmet soup, it too, requires little preparation time, for it uses canned corn.

Another means of achieving greater variety in soups is to serve them with a variety of garnishes. Grated cheese, chopped chives, or a dash of sherry may be sprinkled on the surface of the soup as it is served. A novel garnish is made by floating a raft of crackers on the soup. The crackers may be covered with one of the following: coarsely chopped crisp bacon, shredded cheese, deviled ham, chopped parsley on a bed of butter or margarine, or crunchy peanut butter.

Jellied Veal Ring Mold

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- ¼ cup cold water
- 1¾ cups apple juice
- ¼ cup cider vinegar
- ¼ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups chopped cooked veal
- 1 large avocado, sliced thin
- ½ cup diced pimiento
- Salad greens
- Pimiento strips for garnish

Soften gelatine in cold water. Heat apple juice, vinegar, sugar and salt; add gelatine, stirring until dissolved. Cool until syrupy; add veal and avocado, and diced pimiento. Pour into 8½" ring mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens and fill center with salad greens. Garnish top with pimiento strips. Serve with salad dressing. Makes 6 servings.

Sauce For The Chicken

There are probably a thousand and one ways to cook chicken. How many recipes does your file contain? Add this one as a favorite: Thaw 1 package (1 pound) frozen chicken breasts as directed on package. Beat together 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, and dash pepper. Dip chicken in egg mixture; roll in ⅔ cup fine dry bread crumbs. Brown chicken in ¼ cup butter or margarine. Add 1 can (12 ounces) V-8; cover and cook over low heat about 45 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Stir occasionally. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Shrimp chowder is a national favorite. Make your next one with canned condensed cream of celery soup. Brown onion in butter, add the soup and a soup can each of water and milk, with 1 cup cooked shrimp, some chopped parsley and pepper. Heat thoroughly and garnish each serving with paprika.

Frankfurters With Rice, West Style

The state of Texas can well afford to be proud of its natural as well as developed resources.

Texas also has the right to be proud of the outstanding culinary contributions the homemakers of the state have made. Unusual recipes with a Spanish flair seem to distinguish them as a whole.

Frankfurters, so often thought of as a picnic or ball park snack, magically turn into a dish worthy of the praise of gourmets by the simple addition of a little garlic, chilli powder and tomatoes. You'll be amazed at the wonderful flavor.

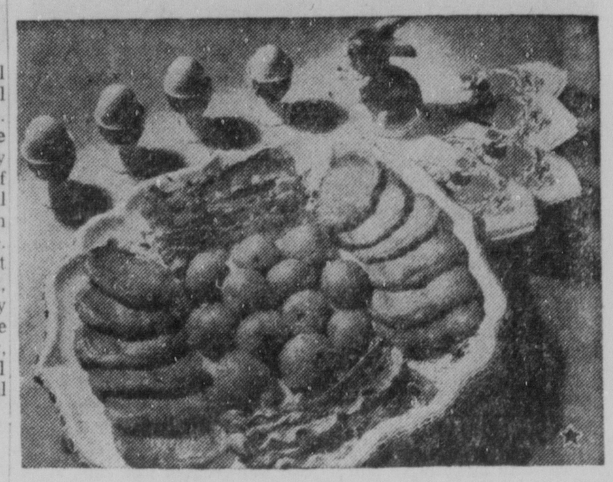
Texas Rice With Frankfurters
- 1 pound frankfurters
- 1 cup uncooked rice
- ¼ cup lard or drippings
- ½ clove garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1½ teaspoon salt
- 1 can (1 pound 4 ounces) tomatoes
- 1½ cups water

Brown rice in lard or drippings. Add garlic, chili powder, salt, tomatoes and water. Cover tightly and simmer 15 minutes. Add frankfurters, cover and continue cooking 30 minutes or until rice is done. Yield: 6 servings.

Meat Transformed

Serve slices of leftover potroast in a sauce made from the remaining gravy combined with a can of condensed onion soup. Serve on noodles.

Canadian Bacon Is Ideal For Breakfast



Breakfast is a wonderful time of the day to start with a good meal . . . one high in protein to carry you through normal work or study hours without experiencing those mid-morning hunger pangs.

As many homemakers and mothers already know, this first meal of the day should afford the individual between ¼ and ⅓ of his daily food nutrients.

Canadian-style bacon is made by curing and smoking the boneless loin of pork. This type of bacon makes a perfect partner for the "All-American" breakfast commonly known as bacon 'n eggs. This type of bacon can be broiled, panbroiled or panfried. In cooking by any of these methods it is always advocated that a moderate temperature is used.

Regular bacon, as you probably know, is the cured and smoked side of pork which is cut into slices. As in the Canadian-style bacon, this type can be prepared by broiling, panbroiling or panfrying.

Corned Beef In Disguise

So often, corned beef is only thought of in the guise of a hot corned beef sandwich. However, it has so many other uses. Serve it as the main entree with cooked cabbage or as the highlight at a soup and sandwich meal. Diced, it may be combined in a molded salad ring or ground, it can be used in hash.

¼ cup cold water
1¾ cups apple juice
¼ cup cider vinegar
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups chopped cooked veal
1 large avocado, sliced thin
½ cup diced pimiento
Salad greens
Pimiento strips for garnish

Soften gelatine in cold water. Heat apple juice, vinegar, sugar and salt; add gelatine, stirring until dissolved. Cool until syrupy; add veal and avocado, and diced pimiento. Pour into 8½" ring mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens and fill center with salad greens. Garnish top with pimiento strips. Serve with salad dressing. Makes 6 servings.

Sauce For The Chicken

There are probably a thousand and one ways to cook chicken. How many recipes does your file contain? Add this one as a favorite: Thaw 1 package (1 pound) frozen chicken breasts as directed on package. Beat together 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, and dash pepper. Dip chicken in egg mixture; roll in ⅔ cup fine dry bread crumbs. Brown chicken in ¼ cup butter or margarine. Add 1 can (12 ounces) V-8; cover and cook over low heat about 45 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Stir occasionally. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Shrimp chowder is a national favorite. Make your next one with canned condensed cream of celery soup. Brown onion in butter, add the soup and a soup can each of water and milk, with 1 cup cooked shrimp, some chopped parsley and pepper. Heat thoroughly and garnish each serving with paprika.

Frankfurters With Rice, West Style

The state of Texas can well afford to be proud of its natural as well as developed resources. Texas also has the right to be proud of the outstanding culinary contributions the homemakers of the state have made. Unusual recipes with a Spanish flair seem to distinguish them as a whole.

Frankfurters, so often thought of as a picnic or ball park snack, magically turn into a dish worthy of the praise of gourmets by the simple addition of a little garlic, chilli powder and tomatoes. You'll be amazed at the wonderful flavor.

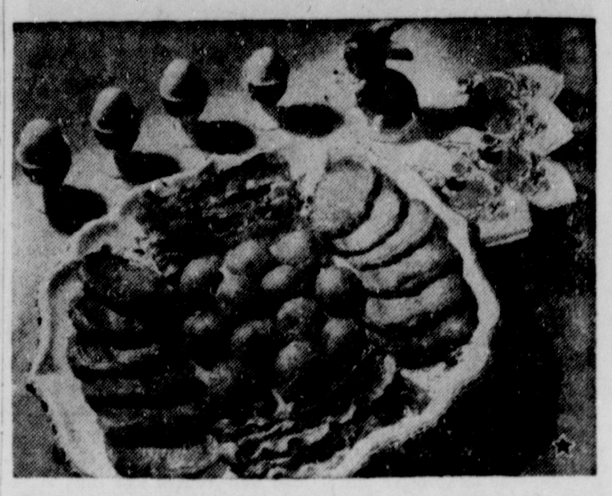
Texas Rice With Frankfurters
1 pound frankfurters
1 cup uncooked rice
¼ cup lard or drippings
½ clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon chili powder
1½ teaspoon salt
1 can (1 pound 4 ounces) tomatoes
1½ cups water

Brown rice in lard or drippings. Add garlic, chili powder, salt, tomatoes and water. Cover tightly and simmer 15 minutes. Add frankfurters, cover and continue cooking 30 minutes or until rice is done. Yield: 6 servings.

Meat Transformed

Serve slices of leftover potroast in a sauce made from the remaining gravy combined with a can of condensed onion soup. Serve on noodles.

Canadian Bacon Is Ideal For Breakfast



Breakfast is a wonderful time of the day to start with a good meal . . . one high in protein to carry you through normal work or study hours without experiencing those mid-morning hunger pangs.

As many homemakers and mothers already know, this first meal of the day should afford the individual between ¼ and ⅓ of his daily food nutrients.

Canadian-style bacon is made by curing and smoking the boneless loin of pork. This type of bacon makes a perfect partner for the "All-American" breakfast commonly known as bacon 'n eggs. This type of bacon can be broiled, panbroiled or panfried. In cooking by any of these methods it is always advocated that a moderate temperature is used.

Regular bacon, as you probably know, is the cured and smoked side of pork which is cut into slices. As in the Canadian-style bacon, this type can be prepared by broiling, panbroiling or panfrying.

Corned Beef In Disguise

So often, corned beef is only thought of in the guise of a hot corned beef sandwich. However, it has so many other uses. Serve it as the main entree with cooked cabbage or as the highlight at a soup and sandwich meal. Diced, it may be combined in a molded salad ring or ground, it can be used in hash.

Beverly Ann Bryan Chosen May Queen At Potomac State College

KEYSER — Miss Beverly Ann Bryan, sophomore pre-education major, was chosen to reign as May Queen at Potomac State College this spring as a result of a campus-wide election yesterday under the auspices of the Student Council.

The young woman selected to be the central figure of importance during the May Day program Saturday, May 9, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryan Sr., 120 Cromwell Street, Luke. She is worthy matron of Sigma Iota Chi Sorority, holds the vice presidency of Sigma Phi Omega Honor Society, and is a member of the Christian Youth Fellowship and the Women's Athletic Association. She came to Potomac State as a graduate of Piedmont High School.

Daniel L. McFadden, a sophomore pre-business major from St. Marys, W. Va., won the honor of being her escort. A veteran of the US Army, he is a son of Mrs. Luella C. McFadden and is a graduate of St. Marys High School. Perhaps best known on the campus as a stellar member of the varsity basketball team, he is also president of the Sophomore Class, president of Phi Kappa Omega Fraternity and a member of Circle K Club and of the Newman Club.

Runnersup for the position of May Queen are the Misses Darley Broome of Keyser and Shelia Kile of Petersburg, both of whom will serve as maids of honor to the queen. Their escorts are Warren Eisenhower of Arlington, Va., and William McPherson of Parkersburg.

The student election also determined a group of eight princesses and their escorts chosen from a field of some 40 candidates. The group, which will be a part of the royal court, is as follows:

Princesses: The Misses Donna Ashenfelter, Keyser; Barbara Bender, Martinsburg; Sue Karickhoff, Philippi; Sheila Parsons, Parsons; Louise Pyles, Keyser; Martha Shriver, Fairmont; Linda Smoot, Romney; and Regina Stento, Newburg.

Escorts: Scott Bowie, Morgantown; Lee Courtney, Grafton; Richard Dowdy, Union; Thomas Greaser, Kingwood; Frank Hale, Weirton; Joesph Harber, Keyser; Ronald Lawman, Nutter Fort; and Hart Stemple, Philippi.

An honorary court consisting of a princess and escort from nearly 40 area high schools will also participate in the program.

Baby Clinic Today

MIDLAND—A Well Baby Clinic will be held today, beginning at 9:30 a.m. in the Medical Center, Railroad Street. Dr. Frank T. Harrat, Frostburg, will be assisted by Mrs. Helen Vogel and Mrs. Betty Johnson, public health nurses. Mrs. Anna Stakem, Mrs. Ethel Elliott and Mrs. Elizabeth Hawkins will serve as nurses aides.

Midland Voters Register Apr. 15 For Town Election

MIDLAND — Registration of new voters who plan to vote in the municipal election, will be held in the Town Hall, Koontz Avenue, Wednesday April 15. All legal voters are urgently requested by Mayor Lionel D. Baker to register at that time.

Beverly Ann Bryan Chosen May Queen At Potomac State College

KEYSER — Miss Beverly Ann Bryan, sophomore pre-education major, was chosen to reign as May Queen at Potomac State College this spring as a result of a campus-wide election yesterday under the auspices of the Student Council.

The young woman selected to be the central figure of importance during the May Day program Saturday, May 9, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryan Sr., 120 Cromwell Street, Luke. She is worthy matron of Sigma Iota Chi Sorority, holds the vice presidency of Sigma Phi Omega Honor Society, and is a member of the Christian Youth Fellowship and the Women's Athletic Association. She came to Potomac State as a graduate of Piedmont High School.

Daniel L. McFadden, a sophomore pre-business major from St. Marys, W. Va., won the honor of being her escort. A veteran of the US Army, he is a son of Mrs. Luella C. McFadden and is a graduate of St. Marys High School. Perhaps best known on the campus as a stellar member of the varsity basketball team, he is also president of the Sophomore Class, president of Phi Kappa Omega Fraternity and a member of Circle K Club and of the Newman Club.

Runnersup for the position of May Queen are the Misses Darley Broome of Keyser and Shelia Kile of Petersburg, both of whom will serve as maids of honor to the queen. Their escorts are Warren Eisenhower of Arlington, Va., and William McPherson of Parkersburg.

The student election also determined a group of eight princesses and their escorts chosen from a field of some 40 candidates. The group, which will be a part of the royal court, is as follows:

Princesses: The Misses Donna Ashenfelter, Keyser; Barbara Bender, Martinsburg; Sue Karickhoff, Philippi; Sheila Parsons, Parsons; Louise Pyles, Keyser; Martha Shriver, Fairmont; Linda Smoot, Romney; and Regina Stento, Newburg.

Escorts: Scott Bowie, Morgantown; Lee Courtney, Grafton; Richard Dowdy, Union; Thomas Greaser, Kingwood; Frank Hale, Weirton; Joesph Harber, Keyser; Ronald Lawman, Nutter Fort; and Hart Stemple, Philippi.

An honorary court consisting of a princess and escort from nearly 40 area high schools will also participate in the program.

RACE FOR LIFE—Two Pittsburgh firemen win a race with death as a section of the New Haven Methodist church roof falls during a fire in 25-mile-an-hour winds. The fire, turned into an inferno by the winds, apparently was started by sparks from a blow torch being used by a wrecker. The congregation of 580 is building a new structure to replace the 60-year-old landmark.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

EASTER RECESS AND EASTER—Congress has just completed the customary Easter recess and has been back in session since Tuesday. The Easter observance turns our thoughts to Divine Providence. Ours are a religious people. Religion has played an important part in our history. Many of our Presidents have been devout, praying men. When problems bore down upon them, they would pray for guidance. It is significant that it was during the administrations of these men that outstanding steps of progress in our nation's history were taken.

At Easter we commemorate the sacrifices of Jesus of Nazareth who suffered that we might have a more abundant life. Today there is need for a spiritual faith to meet threats to our survival. The spirit of Easter gives hope for future which, though beset with problems and dangers, may be ripe with promise.

SENATE PRE-EASTER ACHIEVEMENTS—The Senate in this session—

Liberalized the cloture rule;

Admitted Hawaii as a State;

Voted for 2.7 billion dollars in low-cost housing over a six-year period;

Extended the draft four years;

Authorized a supplemental 48 million dollars for the Space agency;

Voted 465 million dollars for airport construction;

Increased World Bank resources by amounts the President requested;

Voted 389.5 million dollars for alleviating unemployment in depressed areas through a redevelopment program;

Provided 200,000 dollars to enable the Joint Economic Committee to study how the economy is ticking.

SENATE WORK CONTINUES TO INCREASE—A study of records brings out some interesting contrasts in the weight of Senatorial work of the 85th Congress as compared with that of the 1st Congress. In the 1st Congress, there were considered in the Senate 126 bills and resolutions; in the 85th Congress, 5,046 were considered. The number of laws enacted in the 1st Congress, under the heading of public acts and resolutions, was 108; in the 85th Congress, 936. The number of private acts and resolutions enacted in the 1st Congress was 10; in the 85th Congress, 784. In the 1st Congress, in the Senate there were 70 committee reports; in the 85th Congress, 2,505. The number of nominations confirmed by the Senate of the 1st Congress was 221; of the 85th Congress, 103,311.

"WHAT'S THE M. O.?"—The modus operandi, or mode of operating, in Congress is interesting to observe. Those of us who work with legislation realize that the most important requirement in the progress of any legislative measure is a hearing before a Congressional committee. Every bill introduced in the Senate or the House is referred to the committee having jurisdiction. Unless the committee acts favorably upon the measure, the latter usually dies aborning.

The introduction of a bill is the easiest step; the obstacles and the hard work come later. When a hearing is scheduled, it means that the committee desires to explore the merits of the proposed measure. Witnesses, whether they be for or against a given measure, are given opportunity to testify before the committee or subcommittee to advance their views. If the majority of the committee is convinced that the measure should become law, it is then "reported." Sometimes there are minority reports in opposition. If a bill is not favorably looked upon at a hearing, it is not "reported" and, for that session at least, it is normally a dead issue.

MARYLAND FLOOD CONTROL PROJECT—General Person, Assistant Chief of Engineers for Civil Works, tells me that a flood control project for Kitzmiller, Maryland, has been approved. The project is to be on the North Branch of the Potomac. Project approval and construction is contingent upon local cooperation and participation. The cost is currently estimated at about $340,000, of which about $280,000 would be the Federal share and $60,000 the local share.

INTERNATIONAL INSPECTION? NYET! — The Russians talk of banning nuclear tests and of halting nuclear production, but they object to any effective international inspection system. "Ay, there's the rub!" Devices for detecting nuclear explosions may be effective for tests but not for the manufacture of nuclear bombs.

Some pressure is building up in Congress for a few "internationally directed" nuclear explosion tests—to determine whether detection systems are reliable. There is conflicting scientific and political opinion as to whether present detection devices are trustworthy for underground explosions.

Regardless of this, the Administration has no intention of backing away from its original proposals for an international inspection system.

WHERE'S THE SELTZER BOTTLE? — Air Force officials report to me that their researchers are developing a gadget like a siphon bottle to enable weightless space travelers to move around inside or outside of their rocket ships. Actual experiments with the device, called a reactor gun, have been performed under conditions of weightlessness. The reactor gun, consisting of a package of high-pressure air bottles and a short length of hose with nozzle and valves, is strapped to the space traveler's back. To go one way, the space-suited voyager points the nozzle in the opposite direction and presses the handle. The reaction of the high-pressure air rushing out of the nozzle provides sufficient force to propel the man from one point to another.

Without a propelling device, I was informed, the weightless space voyager finds it very difficult to control his movements. By using a reactor gun, it is believed that he will have complete control of his movements simply by "firing" the gun, to start, stop, or change direction.

MUSIC FOR YOUNG AMERICA—Maryland students planning Spring tours of the Nation's Capital will be interested in the opportunity of attending Music-For-Young-America concerts by the National Symphony Orchestra. The concerts will be held every evening for five weeks, April 15 to May 19. The manager of the National Symphony wishes to extend, through me, an invitation to the young people of Maryland to attend one of these concerts. Free tickets will be available to groups who make their reservations through my office.

In conjunction with the concerts, the National Symphony will hold the Merriweather Post Contest, which is open to all high school violinists, pianists and cellists. The winner will receive a prize of $2,000 and a contract to make solo appearances with the National Symphony.

CAPITOL MYSTERY! BONES! —Workmen excavating the foundation for the Capitol's new east front came up with a surprise—old bones. But bones of what? Were they the remains of some prehistoric Indian, or of a Revolutionary warrior? Or were they grisly evidence of a crime at the very seat of the nation? No such thing. They proved to be merely chicken, turkey, pig and ox bones.

Somebody just had a cook-out, a barbecue, the experts decided. But who? Historians went through the files and decided it was none other than George Washington. The theory is that on the evening of the cornerstone laying, September 18, 1793, the Father of His Country threw quite a whingding.

Flights Simulated To 40-Mile Level

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Three X15 rocket ship pilots have made simulated flights to 200,000 feet in an altitude chamber here, the Air Force said Wednesday.

The X15, designed to take a man to more than twice this height, is undergoing preflight tests at this desert test center 150 miles north of Los Angeles.

The three men who have reached the 40-mile mark in the altitude chamber are Air Force Capt. Robert Rushworth and Neil Armstrong and Joe Walker, National Aeronautics and Space Administration test pilots.

Three others, Air Force Capt. Robert White and test pilots Scott Crossfield and Al White of North American Aviation, will be exposed to the 40-mile level in the chamber soon.

The altitude chamber tests were made to check out the pilots' individually fitted pressure suits.

The number of laws enacted in the 1st Congress, under the heading of public acts and resolutions, was 108; in the 85th Congress, 936. The number of private acts and resolutions enacted in the 1st Congress was 10; in the 85th Congress, 784. In the 1st Congress, in the Senate there were 70 committee reports; in the 85th Congress, 2,505. The number of nominations confirmed by the Senate of the 1st Congress was 221; of the 85th Congress, 103,311.

"WHAT'S THE M. O.?"—The modus operandi, or mode of operating, in Congress is interesting to observe. Those of us who work with legislation realize that the most important requirement in the progress of any legislative measure is a hearing before a Congressional committee. Every bill introduced in the Senate or the House is referred to the committee having jurisdiction. Unless the committee acts favorably upon the measure, the latter usually dies aborning.

The introduction of a bill is the easiest step; the obstacles and the hard work come later. When a hearing is scheduled, it means that the committee desires to explore the merits of the proposed measure. Witnesses, whether they be for or against a given measure, are given opportunity to testify before the committee or subcommittee to advance their views. If the majority of the committee is convinced that the measure should become law, it is then "reported." Sometimes there are minority reports in opposition. If a bill is not favorably looked upon at a hearing, it is not "reported" and, for that session at least, it is normally a dead issue.

MARYLAND FLOOD CONTROL PROJECT—General Person, Assistant Chief of Engineers for Civil Works, tells me that a flood control project for Kitzmiller, Maryland, has been approved. The project is to be on the North Branch of the Potomac. Project approval and construction is contingent upon local cooperation and participation. The cost is currently estimated at about $340,000, of which about $280,000 would be the Federal share and $60,000 the local share.

INTERNATIONAL INSPECTION? NYET! — The Russians talk of banning nuclear tests and of halting nuclear production, but they object to any effective international inspection system. "Ay, there's the rub!" Devices for detecting nuclear explosions may be effective for tests but not for the manufacture of nuclear bombs.

Some pressure is building up in Congress for a few "internationally directed" nuclear explosion tests—to determine whether detection systems are reliable. There is conflicting scientific and political opinion as to whether present detection devices are trustworthy for underground explosions.

Regardless of this, the Administration has no intention of backing away from its original proposals for an international inspection system.

WHERE'S THE SELTZER BOTTLE? — Air Force officials report to me that their researchers are developing a gadget like a siphon bottle to enable weightless space travelers to move around inside or outside of their rocket ships. Actual experiments with the device, called a reactor gun, have been performed under conditions of weightlessness. The reactor gun, consisting of a package of high-pressure air bottles and a short length of hose with nozzle and valves, is strapped to the space traveler's back. To go one way, the space-suited voyager points the nozzle in the opposite direction and presses the handle. The reaction of the high-pressure air rushing out of the nozzle provides sufficient force to propel the man from one point to another.

Without a propelling device, I was informed, the weightless space voyager finds it very difficult to control his movements. By using a reactor gun, t is believed that he will have complete control of his movements simply by "firing" the gun, to start, stop, or change direction.

MUSIC FOR YOUNG AMERICA—Maryland students planning Spring tours of the Nation's Capital will be interested in the opportunity of attending Music-For-Young-America concerts by the National Symphony Orchestra. The concerts will be held every evening for five weeks, April 15 to May 19. The manager of the National Symphony wishes to extend, through me, an invitation to the young people of Maryland to attend one of these concerts. Free tickets will be available to groups who make their reservations through my office.

In conjunction with the concerts, the National Symphony will hold the Merriweather Post Contest, which is open to all high school violinists, pianists and cellists. The winner will receive a prize of $2,000 and a contract to make solo appearances with the National Symphony.

CAPITOL MYSTERY! BONES! —Workmen excavating the foundation for the Capitol's new east front came up with a surprise—old bones. But bones of what? Were they the remains of some prehistoric Indian, or of a Revolutionary warrior? Or were they grisly evidence of a crime at the very seat of the nation? No such thing. They proved to be merely chicken, turkey, pig and ox bones.

Somebody just had a cook-out, a barbecue, the experts decided. But who? Historians went through the files and decided it was none other than George Washington. The theory is that on the evening of the cornerstone laying, September 18, 1793, the Father of His Country threw quite a whingding.

Flights Simulated To 40-Mile Level

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Three X15 rocket ship pilots have made simulated flights to 200,000 feet in an altitude chamber here, the Air Force said Wednesday.

The X15, designed to take a man to more than twice this height, is undergoing preflight tests at this desert test center 150 miles north of Los Angeles.

The three men who have reached the 40-mile mark in the altitude chamber are Air Force Capt. Robert Rushworth and Neil Armstrong and Joe Walker, National Aeronautics and Space Administration test pilots.

Three others, Air Force Capt. Robert White and test pilots Scott Crossfield and Al White of North American Aviation, will be exposed to the 40-mile level in the chamber soon.

The altitude chamber tests were made to check out the pilots' individually fitted pressure suits.

Bob Purkey Hurls Cincy To 4-1 Triumph Over Pirates

Robinson Is Batting Star For Redlegs

Belts 2-Run Homer, Drives In 3rd Run; 32,190 Attend Game

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Frank Robinson drove in three runs with a homer and a single and Bob Purkey pitched a six-hitter Thursday to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the opening game of the National League season.

Robinson, making his debut as Cincinnati's regular first baseman, hammered a two-run homer in the fourth inning to give the Reds a 2-1 lead and also singled home a run in the fifth inning.

Purkey, a native of Pittsburgh who is always at his best against the Pirates, was tagged for a run in the third on Hank Foiles' single, a sacrifice and another single by Roberto Clemente. Purkey, who also spoiled the Pirates' home opener last season by an identical score, now has beaten his former teammates four times without a defeat.

Kline The Victim

A capacity crowd of 32,190 which spilled over onto temporary seats placed on the outfield terrace saw Mayo Smith get off to a glittering start as the new manager of the Reds. Smith's selection as the Reds' new pilot was sharply criticized last winter by Cincinnati fans who hoped ex-Coach Jimmy Dykes would get the job.

Ron Kline, a fireballing 210-pound right hander who was selected to start the season for the Pirates so 22 - game winner Bob Friend could start Friday's home opener against the National League champion Milwaukee Braves, shut out the Reds for three innings.

Vada Pinson, whose grand-slam homer gave Purkey his margin of victory over the Pirates in the 1958 opener singled to center to start the fourth frame. Gus Bell popped out but then Robinson lined a homer over the left field wall to put the Reds ahead, 2-1. A double by Jerry Lynch and a walk to Ed Bailey put Kline in further trouble, but he retired Roy McMillan to end the inning.

Purkey Belts Double

The Reds tore into Kline at the start of the fifth again, when Purkey himself opened the frame with a ground rule double into the temporary center field seats. Pinson slashed a single to left to score Purkey, moved to second on an infield out and scored the Reds' final run when Robinson singled to center.

Kline was relieved when Lynch walked to open the sixth and R.G. Smith and Bob Porterfield shut out the Reds the remainder of the way.

The Pirates took their temporary lead in the third which Foiles opened with a single to center. Kline sacrificed and Bill Virdon lined to Lynch before Clemente slashed a single to right field to send home Foiles.

Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky, the former commissioner of baseball, threw out the first ball to Mayor Donald Clancy of Cincinnati on the mound. Clancy then delivered the ball to "catcher" C. A. Harrell, the city manager.

Robinson and Pinson each had two hits for the Reds while no Pirate had more than one off Purkey, a 17-game winner last season. The loss was Kline's 10th in 12 decisions against the Reds during his career.

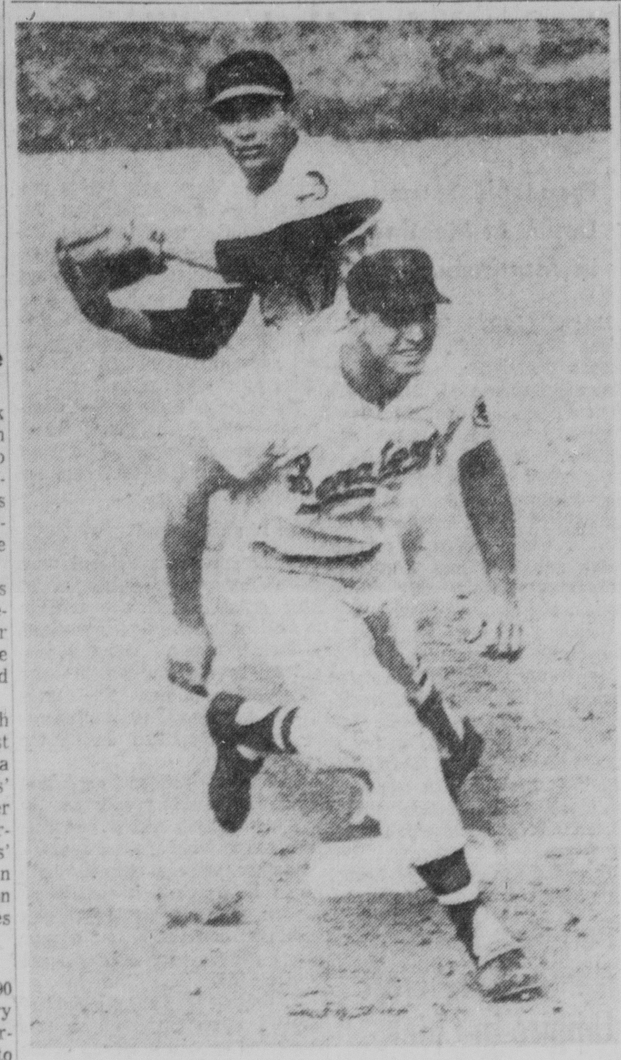
On-And-On Will Run In Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — On-And-On, Calumet Farm's principal hope for its eighth Kentucky Derby victory, tests his fitness Friday.

The bay son of Nasrullah-Two Lea is entered in a six furlong spring on Keeneland race course's second day card. His competition includes K. G. Marshall's John Bruce, another derby nominee, and Mrs. Lloyd Tate's Boston Tea-party.

Hard Working Pappy

BALTIMORE — War Admiral, who pulled off one of racing's unique doubles in the same year by winning the Preakness and Pimlico Special of 1937, has sired the winners of more than $6,000,000 in purses since being retired to stud.



HISTORY IN THE MAKING—Outfielder Bob Allison of the Washington Senators scampers toward first base in a vain attempt to keep from being the third out in a triple play in the fifth inning of yesterday's game at Washington. However, Chico Carrasquel of the Orioles, running behind Allison, tossed to first to complete the first triple play in an opening game in major league history. It went like this: Roy Sievers and Allison took off on Ed Fitz Gerald's line drive which first baseman Bob Boyd grabbed to retire the batter. Then Boyd threw to Carrasquel to nab Sievers and caught Carrasquel's relay to catch Allison off first. (AP Photofax).

To Defend Title

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UPI)—Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., will defend her title against a record field of 30 challengers when the seventh annual Babe Zaharias Women's Open golf tournament opens Friday.

The $6,000 54 - hole tournament will be played over the 6,351-yard Beaumont Country Club course.

Miss Suggs, who also won the title in 1954, must beat off the challenges of several fine players, including Marlene Bauer Hagge, Betsy Rawls, Mickey Wright and Ruthie Jessen. All of them have won tournaments on the 1959 tour.

Mutuel Clerk Is Taken For $972.40 At Laurel Track

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — August Bruder got taken for $972.40 at the races but not the usual way.

Bruder, of Baltimore, erroneously cashed a bogus betting ticket on the daily double Wednesday.

He is a 15-year veteran of taking in and doling out money at track pari-mutuel windows.

The longshot payoff in Wednesday's races was $972.40 for $2, and because of the large payoff, tickets were cashed at the $50 window where Bruder operated. He cashed 34 authentic ducats on the winning combination of 7 and 1.

He explained the counterfeiter had rubbed out a "1" on a ticket which originally had the numbers 7 and 11.

It was a bitter lesson. The money will be taken out of Bruder's pay check.

On Monday, somebody slipped by with a $33.40 payment on a forged ticket and Wednesday a counterfeiter slipped a "pigeon" past the window for a $15.60 return. "Pigeon" is track jargon for bogus tickets.

Bing Bang traveled the distance in 1:43 2-5 to pay $8.40, $2.70 and $2.20. Whitley, favored with Eddie Arcaro up, returned $2.50 and $2.20 while Mustato paid $2.30.

Birds Suspend Willie Miranda

Must Get In Shape Before Being Paid

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Willie Miranda, Baltimore Orioles shortstop who makes a habit of reporting late to the club each spring, was hit where it hurt the most Thursday when the club announced that he is being suspended without pay until he gets into playing shape.

The slick fielding infielder, who has an eight-year major league batting average of only .224, was 35 days late in reporting to the Orioles this spring. This has cost him $1,000—$500 for failing to report for the opening of training on Feb. 26 and $500 again when he didn't show up on a special deadline set by General Manager Lee McPhail.

Miranda joined the club a week ago and offered no explanation for his tardiness. It marked the fifth straight spring he has failed to report on time.

Manager Paul Richards, in explaining the suspension, said that the Orioles had made an attempt to trade Miranda, but hadn't found anyone interested in the little Cuban.

"No team in baseball wants Willie," was the way he put it.

Fetchik Leads In Greensboro Golf Tourney

Yonkers Pro Posts 66 In First Round

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—Mike Fetchik of Yonkers, N.Y., broke out of his slump Thursday to fire a five-under-par 66 and take a one-stroke lead at the end of the $15,000 22nd annual Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

The 36-year-old Fetchik, who had been in a bad slump since his fourth place tie in the Tijuana Open Invitational tournament in January, fired a 35-31--66 to finish one stroke ahead of Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Texas, who had appeared to have the first-round lead virtually sewed up with his four-under par 67.

Fetchik, one of the most deliberate players on the tour, travelled around the front nine with a bogey and a birdie for his par 35, then came through with birdies on the 11th, 14th and 15th and an eagle on the 18th to turn in a five-under-par 31 for the back nine.

Maxwell's 67 had looked good enough — especially with Masters champ Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., turning in a two-under-par 69 and six-time tourney winner Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., carding a disastrous two-over-par 73.

Dow Finsterwald, the reigning PGA champion from Tequesta, Fla., bogeyed twice, once on the front nine and again on the back side to go around with a three-under 68.

35,000 To See Pittsburgh Battle Milwaukee Today

Two Night Games Listed; Yankees Open With Bosox

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the special ceremonial opener out of the way, the rest of the big league baseball teams will swing into action Friday with seven games expected to draw more than 200,000 persons.

The New York Yankees, out of first place for at least one day this season, will open their bid for a 10th flag in 11 years for Manager Casey Stengel at Yankee Stadium. The Boston Red Sox, minus ailing Ted Williams, will provide the opposition.

Yankees Face Bosox

After the distribution of World Series awards and assorted trophies for excellence to the Yankees of 1958, the clubs will settle down for a battle between the Yanks' Bob Turley (21-7) and the Red Sox' Tom Brewer (12-12).

Perhaps the largest crowd of all will be the 37,000 expected at Detroit for the struggle between Chicago's Billy Pierce (17-11) and the Tigers' Jim Bunning (14-12). These two clubs generally are given the best chance of upsetting the Yanks.

Kansas City opens against the revamped Cleveland Indians, who have picked Gary Bell (12-10) as their starting pitcher. Bob Grim (7-7), former Yankee relief man, will do the honors for Kansas City.

After their presidential opener Thursday in Washington, the Senators and Baltimore Orioles will take the day off to resume Saturday.

Pittsburgh fans are due to turn out 35,000 strong for the Forbes Field game with the defending champions from Milwaukee. Bob Friend (22-14) will go for the Pirates against the Braves' old reliable, Warren Spahn (22-11).

The Chicago Cubs will be at Wrigley Field in their home opener against Los Angeles. Bob Anderson (3-3), who saw only part time service with the Cubs last year, is to be the pitcher. The Dodgers bank on Don Drysdale (12-13).

Two Games Tonight

Two night games round out the seven-game opening schedule. San Francisco, picked by many to beat out Milwaukee, will be at St. Louis, and Cincinnati, with one game under its belt, will be at Philadelphia.

Manager Billy Rigney is entrusting the opening job to Johnny Antonelli (16-13). Solly Hemus will pitch Larry Jackson (13-13) for the Cardinals.

Robin Roberts (17-14) will draw his 10th opening day assignment for the Phillies against Cincinnati. Roberts has a 4-4 record with one no decision in nine previous openers. Joe Nuxhall (12-11) is the tentative Cincinnati starter.

Six High School Games Scheduled

Fort Hill High School will play host to the Alumni baseball team today at Fort Hill Field at 4 p.m.

Other area games include Wardensville at Capon Bridge, Moorefield at Franklin, Keyser at Romney, Paw Paw at Fort Ashby and the Alumni at Circleville.

Phils Buy Hurler

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies announced Thursday the purchase of Chris Short, 21-year-old left - handed pitcher from their Williamsport Eastern League farm team.

Short, a Georgetown, Del., lad, who has been in the Phillies' farm system less than two years, had a 13-13 record with High Point last year but his earned run average was 2.63.

Sentinels Host Rebels, Bulldog Track Teams

Triangular Affair Here Today At 3:30

Fort Hill High School will open its track and field season today by playing host to Martinsburg High School and South Hagerstown High School today at 3:30 at the local stadium.

Charles Robinson, hurdles and high jumping star of the Sentinels, who led the point scorers last season, will see only limited action today because of a pulled knee ligament, Coach William P. Hahn announced last night.

Hahn stated that Robinson is definitely out of the hurdles and high jump and if he sees any action at all it will be in the relays.

There will be 15 events on today's program, namely, 100 and 220 yard dashes, 440 and 880 yard runs, mile run, high and low hurdles, high and broad jump, pole vault, shot put, discus, 440 relay, 880 relay and mile relay.

Point scoring will be 5-3-2-1 in individual events and 10-5 in the relays.

Bob Purkey Hurls Cincy To 4-1 Triumph Over Pirates

Belts 2-Run Homer, Drives In 3rd Run; 32,190 Attend Game

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Frank Robinson drove in three runs with a homer and a single and Bob Purkey pitched a six-hitter Thursday to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the opening game of the National League season.

Robinson, making his debut as Cincinnati's regular first baseman, hammered a two-run homer in the fourth inning to give the Reds a 2-1 lead and also singled home a run in the fifth inning.

Purkey, a native of Pittsburgh who is always at his best against the Pirates, was tagged for a run in the third on Hank Foiles' single, a sacrifice and another single by Roberto Clemente. Purkey, who also spoiled the Pirates' home opener last season by an identical score, now has beaten his former teammates four times without a defeat.

A capacity crowd of 32,190 which spilled over onto temporary seats placed on the outfield terrace saw Mayo Smith get off to a glittering start as the new manager of the Reds. Smith's selection as the Reds' new pilot was sharply criticized last winter by Cincinnati fans who hoped ex-Coach Jimmy Dykes would get the job.

Ron Kline, a fireballing 210-pound right hander who was selected to start the season for the Pirates so 22 - game winner Bob Friend could start Friday's home opener against the National League champion Milwaukee Braves, shut out the Reds for three innings.

Vada Pinson, whose grand-slam homer gave Purkey his margin of victory over the Pirates in the 1958 opener singled to center to start the fourth frame. Gus Bell popped out but then Robinson lined a homer over the left field wall to put the Reds ahead, 2-1. A double by Jerry Lynch and a walk to Ed Bailey put Kline in further trouble, but he retired Roy McMillan to end the inning.

Purkey Belts Double

The Reds tore into Kline at the start of the fifth again, when Purkey himself opened the frame with a ground rule double into the temporary center field seats. Pinson slashed a single to left to score Purkey, moved to second on an infield out and scored the Reds' final run when Robinson singled to center.

Kline was relieved when Lynch walked to open the sixth and R.G. Smith and Bob Porterfield shut out the Reds the remainder of the way.

The Pirates took their temporary lead in the third which Foiles opened with a single to center. Kline sacrificed and Bill Virdon lined to Lynch before Clemente slashed a single to right field to send home Foiles.

Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky, the former commissioner of baseball, threw out the first ball to Mayor Donald Clancy of Cincinnati on the mound. Clancy then delivered the ball to "catcher" C. A. Harrell, the city manager.

Robinson and Pinson each had two hits for the Reds while no Pirate had more than one off Purkey, a 17-game winner last season. The loss was Kline's 10th in 12 decisions against the Reds during his career.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING—Outfielder Bob Allison of the Washington Senators scampers toward first base in a vain attempt to keep from being the third out in a triple play in the fifth inning of yesterday's game at Washington. However, Chico Carrasquel of the Orioles, running behind Allison, tossed to first to complete the first triple play in an opening game in major league history. It went like this: Roy Sievers and Allison took off on Ed Fitz Gerald's line drive which first baseman Bob Boyd grabbed to retire the batter. Then Boyd threw to Carrasquel to nab Sievers and caught Carrasquel's relay to catch Allison off first. (AP Photofax).

The $6,000 54 - hole tournament will be played over the 6,351-yard Beaumont Country Club course.

Mutuel Clerk Is Taken For $972.40 At Laurel Track

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — August Bruder got taken for $972.40 at the races but not the usual way.

Bruder, of Baltimore, erroneously cashed a bogus betting ticket on the daily double Wednesday.

He is a 15-year veteran of taking in and doling out money at track pari-mutuel windows.

The longshot payoff in Wednesday's races was $972.40 for $2, and because of the large payoff, tickets were cashed at the $50 window where Bruder operated. He cashed 34 authentic ducats on the winning combination of 7 and 1.

He explained the counterfeiter had rubbed out a "1" on a ticket which originally had the numbers 7 and 11.

It was a bitter lesson. The money will be taken out of Bruder's pay check.

On Monday, somebody slipped by with a $33.40 payment on a forged ticket and Wednesday a counterfeiter slipped a "pigeon" past the window for a $15.60 return. "Pigeon" is track jargon for bogus tickets.

Bing Bang traveled the distance in 1:43 2-5 to pay $8.40, $2.70 and $2.20. Whitley, favored with Eddie Arcaro up, returned $2.50 and $2.20 while Mustato paid $2.30.

Birds Suspend Willie Miranda

Must Get In Shape Before Being Paid

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Willie Miranda, Baltimore Orioles shortstop who makes a habit of reporting late to the club each spring, was hit where it hurt the most Thursday when the club announced that he is being suspended without pay until he gets into playing shape.

The slick fielding infielder, who has an eight-year major league batting average of only .224, was 35 days late in reporting to the Orioles this spring. This has cost him $1,000—$500 for failing to report for the opening of training on Feb. 26 and $500 again when he didn't show up on a special deadline set by General Manager Lee McPhail.

Miranda joined the club a week ago and offered no explanation for his tardiness. It marked the fifth straight spring he has failed to report on time.

Manager Paul Richards, in explaining the suspension, said that the Orioles had made an attempt to trade Miranda, but hadn't found anyone interested in the little Cuban.

"No team in baseball wants Willie," was the way he put it.

Terps Win, 10-0

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Maryland's Dick Reitz pitched a perfect game until rain shortened the Terps' 10-0 shutout after seven innings Thursday.

The crafty righthander struck out eight while winning his third against one defeat. He has won all of Maryland's games in a 3-2 season record. Hopkins is 1-2.

Fetchik Leads In Greensboro Golf Tourney

Yonkers Pro Posts 66 In First Round

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—Mike Fetchik of Yonkers, N.Y., broke out of his slump Thursday to fire a five-under-par 66 and take a one-stroke lead at the end of the $15,000 22nd annual Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

The 36-year-old Fetchik, who had been in a bad slump since his fourth place tie in the Tijuana Open Invitational tournament in January, fired a 35-31--66 to finish one stroke ahead of Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Texas, who had appeared to have the first-round lead virtually sewed up with his four-under par 67.

Fetchik, one of the most deliberate players on the tour, travelled around the front nine with a bogey and a birdie for his par 35, then came through with birdies on the 11th, 14th and 15th and an eagle on the 18th to turn in a five-under-par 31 for the back nine.

Maxwell's 67 had looked good enough — especially with Masters champ Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., turning in a two-under-par 69 and six-time tourney winner Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., carding a disastrous two-over-par 73.

Dow Finsterwald, the reigning PGA champion from Tequesta, Fla., bogeyed twice, once on the front nine and again on the back side to go around with a three-under 68.

35,000 To See Pittsburgh Battle Milwaukee Today

Two Night Games Listed; Yankees Open With Bosox

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the special ceremonial opener out of the way, the rest of the big league baseball teams will swing into action Friday with seven games expected to draw more than 200,000 persons.

The New York Yankees, out of first place for at least one day this season, will open their bid for a 10th flag in 11 years for Manager Casey Stengel at Yankee Stadium. The Boston Red Sox, minus ailing Ted Williams, will provide the opposition.

Yankees Face Bosox

After the distribution of World Series awards and assorted trophies for excellence to the Yankees of 1958, the clubs will settle down for a battle between the Yanks' Bob Turley (21-7) and the Red Sox' Tom Brewer (12-12).

Perhaps the largest crowd of all will be the 37,000 expected at Detroit for the struggle between Chicago's Billy Pierce (17-11) and the Tigers' Jim Bunning (14-12). These two clubs generally are given the best chance of upsetting the Yanks.

Kansas City opens against the revamped Cleveland Indians, who have picked Gary Bell (12-10) as their starting pitcher. Bob Grim (7-7), former Yankee relief man, will do the honors for Kansas City.

After their presidential opener Thursday in Washington, the Senators and Baltimore Orioles will take the day off to resume Saturday.

Pittsburgh fans are due to turn out 35,000 strong for the Forbes Field game with the defending champions from Milwaukee. Bob Friend (22-14) will go for the Pirates against the Braves' old reliable, Warren Spahn (22-11).

The Chicago Cubs will be at Wrigley Field in their home opener against Los Angeles. Bob Anderson (3-3), who saw only part time service with the Cubs last year, is to be the pitcher. The Dodgers bank on Don Drysdale (12-13).

Two Games Tonight

Two night games round out the seven-game opening schedule. San Francisco, picked by many to beat out Milwaukee, will be at St. Louis, and Cincinnati, with one game under its belt, will be at Philadelphia.

Manager Billy Rigney is entrusting the opening job to Johnny Antonelli (16-13). Solly Hemus will pitch Larry Jackson (13-13) for the Cardinals.

Robin Roberts (17-14) will draw his 10th opening day assignment for the Phillies against Cincinnati. Roberts has a 4-4 record with one no decision in nine previous openers. Joe Nuxhall (12-11) is the tentative Cincinnati starter.

Six High School Games Scheduled

Fort Hill High School will play host to the Alumni baseball team today at Fort Hill Field at 4 p.m.

Other area games include Wardensville at Capon Bridge, Moorefield at Franklin, Keyser at Romney, Paw Paw at Fort Ashby and the Alumni at Circleville.

Phils Buy Hurler

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies announced Thursday the purchase of Chris Short, 21-year-old left - handed pitcher from their Williamsport Eastern League farm team.

Short, a Georgetown, Del., lad, who has been in the Phillies' farm system less than two years, had a 13-13 record with High Point last year but his earned run average was 2.63.

Sentinels Host Rebels, Bulldog Track Teams

Triangular Affair Here Today At 3:30

Fort Hill High School will open its track and field season today by playing host to Martinsburg High School and South Hagerstown High School today at 3:30 at the local stadium.

Charles Robinson, hurdles and high jumping star of the Sentinels, who led the point scorers last season, will see only limited action today because of a pulled knee ligament, Coach William P. Hahn announced last night.

Hahn stated that Robinson is definitely out of the hurdles and high jump and if he sees any action at all it will be in the relays.

There will be 15 events on today's program, namely, 100 and 220 yard dashes, 440 and 880 yard runs, mile run, high and low hurdles, high and broad jump, pole vault, shot put, discus, 440 relay, 880 relay and mile relay.

Point scoring will be 5-3-2-1 in individual events and 10-5 in the relays.

Pedro Ramos Baffles Baltimore, Senators Win, 9-2

Orioles Pull Triple Play In Opening Tilt

Washington Gathers 14 Hits; Killebrew, Bertoia Hit Homers

By ERNEST BARCELLA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. (no windup) Nixon lobbed out two ceremonial "first" balls Thursday. Then Washington right - hander Pedro Ramos took over the pitching and unceremoniously whipped the Baltimore Orioles, 9-2, in the opening game of the season.

Ramos had a six-hit shutout going until two out in the ninth inning when Gus Triandos boomed a two-run homer into the left field seats.

The crafty Cuban was backed by a solid, 14-hit attack, including two-run homers by Harmon Killebrew and Reno Bertoia in the fourth inning. Baltimore starter Jack Harshman yielded both home runs and was charged with the loss. His successors — Hoyt Wilhelm and Ernie Johnson — failed to stem the Senators surge. They yielded two runs apiece.

Pull Triple Play

Outside of Triandos' home run, Baltimore had only one moment of glory. That came in the fifth inning when first baseman Bob Boyd started and finished a triple play—believed the first in Washington's 59-year opening day history. The Orioles matched their futility at the plate with a scatter-arm defense, committing three throwing errors that figured in the scoring.

The Senators plagued Baltimore with further indignities by stealing four bases—nearly one-fourth their entire total (13) for the 1958 season.

A shirt-sleeve crowd of 26,850 jammed bunting - decked Griffith Stadium for the traditional ceremony of the season's opener. This was the earliest opening game in major league history — and the hottest. The temperature soared to a broiling 87. Predicted rain held off until the last Oriole was thrown out. Then, at precisely that moment, it poured.

Nixon In "Relief"

Nixon was the first "relief pitcher" of the game. He substituted for vacationing President Eisenhower in throwing out the ceremonial first ball.

The vice president promptly became the most famous no-windup pitcher since Don (Perfect Game) Larsen of the New York Yankees. Nixon gave them two for the money—two "first" balls, both of them bloopers.

Although the President was away on a golfing holiday, there was an Eisenhower in the house. The President's young grandson, David, came out to root for the Senators.

David and his fellow Washington fans had plenty to cheer.

Collect 14 Hits

The Senators, who closed out the 1958 season with 13 straight losses, came out swinging. When the day was done, they had supported Ramos' brilliant seven-hit pitching with a 14-hit attack that consisted of 10 singles, 2 doubles and the Killebrew and Bertoia home runs.

Six Senators — Ramos, Bertoia, Killebrew, rookie Bob Allison, newcomer Ron Samford and Norm Zauchin — clubbed out two hits apiece. Roy Sievers and Albie Pearson got the other hits—both singles.

Washington locked up the game with a four-run fourth.

Until the ninth, Ramos had allowed only two Orioles to reach second, had struck out six, walked none, and retired 11 men in a row. Then Boyd bounced a double off the right field fence to open the ninth. Ramos retired the next two men, but Triandos powered his homer into the left field seats and deprived the Cuban right hander of his shutout.

Coach Set Records 21st Year For Loop

Suder Rites Today Booters' Reunion

By C. V. BURNS

ENORDO "Moose" Arnone, who makes his debut as baseball coach at Beall High School next week, is the holder of county league's all-time pitching record of 34 wins and two losses.

Arnone, a southpaw, hurled the Mountaineers to three straight championships by posting 9-0, 12-0 and 11-1 records in 1950, 1951 and 1952 after a 2-1 mark in 1949, his freshman year.

"Moose" also holds the record of consecutive wins, having reeled off 21 in a row in 1950 and 1951.

Arnone succeeds Melvin Brown, whose Beall teams won 17 and lost 24 in three seasons.

WHEN the eight-team schoolboy league opens its 21st season Tuesday three nines will be cast in the role of defending champions as Mt. Savage, Allegany and Fort Hill finished in a tie last season with 11-3 records.

Major John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh is the only mentor who has completed 20 years' service in the circuit. Allegany, Beall, Fort Hill and LaSalle are the only charter members still in the circuit. Hyndman, Paw Paw and Keyser were the other starters in 1939.

Other coaches in the league when it started were Edward Finzel, Beall; Arnett Swisher, Paw Paw; Homer Fizer, Keyser; Hubert Radcliffe, Allegany; Phil Fleming, LaSalle and Roscoe Wareham, Hyndman.

Finzel is still at Beall as soccer and basketball coach; Fizer is coaching at University High, Morgantown; Hubert Radcliffe is now the principal at Mt. Savage High School; Phil Fleming is Cumberland police and fire commissioner and Swisher is teaching at Keyser High School.

Fort Hill has finished on top eight times, winning the title outright five times and sharing the honors on three other occasions. Beall has finished first six times, including one tie, and LaSalle has been on top five times, including three ties.

Of the eight schools now in the league, Valley, Bruce and Flintstone never have won or tied for the championship.

FINAL RITES will be held today at 2 p.m., at the Hafer Funeral Home for Michael F. Suder, 61, an outstanding southpaw pitcher of the 1920s, who died Tuesday at his home on Central Avenue. Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Mike pitched for Thomas (W. Va.) teams and his brother Tom was the catcher. Tony Stankus was the other mound star at Thomas in those days when the Tucker Countians beat Frostburg's Demons, the old Liberty Athletic Club of Cumberland and other leading teams in the tri-state area. The late Tony Mlekush played shortstop and managed the Thomas teams.

EDWARD C. FINZEL, Beall High School's soccer and basketball mentor, plans to attend the 25th reunion of the Penn State soccer team that Coach Bill Jeffrey took to Scotland in 1934.

The 1933 team from which the players came was undefeated and upon its return Jeffrey's squads went unbeaten for the next eight years—hanging up a string of 65 games.

Jeffrey owned one of the most fabulous records in soccer when he retired in 1953 and took a teaching-coaching assignment at the University of Puerto Rico's Engineering College at Mayaguez. Now 66, he plans to return to University Park, Pa., within a year or two and settle down there.

The old coach has been in touch with Finzel and other players who went with him to Scotland and they have promised to go back to the campus for the reunion June 12, 13 and 14. Dr. Bill Nicholson, of Virginia; John Binns, Washington, D. C., and Finzel are on the reunion committee and are rounding up the old players from coast-to-coast.

Finzel, incidentally, made the All-America soccer team in 1932 and 1933. He played an inside right position for the Nittany Lions both years and set up plays for the center forward and both wings.

Finzel was on the 1932 Penn State team that beat Army by the score of 2-0 and started the Lions 65-game victory string.

Bill Prichard, whom Finzel coached at Beall, was on the Penn State team nine years later when the Lions' winning streak was snapped by Army at West Point, 1-0.

WHEN Cueva's Travelers of Westernport won the Windber (Pa.) Community League Basketball Tournament on Sunday Jim Cave was the recipient of the Sportsmanship Award.

Three of the members of the Westernport team are school teachers. Glenn Smith is at Paw Paw High School, Marple is in Frederick county and Cave in Prince Georges County.

CLARENCE F. SCHAFER, Cumberland Colts shortstop of 40-45 years ago in the days of the Cumberland & Georges Creek League, and former trust officer of the First National Bank, before his retirement, witnessed a number of the Grapefruit League games at St. Petersburg and among the young players who impressed him most were Cletis Boyer and Jim Bronstad of the Yankees and Vada Pinson and Orlando Pena, of the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Schafer reports that Warren Spahn looked great this spring and should have another good season.

THE Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League is nearing the end of its eleventh season and among the teams almost certain to get into the playoffs is Farrady Post, American Legion of Frostburg, which has bagged post-season honors six years in a row.

Stadium Inn, Frostburg, won in 1950 and 1951, while the only other winners were Cumberland W.O.W. in 1952 and Cresap Tavern in 1949, the first year of the circuit.

VINCENT (Vinnie) Farrell, the widely known sports official, who has many friends here, will be presented a plaque and a life membership to the Collegiate Basketball Officials Association at their annual banquet in New York City on Saturday.

Farrell, now supervisor of physical education for the City of Newark, N. J., was one of the original organizers of the college association.

Dick Metz Leads Lake Charles Golf

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Old pro Dick Metz snipped five strokes off par with a 67 on a soggy course Thursday to take the first round lead in the $5,000 Lake Charles Invitational Golf Tournament.

The 50-year-old Fort Worth, Tex. tournament veteran, defending the title he won in a sudden death playoff last year, turned in a card that showed 33-34, including five birdies and only one bogey.

Grouped at 68 behind the broad-shouldered Texan in the runner-up spot was a quintet headed by former amateur star Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn. Rudolph had a chance to tie for the lead, but he missed a two-foot putt on the 393-yard 15th hole and had to settle for a bogey five, the only hole he went overpar.

Boston Makes 4-Game Sweep To Take Title

Celtics Defeat Lakers, 118-113

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bullseye Bill Sharman blunted the Minneapolis Lakers' last gasp challenge Thursday night and Boston won the National Basketball Assn. championship with a 118-113 victory that gave the Celtics an unprecedented sweep of the title playoffs.

Sharman's long one-handed casts from the sides and behind the foul circle bailed the Celtics out of trouble after Bob Leonard and Elgin Baylor teamed to shoot the Lakers into the lead.

Sharman, 32-year-old veteran, finished with 29 points in one of the finest hours of his long pro career. He experienced the minor disappointment, however, of seeing his record foul shot streak snapped at 56 when he missed a free throw in the third period.

The four-game sweep gave Boston the distinction of being the first NBA team to go through the title playoffs unbeaten. It is the Celtics' second title in three years.

While Sharman's long - range blasting carried the Celtics in the fourth period, it was a layup by fireman Frank Ramsey with a half minute left that put the final crusher on the Lakers' upset hopes.

Baltimore Sends Connie Johnson To Coast League

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles Thursday shipped veteran pitcher Connie Johnson to Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League.

Manager Paul Richards, who had to trim the roster by one, favored keeping Bob Hale, left-handed swinging first baseman who hit .400 in spring training.

Johnson was sent to the minors when no other major league club was willing to gamble the $20,000 waiver price. He was with the Chicago White Sox in 1953 and 1955 -56 before he came to the Orioles in a trade.

The 36-year-old righthander's best year in the majors was 1957 when his 14-11 mark helped Baltimore to a fifth place finish. Last year his record was 6-9.

Montreal Tops Toronto, 5-3

MONTREAL (UPI) — Dickie Moore and Marcel Bonin scored third period goals to power the Montreal Canadiens to a 5-3 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night in the opening game of the Stanley Cup playoff finals.

Moore, Bonin and Henri Richard—the top line in the National Hockey League playoffs—each counted once for the victorious Canadiens while Ralph Backstrom and Andre Pronovost also scored for Montreal.

Dick Duff, Billy Harris and Ron Stewart were the Toronto marksmen.

Moran Leads Salem Quint Into Finals

Don Racks Up 26 In 63-57 Victory

Salem's of Johnstown, the basketball team composed of players from Westernport, Md., and Piedmont, W.Va., forged into the finals of the Central States Gold Medal Tournament at Johnstown, Pa., on Wednesday night by defeating DiBartola's Service Station by the score of 63-57.

It was the third victory in the tourney for Salem's, sponsored by George Salem, Jr., owner of Georgie Porgie's Drive-In Restaurant.

Salem's will play DiBartola's Atlantic, also of Johnstown, for the championship on Monday at 9 p.m. DiBartola's quint is composed of St. Francis College and Indiana State Teachers College players.

In Wednesday's semi-final, Salem's quint scored 24 field goals in 60 shots while the losers hooped 24 of 61 from the field.

Don Moran was the standout player in the game with 10 field goals and 26 points and snared 13 of the 43 rebounds credited to his team. Lee Neary and Glenn Smith garnered 12 points each for Salem's. Wise and Cignetti paced the losers with 16 and 15 markers.

Each team scored 24 goals but Salem's winning margin was at the foul line where they outpointed their opponents, 15 to 9.

Salem's spotted DiBartola's 13 points before crashing the scoring column in the first period and trailed at the quarters, 19-10, 36-29 and 42-40. Lee Neary's goal knotted the score at 42-all as the fourth period got under way and after DiBartola's forged ahead again Moran scored two quick baskets to put Salem's ahead to stay. Box score:

Big Creek And Hedgesville High Schools Reinstated

Proposals Turned Down At Meeting In Martinsburg

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) —The West Virginia Secondary Schools Activities Commission Thursday reinstated Big Creek High School of War, McDowell County, following a year's suspension.

Big Creek was suspended for its part in an injunction proceeding against the board in the fall of 1957. It was designed to put Big Creek into the Class AAA football championship title game against Fairmont West instead of Weirton.

Hedgesville Reinstated

The commission also reinstated Hedgesville High School of Berkeley County and Glen White junior high of Raleigh County. It was reported that Hedgesville had been banned from post season playoffs in connection with an altercation at a basketball playoff game.

The State Secondary School Principals Assn. approved a proposal making it mandatory for each athletic participant to furnish his school with a birth certificate before taking part in any sport.

Williamson Liberty was forced to forfeit a regional basketball final game to Ansted this year for using an overage player.

The principals also passed a proposal calling for junior high school football practice to start on Aug. 22 unless that date fell on Sunday.

Turn Down Proposal

Among proposals refused were those that would allow senior high school students to engage in Christmas Holiday tournaments in their respective counties provided they did not play in more than three games. The three games would have been in excess of the 20 permitted during the regular season.

Opponents pointed out that some counties had only one or two high schools and it would be unfair to athletes in those areas.

Another proposal turned down would have made it mandatory for an athlete changing schools within the state to sit out a year before taking part in any sport with his new school.

W. Gordon Eismon, principal of Charles Town High School, was re-elected as vice president of the activities commission.

The three-day meeting is scheduled to end Friday night with a dinner. The principal speaker will be Dr. Elsworth Tompkins, associate secretary of the National Secondary Principals Assn.

Fisher & Robinette trailed by three points going into last night's match, and won by six points, 74-68, to take the six-game series by three tallies, 140-137. Twigg's 29 points was high for Fisher & Robinette while Bill Laurent led Purple Heart with 24.

Pedro Ramos Baffles Baltimore, Senators Win, 9-2

Orioles Pull Triple Play In Opening Tilt

By ERNEST BARCELLA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. (no windup) Nixon lobbed out two ceremonial "first" balls Thursday. Then Washington right - hander Pedro Ramos took over the pitching and unceremoniously whipped the Baltimore Orioles, 9-2, in the opening game of the season.

Ramos had a six-hit shutout going until two out in the ninth inning when Gus Triandos boomed a two-run homer into the left field seats.

The crafty Cuban was backed by a solid, 14-hit attack, including two-run homers by Harmon Killebrew and Reno Bertoia in the fourth inning. Baltimore starter Jack Harshman yielded both home runs and was charged with the loss. His successors — Hoyt Wilhelm and Ernie Johnson — failed to stem the Senators surge. They yielded two runs apiece.

Pull Triple Play

Outside of Triandos' home run, Baltimore had only one moment of glory. That came in the fifth inning when first baseman Bob Boyd started and finished a triple play—believed the first in Washington's 59-year opening day history. The Orioles matched their futility at the plate with a scatter-arm defense, committing three throwing errors that figured in the scoring.

The Senators plagued Baltimore with further indignities by stealing four bases—nearly one-fourth their entire total (13) for the 1958 season.

A shirt-sleeve crowd of 26,850 jammed bunting - decked Griffith Stadium for the traditional ceremony of the season's opener. This was the earliest opening game in major league history — and the hottest. The temperature soared to a broiling 87. Predicted rain held off until the last Oriole was thrown out. Then, at precisely that moment, it poured.

Nixon In "Relief"

Nixon was the first "relief pitcher" of the game. He substituted for vacationing President Eisenhower in throwing out the ceremonial first ball.

The vice president promptly became the most famous no-windup pitcher since Don (Perfect Game) Larsen of the New York Yankees. Nixon gave them two for the money—two "first" balls, both of them bloopers.

Although the President was away on a golfing holiday, there was an Eisenhower in the house. The President's young grandson, David, came out to root for the Senators.

David and his fellow Washington fans had plenty to cheer.

Collect 14 Hits

The Senators, who closed out the 1958 season with 13 straight losses, came out swinging. When the day was done, they had supported Ramos' brilliant seven-hit pitching with a 14-hit attack that consisted of 10 singles, 2 doubles and the Killebrew and Bertoia home runs.

Six Senators — Ramos, Bertoia, Killebrew, rookie Bob Allison, newcomer Ron Samford and Norm Zauchin — clubbed out two hits apiece. Roy Sievers and Albie Pearson got the other hits—both singles.

Washington locked up the game with a four-run fourth.

Until the ninth, Ramos had allowed only two Orioles to reach second, had struck out six, walked none, and retired 11 men in a row. Then Boyd bounced a double off the right field fence to open the ninth. Ramos retired the next two men, but Triandos powered his homer into the left field seats and deprived the Cuban right hander of his shutout.

Coach Set Records 21st Year For Loop

Suder Rites Today Booters' Reunion

By C. V. BURNS

ENORDO "Moose" Arnone, who makes his debut as baseball coach at Beall High School next week, is the holder of county league's all-time pitching record of 34 wins and two losses.

Arnone, a southpaw, hurled the Mountaineers to three straight championships by posting 9-0, 12-0 and 11-1 records in 1950, 1951 and 1952 after a 2-1 mark in 1949, his freshman year.

"Moose" also holds the record of consecutive wins, having reeled off 21 in a row in 1950 and 1951.

Arnone succeeds Melvin Brown, whose Beall teams won 17 and lost 24 in three seasons.

WHEN the eight-team schoolboy league opens its 21st season Tuesday three nines will be cast in the role of defending champions as Mt. Savage, Allegany and Fort Hill finished in a tie last season with 11-3 records.

Major John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh is the only mentor who has completed 20 years' service in the circuit. Allegany, Beall, Fort Hill and LaSalle are the only charter members still in the circuit. Hyndman, Paw Paw and Keyser were the other starters in 1939.

Other coaches in the league when it started were Edward Finzel, Beall; Arnett Swisher, Paw Paw; Homer Fizer, Keyser; Hubert Radcliffe, Allegany; Phil Fleming, LaSalle and Roscoe Wareham, Hyndman.

Finzel is still at Beall as soccer and basketball coach; Fizer is coaching at University High, Morgantown; Hubert Radcliffe is now the principal at Mt. Savage High School; Phil Fleming is Cumberland police and fire commissioner and Swisher is teaching at Keyser High School.

Fort Hill has finished on top eight times, winning the title outright five times and sharing the honors on three other occasions. Beall has finished first six times, including one tie, and LaSalle has been on top five times, including three ties.

Of the eight schools now in the league, Valley, Bruce and Flintstone never have won or tied for the championship.

FINAL RITES will be held today at 2 p.m., at the Hafer Funeral Home for Michael F. Suder, 61, an outstanding southpaw pitcher of the 1920s, who died Tuesday at his home on Central Avenue. Interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Mike pitched for Thomas (W. Va.) teams and his brother Tom was the catcher. Tony Stankus was the other mound star at Thomas in those days when the Tucker Countians beat Frostburg's Demons, the old Liberty Athletic Club of Cumberland and other leading teams in the tri-state area. The late Tony Mlekush played shortstop and managed the Thomas teams.

EDWARD C. FINZEL, Beall High School's soccer and basketball mentor, plans to attend the 25th reunion of the Penn State soccer team that Coach Bill Jeffrey took to Scotland in 1934.

The 1933 team from which the players came was undefeated and upon its return Jeffrey's squads went unbeaten for the next eight years—hanging up a string of 65 games.

Jeffrey owned one of the most fabulous records in soccer when he retired in 1953 and took a teaching-coaching assignment at the University of Puerto Rico's Engineering College at Mayaguez. Now 66, he plans to return to University Park, Pa., within a year or two and settle down there.

The old coach has been in touch with Finzel and other players who went with him to Scotland and they have promised to go back to the campus for the reunion June 12, 13 and 14. Dr. Bill Nicholson, of Virginia; John Binns, Washington, D. C., and Finzel are on the reunion committee and are rounding up the old players from coast-to-coast.

Finzel, incidentally, made the All-America soccer team in 1932 and 1933. He played an inside right position for the Nittany Lions both years and set up plays for the center forward and both wings.

Finzel was on the 1932 Penn State team that beat Army by the score of 2-0 and started the Lions 65-game victory string.

Bill Prichard, whom Finzel coached at Beall, was on the Penn State team nine years later when the Lions' winning streak was snapped by Army at West Point, 1-0.

WHEN Cueva's Travelers of Westernport won the Windber (Pa.) Community League Basketball Tournament on Sunday Jim Cave was the recipient of the Sportsmanship Award.

Three of the members of the Westernport team are school teachers. Glenn Smith is at Paw Paw High School, Marple is in Frederick county and Cave in Prince Georges County.

CLARENCE F. SCHAFER, Cumberland Colts shortstop of 40-45 years ago in the days of the Cumberland & Georges Creek League, and former trust officer of the First National Bank, before his retirement, witnessed a number of the Grapefruit League games at St. Petersburg and among the young players who impressed him most were Cletis Boyer and Jim Bronstad of the Yankees and Vada Pinson and Orlando Pena, of the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Schafer reports that Warren Spahn looked great this spring and should have another good season.

THE Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League is nearing the end of its eleventh season and among the teams almost certain to get into the playoffs is Farrady Post, American Legion of Frostburg, which has bagged post-season honors six years in a row.

Stadium Inn, Frostburg, won in 1950 and 1951, while the only other winners were Cumberland W.O.W. in 1952 and Cresap Tavern in 1949, the first year of the circuit.

VINCENT (Vinnie) Farrell, the widely known sports official, who has many friends here, will be presented a plaque and a life membership to the Collegiate Basketball Officials Association at their annual banquet in New York City on Saturday.

Farrell, now supervisor of physical education for the City of Newark, N. J., was one of the original organizers of the college association.

Dick Metz Leads Lake Charles Golf

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Old pro Dick Metz snipped five strokes off par with a 67 on a soggy course Thursday to take the first round lead in the $5,000 Lake Charles Invitational Golf Tournament.

The 50-year-old Fort Worth, Tex. tournament veteran, defending the title he won in a sudden death playoff last year, turned in a card that showed 33-34, including five birdies and only one bogey.

Grouped at 68 behind the broad-shouldered Texan in the runner-up spot was a quintet headed by former amateur star Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn. Rudolph had a chance to tie for the lead, but he missed a two-foot putt on the 393-yard 15th hole and had to settle for a bogey five, the only hole he went overpar.

Boston Makes 4-Game Sweep To Take Title

Celtics Defeat Lakers, 118-113

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bullseye Bill Sharman blunted the Minneapolis Lakers' last gasp challenge Thursday night and Boston won the National Basketball Assn. championship with a 118-113 victory that gave the Celtics an unprecedented sweep of the title playoffs.

Sharman's long one-handed casts from the sides and behind the foul circle bailed the Celtics out of trouble after Bob Leonard and Elgin Baylor teamed to shoot the Lakers into the lead.

Sharman, 32-year-old veteran, finished with 29 points in one of the finest hours of his long pro career. He experienced the minor disappointment, however, of seeing his record foul shot streak snapped at 56 when he missed a free throw in the third period.

The four-game sweep gave Boston the distinction of being the first NBA team to go through the title playoffs unbeaten. It is the Celtics' second title in three years.

While Sharman's long - range blasting carried the Celtics in the fourth period, it was a layup by fireman Frank Ramsey with a half minute left that put the final crusher on the Lakers' upset hopes.

Baltimore Sends Connie Johnson To Coast League

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles Thursday shipped veteran pitcher Connie Johnson to Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League.

Manager Paul Richards, who had to trim the roster by one, favored keeping Bob Hale, left-handed swinging first baseman who hit .400 in spring training.

Johnson was sent to the minors when no other major league club was willing to gamble the $20,000 waiver price. He was with the Chicago White Sox in 1953 and 1955 -56 before he came to the Orioles in a trade.

The 36-year-old righthander's best year in the majors was 1957 when his 14-11 mark helped Baltimore to a fifth place finish. Last year his record was 6-9.

Montreal Tops Toronto, 5-3

MONTREAL (UPI) — Dickie Moore and Marcel Bonin scored third period goals to power the Montreal Canadiens to a 5-3 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night in the opening game of the Stanley Cup playoff finals.

Moore, Bonin and Henri Richard—the top line in the National Hockey League playoffs—each counted once for the victorious Canadiens while Ralph Backstrom and Andre Pronovost also scored for Montreal.

Dick Duff, Billy Harris and Ron Stewart were the Toronto marksmen.

Don Racks Up 26 In 63-57 Victory

Salem's of Johnstown, the basketball team composed of players from Westernport, Md., and Piedmont, W.Va., forged into the finals of the Central States Gold Medal Tournament at Johnstown, Pa., on Wednesday night by defeating DiBartola's Service Station by the score of 63-57.

It was the third victory in the tourney for Salem's, sponsored by George Salem, Jr., owner of Georgie Porgie's Drive-In Restaurant.

Salem's will play DiBartola's Atlantic, also of Johnstown, for the championship on Monday at 9 p.m. DiBartola's quint is composed of St. Francis College and Indiana State Teachers College players.

In Wednesday's semi-final, Salem's quint scored 24 field goals in 60 shots while the losers hooped 24 of 61 from the field.

Don Moran was the standout player in the game with 10 field goals and 26 points and snared 13 of the 43 rebounds credited to his team. Lee Neary and Glenn Smith garnered 12 points each for Salem's. Wise and Cignetti paced the losers with 16 and 15 markers.

Each team scored 24 goals but Salem's winning margin was at the foul line where they outpointed their opponents, 15 to 9.

Salem's spotted DiBartola's 13 points before crashing the scoring column in the first period and trailed at the quarters, 19-10, 36-29 and 42-40. Lee Neary's goal knotted the score at 42-all as the fourth period got under way and after DiBartola's forged ahead again Moran scored two quick baskets to put Salem's ahead to stay. Box score:

Big Creek And Hedgesville High Schools Reinstated

Proposals Turned Down At Meeting In Martinsburg

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) —The West Virginia Secondary Schools Activities Commission Thursday reinstated Big Creek High School of War, McDowell County, following a year's suspension.

Big Creek was suspended for its part in an injunction proceeding against the board in the fall of 1957. It was designed to put Big Creek into the Class AAA football championship title game against Fairmont West instead of Weirton.

Hedgesville Reinstated

The commission also reinstated Hedgesville High School of Berkeley County and Glen White junior high of Raleigh County. It was reported that Hedgesville had been banned from post season playoffs in connection with an altercation at a basketball playoff game.

The State Secondary School Principals Assn. approved a proposal making it mandatory for each athletic participant to furnish his school with a birth certificate before taking part in any sport.

Williamson Liberty was forced to forfeit a regional basketball final game to Ansted this year for using an overage player.

The principals also passed a proposal calling for junior high school football practice to start on Aug. 22 unless that date fell on Sunday.

Turn Down Proposal

Among proposals refused were those that would allow senior high school students to engage in Christmas Holiday tournaments in their respective counties provided they did not play in more than three games. The three games would have been in excess of the 20 permitted during the regular season.

Opponents pointed out that some counties had only one or two high schools and it would be unfair to athletes in those areas.

Another proposal turned down would have made it mandatory for an athlete changing schools within the state to sit out a year before taking part in any sport with his new school.

W. Gordon Eismon, principal of Charles Town High School, was re-elected as vice president of the activities commission.

The three-day meeting is scheduled to end Friday night with a dinner. The principal speaker will be Dr. Elsworth Tompkins, associate secretary of the National Secondary Principals Assn.

Pen-Mar League Names Northcraft Umpire-In-Chief

Howard "Farmer" Northcraft was named umpire-in-chief of the Pen-Mar Baseball League at a meeting held last night at Melody Manor, Barrelville, following the resignation of Bill Andrews.

A schedule of 112 games was approved at last night's session. The season will get under way on Sunday, April 18 and will end on Sunday, August 30.

Opening games are Flintstone at Grantsville, Salisbury at Centerville, Hyndman at Mt. Savage and Barrelville at Wellersburg.

The league's all-star game will be staged Saturday, July 25 at Hyndman and Jack Poisal, league vice president, will be in charge.

The deadline for contracts of players participating in the opening games is Wednesday, April 15.

Changes in several of the by-laws were also approved last night.

BALTIMORE — Pimlico will run its 140th race meeting May 4 through 16. The track was opened on Oct. 25, 1870.

Satan Helper Takes Laurel Feature Race

LAUREL, Md., April 9 (AP)—Satan Helper was a popular three-quarter length winner of the $5,000 Kiwanis Club Purse here today, getting his third victory in his last four starts.

With the crowd of 11,783 fans backing the 5-year-old gelding down to $4.40 for $2, the Harold G. Bensing color-bearer turned in a sharp effort while winning with speed in reserve. Evelyn Miss, owned by Watson Elliott, was easily second best, outfinishing Brown Hackle by four lengths.

Ridden by Larry Adams, Satan Helper was timed over the fast track in 1:43 3/5 for the mile and 70 yard distance.

The day's handle was $986,713.

Darby Dan Farm's Narrissa Scores By Seven Lengths

MIAMI, Fla., April 9 (AP)—Darby Dan Farm's Narrissa made the favorite players happy by galloping to a seven-length triumph in the Soroptomists Purse today at Gulfstream Park.

The $4.10 choice of the 10,304 bettors outran Marcy Belle, owned by D. J. Gleeson and the Ellis Farm, in 1:10 for six furlongs.

Marcy Belle bested Milton Shagrin's San Ju Lee by one length. Jet Charmer, racing for the Broadmoor Farm, was four and a half lengths behind San Ju Lee.

Narrissa was recording her second straight tally. The smart daughter of Errard and Darby Delilah has been in-the-money in all five starts this season.

Farotol, $9.20 in the first race, and $6.30 Mosby in the second formed a $41.50 daily double.

Rosi And Ryff Fight Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Swift-punching Paolo Rosi, eyeing a lightweight title shot, was favored Thursday to whip Frankie Ryff in their 10-round fight Friday night.

The battle, to be televised and broadcast nationally (NBC, 10 p.m., EST), could be bloody. Both men, particularly Ryff, cut easily about the eyes.

Ryff arrived here Thursday and planned to take it easy at a midtown hotel.

The 30-year-old Rosi is a crowding fighter who features the left hook. Ryff is a deadly counter-puncher.

Duden, Brennan Are Mentioned For Navy Post

Erdelatz's Aide Has Inside Track

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) —Terry Brennan, deposed Notre Dame coach, and Dick Duden, a former All-America end at Navy, have the inside track for the football coaching job at Navy, which Eddie Erdelatz quit because of sharp policy differences with academy brass.

Duden is in a favored position on the basis of his seven years of experience on the Navy coaching staff. He was freshman coach three seasons and Erdelatz' varsity assistant for the past four.

In the light of athletic director Slade Cutter's statement that Erdelatz' surprise resignation Wednesday night "creates an acute problem at this time," Duden is known to be the fair-haired boy of academy officials.

However, Brennan, fired at Notre Dame last December, is known to have the support of E. E. (Rip) Miller, Navy's assistant athletic director and chief recruiter. Miller wes a member of Notre Dame's famed line known as "The Seven Mules" back in the 1920's.

Brennan, contacted at South Bend, Ind., commented "it's news to me" and added, "I don't know if I'm interested."

K. Of C. Take Lead

The Knights of Columbus took a 21-point lead in the six-game playoff series for third place in the American Division of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League by defeating Southern Bar Wednesday night by the score of 79-58.

Al Martin was high scorer for the Knights with 25 points. B. Meyers paced the losers with 17.

The last three games of the series will be staged Monday at the K. of C. Home.

Summer Race Dates Denied Waterford

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The State Racing Commission has approved Waterford Park's application for a horse race meeting Oct. 14 through Nov. 14, but it put a halter on the track's bid for summer dates of June 17-Sept. 7.

The commission, in anouncing its action Thursday, said the summer dates were denied because it was felt that a meeting of 71 days was too long and that the proposed overlap of dates with Wheeling Downs would not be conducive to the best interests of racing.

Wheeling dates are for April 25-June 13, and Aug. 10-Oct. 10, all for night racing.

Satan Helper Takes Laurel Feature Race

LAUREL, Md., April 9 (AP)—Satan Helper was a popular three-quarter length winner of the $5,000 Kiwanis Club Purse here today, getting his third victory in his last four starts.

With the crowd of 11,783 fans backing the 5-year-old gelding down to $4.40 for $2, the Harold G. Bensing color-bearer turned in a sharp effort while winning with speed in reserve. Evelyn Miss, owned by Watson Elliott, was easily second best, outfinishing Brown Hackle by four lengths.

Ridden by Larry Adams, Satan Helper was timed over the fast track in 1:43 3/5 for the mile and 70 yard distance.

The daily double provided a $197.40 return for each $2 wager with Senor Moe ($21.80) and Bokaris ($11) taking the first and second races.

The day's handle was $986,713.

Darby Dan Farm's Narrissa Scores By Seven Lengths

MIAMI, Fla., April 9 (AP)—Darby Dan Farm's Narrissa made the favorite players happy by galloping to a seven-length triumph in the Soroptomists Purse today at Gulfstream Park.

The $4.10 choice of the 10,304 bettors outran Marcy Belle, owned by D. J. Gleeson and the Ellis Farm, in 1:10 for six furlongs.

Marcy Belle bested Milton Shagrin's San Ju Lee by one length. Jet Charmer, racing for the Broadmoor Farm, was four and a half lengths behind San Ju Lee.

Narrissa was recording her second straight tally. The smart daughter of Errard and Darby Delilah has been in-the-money in all five starts this season.

Farotol, $9.20 in the first race, and $6.30 Mosby in the second formed a $41.50 daily double.

Rosi And Ryff Fight Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Swift-punching Paolo Rosi, eyeing a lightweight title shot, was favored Thursday to whip Frankie Ryff in their 10-round fight Friday night.

The battle, to be televised and broadcast nationally (NBC, 10 p.m., EST), could be bloody. Both men, particularly Ryff, cut easily about the eyes.

Rosi, fourth-ranked in the 135-pound division, figures a win over Ryff will mean a big-money chance at champion Joe Brown.

Ryff arrived here Thursday and planned to take it easy at a midtown hotel.

The 30-year-old Rosi is a crowding fighter who features the left hook. Ryff is a deadly counter-puncher.

Erdelatz's Aide Has Inside Track

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) —Terry Brennan, deposed Notre Dame coach, and Dick Duden, a former All-America end at Navy, have the inside track for the football coaching job at Navy, which Eddie Erdelatz quit because of sharp policy differences with academy brass.

Duden is in a favored position on the basis of his seven years of experience on the Navy coaching staff. He was freshman coach three seasons and Erdelatz' varsity assistant for the past four.

In the light of athletic director Slade Cutter's statement that Erdelatz' surprise resignation Wednesday night "creates an acute problem at this time," Duden is known to be the fair-haired boy of academy officials.

However, Brennan, fired at Notre Dame last December, is known to have the support of E. E. (Rip) Miller, Navy's assistant athletic director and chief recruiter. Miller wes a member of Notre Dame's famed line known as "The Seven Mules" back in the 1920's.

Brennan, contacted at South Bend, Ind., commented "it's news to me" and added, "I don't know if I'm interested."

K. Of C. Take Lead

Al Martin was high scorer for the Knights with 25 points. B. Meyers paced the losers with 17.

The last three games of the series will be staged Monday at the K. of C. Home.

Summer Race Dates Denied Waterford

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The State Racing Commission has approved Waterford Park's application for a horse race meeting Oct. 14 through Nov. 14, but it put a halter on the track's bid for summer dates of June 17-Sept. 7.

The commission, in anouncing its action Thursday, said the summer dates were denied because it was felt that a meeting of 71 days was too long and that the proposed overlap of dates with Wheeling Downs would not be conducive to the best interests of racing.

Wheeling dates are for April 25-June 13, and Aug. 10-Oct. 10, all for night racing.

Nixon Has Stuff Needed For Presidential Pitch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon passed a stern test Thursday. He showed he had the stuff needed to throw out the presidential pitch —and get the 1959 baseball season under way.

Pinch hitter Nixon filled in for President Eisenhower, vacationing in Augusta, Ga.

His first throw was a high blooper that reached almost to the first base line, pretty good by presidential standards. It was grabbed by Milt Pappas, pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles.

Curiously, although players from both teams usually crowd around the presidential box, only one other Oriole bothered to try for the ball. But Nixon probably never expected much support from Baltimore. It went heavily Democratic in its last election.

True to tradition, Nixon then made a second pitch. It was picked off by Russ Kemmerer, Washington pitcher.

For some reason, opening games are always big things here. Fans who wouldn't think of being found in the vicinity of the ball park later in the year, when the team usually is lolling in eighth place, loyally show up on opening day.

Nixon was accompanied by Mrs. Nixon and the two Nixon girls, Patricia and Julie.

Symington Would Accept 1960 Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said Thursday he would not refuse a Democratic Party draft to make him its presidential nominee in 1960.

But he said he has no plans or political organization "at this time" to make an active bid for the nomination.

Symington, often mentioned as a possible North - South compromise candidate in the event of a convention deadlock, stated his position at a news conference he called to discuss his congressional recess trip to U.S. bases in Western Europe.

Huge Plastic Balloon Probes Stratosphere

VERNALIS, Calif. (AP) — The world's largest plastic balloon was launched Thursday with a payload of instruments to measure pressure, temperature and wind velocity up to an expected altitude of 115,000 feet.

It was the first of a series of stratosphere experiments being conducted by the Air Force Cambridge Research Center's Geophysics Research Directorate.

Information obtained will be of value in future space projects, the Air Force said.

The balloon is 240 feet in diameter. At the height of its flight, the instrument package falls away and parachutes to earth.

Nixon Has Stuff Needed For Presidential Pitch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon passed a stern test Thursday. He showed he had the stuff needed to throw out the presidential pitch —and get the 1959 baseball season under way.

Pinch hitter Nixon filled in for President Eisenhower, vacationing in Augusta, Ga.

His first throw was a high blooper that reached almost to the first base line, pretty good by presidential standards. It was grabbed by Milt Pappas, pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles.

Curiously, although players from both teams usually crowd around the presidential box, only one other Oriole bothered to try for the ball. But Nixon probably never expected much support from Baltimore. It went heavily Democratic in its last election.

True to tradition, Nixon then made a second pitch. It was picked off by Russ Kemmerer, Washington pitcher.

For some reason, opening games are always big things here. Fans who wouldn't think of being found in the vicinity of the ball park later in the year, when the team usually is lolling in eighth place, loyally show up on opening day.

Nixon was accompanied by Mrs. Nixon and the two Nixon girls, Patricia and Julie.

Symington Would Accept 1960 Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said Thursday he would not refuse a Democratic Party draft to make him its presidential nominee in 1960.

But he said he has no plans or political organization "at this time" to make an active bid for the nomination.

Symington, often mentioned as a possible North - South compromise candidate in the event of a convention deadlock, stated his position at a news conference he called to discuss his congressional recess trip to U.S. bases in Western Europe.

Huge Plastic Balloon Probes Stratosphere

VERNALIS, Calif. (AP) — The world's largest plastic balloon was launched Thursday with a payload of instruments to measure pressure, temperature and wind velocity up to an expected altitude of 115,000 feet.

It was the first of a series of stratosphere experiments being conducted by the Air Force Cambridge Research Center's Geophysics Research Directorate.

Information obtained will be of value in future space projects, the Air Force said.

The balloon is 240 feet in diameter. At the height of its flight, the instrument package falls away and parachutes to earth.

Horses For Queen

LONDON (AP) — Three gift horses from the President of Pakistan arrived by chartered plane this week for presentation to Queen Elizabeth II at Buckingham Palace Tuesday. Prince Philip accepted the charger and two polo ponies in Pakistan on his world tour.

Primitive manufacture of iron from ore is believed to have begun well before 1300 B.C.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear wife who passed away April 10, 1947.
My lips can not tell how I miss her,
My heart can not tell what to say,
God alone knows how I miss her.
In a home that is lonesome today,
Sadly missed by her husband,

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear wife who passed away April 10, 1947.
My lips can not tell how I miss her,
My heart can not tell what to say,
God alone knows how I miss her.
In a home that is lonesome today,
Sadly missed by her husband,
EARL A. KNIERIEM.

Crellin Man Dies As Two Trucks Collide

Gerald E. Gank Victim Of Crash

A 43-year-old Crellin man was killed last night when his pickup truck collided headon with another truck on State Route 39 about three miles west of Oakland.

Gerald Eugene Gank was pronounced dead on arrival at Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland. He died of a fractured skull, police said.

The driver of the second truck is being held in Garrett County Jail on a charge of manslaughter. He was identified as Albert Lee Upole, 31, of Oakland.

Cpl. Samuel Conrad of the Maryland State Police investigated the collision, which occurred about 7:25 p. m. on the Crellin Road.

He said Upole, who was treated for scalp cuts and shoulder bruises at the Oakland hospital, was traveling west toward Crellin while Gank was headed east toward Oakland.

Upole told the officer he saw headlights of another vehicle coming toward him on his side of the highway and swerved to the left to avoid a collision.

Cpl. Conrad said Upole apparently swerved his truck directly into the path of Gank's pickup. Both drivers apparently were driving alone.

The state policeman said he turned the case over to the Garrett County state's attorney last night after placing the manslaughter charge against Upole.

REV. JAMES F. MADISON

Emmanuel Men To Hear Rector

Rev. James F. Madison, rector of St. Anne's Episcopal Church in Annapolis, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Men of Emmanuel at Emmanuel Episcopal Church at 7:30 p.m. Monday, according to Dr. Charles S. Beamer, president.

Dr. Beamer said that men of other Episcopal parishes in the area have been invited to hear Rev. Mr. Madison's graphic description of the story of Genesis.

A native of Washington, D. C., where he was born May 12, 1908, the clergyman was graduated from George Washington University in 1931 and from the Virginia Theological Seminary in 1934.

His early ministry was spent in two historic parishes. He first was rector of St. Paul's Church, Petersburg, Va., founded in 1642, and then served as curate of St. John's Church in Washington, known as "The Church of Presidents." He was rector of St. Paul's Church, Holyoke, Mass., for 14 years before coming to St. Anne's Church in May 1957.

Rev. Mr. Madison is presently serving as a member of the Diocese of Maryland Executive Council and is on the Diocesan College Work Department.

Teacher Salary Problem Aired By Committee

Two members of the Allegany County Delegation, William Walsh and Thomas F. Conlon Jr., responded to an invitation of the Allegany County Teachers Association, the County PTA Council and School Board representatives to discuss the teacher salary and aid to school fund situation last night.

Delegates Conlon and Walsh outlined some of the activity which led to the defeat of Gov. Tawes' school aid and teacher salary bill, and expressed the feeling that there will not be a special session of the General Assembly. Both said if such a session is called by the governor, they will attend and will work toward a satisfactory solution to the teacher salary question.

The combined group of parents and educators last night agreed that the salary plight of county teachers is not improved with the failure of the state-wide measure. They agreed too, that if this county is to remain in a competitive position with other counties in Maryland for teachers, a local increase by the county commissioners would be desirable.

It was pointed out at the discussion that at least six other counties in Maryland are considering local pay increases for their teachers.

The teachers' association will meet at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Allegany High School auditorium. The Board of Education will meet Tuesday and the County PTA Council executive committee will meet Monday night at 7:30 p.m. at West Side School. At all three of these meetings the problem of a local salary raise for teachers will be discussed.

Fire Protection Progress Noted By Survey Team

Officials Briefed By NBFU Engineers

The City of Cumberland has made some progress in its fire protection program, according to a National Board of Fire Underwriters survey team.

Members of the team, which will complete a survey here today, yesterday afternoon gave an informal report on their findings to the Mayor and Council.

A. H. Selleck, chief of the survey party, was the spokesman for the team which included C. L. Frick Jr., John E. Sacher and William E. Proper.

The briefing was given to Mayor J. Edwin Keech, Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming, City Attorney William R. Carscaden and several other city officials.

John Beilein, Baltimore, a member of the Maryland Rating Bureau, sat in on the meeting.

Tells Of Findings

After giving a brief summary of its findings, the survey team told city officials a formal report will be presented in about six months.

Mr. Selleck pointed out that all of the recommendations of the survey group are subject to review.

Insurance rates in force, Mr. Beilein reported, will not be reduced or increased until the NBFU report is issued.

The city was commended, during the briefing session, for its purchase of a modern ladder truck which was placed into service several years ago.

The survey party recommended, it was learned, that one of the two previously recommended engine companies be placed into service as soon as practical.

In its last survey made nearly 10 years ago, the NBFU recommended that an additional engine company be placed at Central Fire Department to provide added protection to the business district, and that a new station be located in the Hill Top Drive section.

The team also recommended that suitable training facilities for fire fighters be established.

Note Ladder Purchase

Improvements in the equipment at Central Fire Department will be noted in the upcoming report. These include the fire alarm control board placed into service last year and the new pumper placed into service last year at Central Fire Department.

The city will also be commended for its adoption of the standard NBFU Fire Prevention Code.

The report will also recommend that the National Building Code, being considered for adoption, be placed into effect as soon as possible.

Commissioner Fleming said members of the team praised Fire Chief Parker for his cooperation and termed him "one of the top fire chiefs."

The survey was asked recently by the Cumberland Fire Department, which hopes improvements made in recent years will result in a reduction of the Cumberland fire insurance rate.

Will Give Rating

The survey team is composed of highly trained engineers who spend their time surveying and reporting on fire defenses of larger cities.

The report the team will issue will be evaluated and result in the issuance of a classification which will be furnished to the Maryland rating bureau.

Major points studied by the team are the city's water supply, the fire department and its alarm system and structural conditions of the city as they affect fire fighting.

There was some discussion during the session on the possibilities of a combined police and fire department.

One of the members of the team commented, "I don't think it would work" here, but he stressed that the NBFU was not opposed to the plan.

He said it is a rating bureau, and "what you have, we grade."

The department now has 61 men, about 10 more than were on duty during the last survey. It was pointed out, however, that shorter hours now worked by firemen have about nullified the effect of the expanded force.

Will Build Home

At the Salisbury meeting, representatives of Region A will offer some unique methods for roll call. This will be presented by the Flintstone FHA chapter of which Miss Joanne E. Sterbutzel is adviser. Miss Sterbutzel teaches home economics at Flintstone.

Miss Lorraine Smith will be called upon to report on plans for the leadership training conference which will be held at Frostburg State Teachers College June 17, 18 and 19. Miss Sally Miller will discuss highlights of the 1959 national FHA convention to be held in Chicago.

The accident occurred shortly after 1 p.m. as the men were erecting reinforcing steel for the Tompkins Construction Company, one of the firms having contracts at the Naval rocket research installation near Pinto.

Officials of the construction company said Adams, Mearkle and Swain were working on the scaffolding about 15 feet above the ground when it slipped and fell. King, working below the group on the ground, was struck by the scaffolding as it fell.

The injured men were taken to the hospital in an ambulance and were admitted about 2:15 p.m.

Governor Signs Supplementary Pension Bill

$480 Retirement Boost Is Provided

Governor J. Millard Tawes has signed into law legislation which requires the county to pay a $480 supplementary pension to all school teachers, administrators or clerks who retire after July 1.

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners had asked the governor to veto the bill, sponsored by State Senator Charles M. See.

The bill was signed by Governor Tawes on Wednesday, the governor's office told the Cumberland News yesterday.

As introduced by Senator See, the bill called for the payment of $50 a month but the Allegany County Delegation amended the bill to reduce the payments to $40 a month and to require 15, instead of 10 years of service in this county.

County Asks Veto

The County Commissioners asked the veto on March 20. The action was taken by Commissioners John J. Rowan and John Tucker Mason. Commissioner William A. Wilson said he was "neither for nor against," but had promised support for the original measure last year.

During a hearing on the bill in January, arguments were presented for and against the proposal. The Allegany County Teachers Association argued:

—That the Board of Education in 1927 promised new teachers a pension equal to half their annual salary but that rising pay scales during postwar inflation produced pension figures far below those promised.

—That costs will be less than it appears since teachers retiring at top pay of $5,500 a year will be replaced by new teachers getting minimum salaries.

—That the payments will benefit 116 veteran teachers between 54 and 69, as newer teachers will pay enough into the pension fund to get a sufficient pension, and that the maximum actual cost will be in 1970, when the county would pay out $27,220.

Cites Opposition

The County Commissioners, in opposing the proposal, brought out these points:

—The tax rate will have to be increased to pay the pensions and the state, and not the county, should stand back of state pension promises.

—Social Security payments should be taken into consideration when final compensation is figured for retirement pay, and that recipients should be residents of the county.

In a veto petition letter, the county added that the bill provides that all teachers will get the $480 supplementary pensions when some of them have only a $100 deficiency in pension benefits.

The Commissioners also objected to the fact the bill has no termination date and "will go on indefinitely."

Farmers Will Hear Maryland Professor

Dr. George Max Beal, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Maryland, will speak to the George's Creek area farmers planning group at 8 p.m. Friday, April 17, at the Eckhart Square Circle Club, according to County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

"Probable Effects of a State Milk Commission On Maryland Dairy Farmers" will be the topic of his remarks. Two bills to establish a State Milk Commission were introduced in the recent session of the General Assembly in Annapolis but both were killed.

Mr. Steger is hoping that a large number of dairymen will attend.

Rubbish Fire Fills Theatre With Smoke

Blaze Is Located In Old Mill Race

Fire in a rubbish pile beneath an exit way of the Maryland Theatre routed some 15 or 20 early evening patrons of the theatre yesterday and caused the movie house to be shut down for the night.

Central Fire Company answered the first alarm at approximately 5:47 p.m., and spent several minutes trying to locate the blaze as smoke poured into the theatre from an old mill race under the exitway.

Finally one of the firemen spotted the flames through a small opening in the floor of the hallway leading to the rear entrance of the theatre.

Battering Ram Used

Using heavy mauls and a large battering ram, firemen tried for more than 20 minutes to smash through a brick and concrete wall from the basement of the building into the area where the fire was located.

But approximately 18 inches of wall blocked their efforts. Finally a small entrance alongside the building at the rear of Beneman's Furniture Store was located.

Two firemen crawled through the 18-inch-high opening to reach the flames, quickly extinguishing them.

Meanwhile, Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore F. Fleming had ordered a city compressor truck and air hammer to the scene. Firemen, using the air hammer to drill a two-foot-square hole in the concrete floor of the rear exitway, reached the fire area from above and sprayed the rubbish pile with water from a large fog nozzle.

Traffic Detoured

The trucks left the scene shortly before 6 p.m., only to be called back within 10 minutes when some smoke seeped into the store next door.

G. Ray Light, city commissioner of water and light and manager of the Maryland Theatre, said last night that there was no damage to the theatre itself. A night watchman was on duty, as the doors to the theatre were opened to clear the smoke from the auditorium.

Realistic Previews

Ironically, the smoke began pouring into the theatre as the coming attractions were being flashed on the screen, depicting two war films and showing explosions, fires and smoke.

Mr. Light said that the theatre will be open today at the usual time.

Firemen, meanwhile, theorized that a cigaret tossed in some manner into the rubbish pile caused the fire. They added that because of the thick walls surrounding the area it is doubtful if the blaze could have caused any damage to the theatre or other business buildings located on North Mechanic Street.

A fire underwriters survey team, in Cumberland to check over the operation of the city's fire department, got a first hand view of the firemen in action during the blaze. The team accompanied Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker to the scene and watched as firemen battled the flames.

Crellin Man Dies As Two Trucks Collide

Gerald E. Gank Victim Of Crash

A 43-year-old Crellin man was killed last night when his pickup truck collided headon with another truck on State Route 39 about three miles west of Oakland.

Gerald Eugene Gank was pronounced dead on arrival at Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland. He died of a fractured skull, police said.

The driver of the second truck is being held in Garrett County Jail on a charge of manslaughter. He was identified as Albert Lee Upole, 31, of Oakland.

Cpl. Samuel Conrad of the Maryland State Police investigated the collision, which occurred about 7:25 p. m. on the Crellin Road.

He said Upole, who was treated for scalp cuts and shoulder bruises at the Oakland hospital, was traveling west toward Crellin while Gank was headed east toward Oakland.

Upole told the officer he saw headlights of another vehicle coming toward him on his side of the highway and swerved to the left to avoid a collision.

Cpl. Conrad said Upole apparently swerved his truck directly into the path of Gank's pickup. Both drivers apparently were driving alone.

The state policeman said he turned the case over to the Garrett County state's attorney last night after placing the manslaughter charge against Upole.

Teacher Salary Problem Aired By Committee

Two members of the Allegany County Delegation, William Walsh and Thomas F. Conlon Jr., responded to an invitation of the Allegany County Teachers Association, the County PTA Council and School Board representatives to discuss the teacher salary and aid to school fund situation last night.

Delegates Conlon and Walsh outlined some of the activity which led to the defeat of Gov. Tawes' school aid and teacher salary bill, and expressed the feeling that there will not be a special session of the General Assembly. Both said if such a session is called by the governor, they will attend and will work toward a satisfactory solution to the teacher salary question.

The combined group of parents and educators last night agreed that the salary plight of county teachers is not improved with the failure of the state-wide measure. They agreed too, that if this county is to remain in a competitive position with other counties in Maryland for teachers, a local increase by the county commissioners would be desirable.

It was pointed out at the discussion that at least six other counties in Maryland are considering local pay increases for their teachers.

The teachers' association will meet at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Allegany High School auditorium. The Board of Education will meet Tuesday and the County PTA Council executive committee will meet Monday night at 7:30 p.m. at West Side School. At all three of these meetings the problem of a local salary raise for teachers will be discussed.

Fire Protection Progress Noted By Survey Team

Officials Briefed By NBFU Engineers

The City of Cumberland has made some progress in its fire protection program, according to a National Board of Fire Underwriters survey team.

Members of the team, which will complete a survey here today, yesterday afternoon gave an informal report on their findings to the Mayor and Council.

A. H. Selleck, chief of the survey party, was the spokesman for the team which included C. L. Frick Jr., John E. Sacher and William E. Proper.

The briefing was given to Mayor J. Edwin Keech, Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming, City Attorney William R. Carscaden and several other city officials.

John Beilein, Baltimore, a member of the Maryland Rating Bureau, sat in on the meeting.

Tells Of Findings

After giving a brief summary of its findings, the survey team told city officials a formal report will be presented in about six months.

Mr. Selleck pointed out that all of the recommendations of the survey group are subject to review.

Insurance rates in force, Mr. Beilein reported, will not be reduced or increased until the NBFU report is issued.

The city was commended, during the briefing session, for its purchase of a modern ladder truck which was placed into service several years ago.

The survey party recommended, it was learned, that one of the two previously recommended engine companies be placed into service as soon as practical.

In its last survey made nearly 10 years ago, the NBFU recommended that an additional engine company be placed at Central Fire Department to provide added protection to the business district, and that a new station be located in the Hill Top Drive section.

The team also recommended that suitable training facilities for fire fighters be established.

Note Ladder Purchase

Improvements in the equipment at Central Fire Department will be noted in the upcoming report. These include the fire alarm control board placed into service last year and the new pumper placed into service last year at Central Fire Department.

The city will also be commended for its adoption of the standard NBFU Fire Prevention Code.

The report will also recommend that the National Building Code, being considered for adoption, be placed into effect as soon as possible.

Commissioner Fleming said members of the team praised Fire Chief Parker for his cooperation and termed him "one of the top fire chiefs."

The survey was asked recently by the Cumberland Fire Department, which hopes improvements made in recent years will result in a reduction of the Cumberland fire insurance rate.

Will Give Rating

The survey team is composed of highly trained engineers who spend their time surveying and reporting on fire defenses of larger cities.

The report the team will issue will be evaluated and result in the issuance of a classification which will be furnished to the Maryland rating bureau.

Major points studied by the team are the city's water supply, the fire department and its alarm system and structural conditions of the city as they affect fire fighting.

There was some discussion during the session on the possibilities of a combined police and fire department.

One of the members of the team commented, "I don't think it would work" here, but he stressed that the NBFU was not opposed to the plan.

He said it is a rating bureau, and "what you have, we grade."

The department now has 61 men, about 10 more than were on duty during the last survey. It was pointed out, however, that shorter hours now worked by firemen have about nullified the effect of the expanded force.

Many Entries Received For Tri-State Art Show

Representatives of the Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, were busy yesterday at the Cumberland Free Public Library beginning the arrangement of exhibits for the annual Tri-State Art Show, which starts Monday night.

Theodore P. Foote, supervisor of art education in the Allegany County public schools, will judge the art show entries Saturday morning.

There appeared to be a larger number of entries and the quality seemed even better than last year. Among the new exhibitors is Sam Mosholder, RFD 3, Rockwood, Pa., who has submitted two oil paintings entitled "Turkeyfoot Valley" and "Winter Landscape." A number of other communities in Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, are represented in the show.

This art show is running in conjunction with National Library Week. A number of school children have submitted posters on the theme "Wake Up And Read." This contest is being sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce.

State FHA Meeting Will Highlight Special Week

As a highlight of Future Homemakers of America Week, representatives of most of the 54 Maryland FHA chapters will attend a state FHA meeting at Salisbury on the Eastern Shore Saturday, according to Miss Ruth C. McColly, FHA adviser in Region A.

Miss McColly, who is supervisor of home economics in Allegany County public schools, plans to take three state FHA officers to Salisbury today. They are Judy Minnick, Northern Garrett County High School, outgoing second vice president; Sally Miller, Valley High School, the new parliamentarian, and Lorraine Smith, Flintstone, outgoing reporter and incoming third vice president.

At the Salisbury meeting, representatives of Region A will offer some unique methods for roll call. This will be presented by the Flintstone FHA chapter of which Miss Joanne E. Sterbutzel is adviser. Miss Sterbutzel teaches home economics at Flintstone.

Miss Lorraine Smith will be called upon to report on plans for the leadership training conference which will be held at Frostburg State Teachers College June 17, 18 and 19. Miss Sally Miller will discuss highlights of the 1959 national FHA convention to be held in Chicago.

The FHA has five major objectives. They are the promotion of good home and family living, development of creative leadership in home and family life, to gain a better understanding of neighbors at home and abroad to develop the individual's potential ability and further interest in home economics.

Four Men Injured In Fall At ABL

Reported in satisfactory condition are Donald Adams, 28, Route 1, Ridgeley, W. Va., who sustained a fracture of the right leg; Melvin Mearkle, 28, Everett, Pa., who had bruises and a possible fracture of the right leg; and Clyde King, 36, of Route 5, Cumberland, who sustained cuts above and below the right eye, and complained of chest pains.

Treated and X-rayed for injuries of both ankles was Ronald Swain, 26, of Wiley Ford, W. Va. He was not hospitalized.

The accident occurred shortly after 1 p.m. as the men were erecting reinforcing steel for the Tompkins Construction Company, one of the firms having contracts at the Naval rocket research installation near Pinto.

Officials of the construction company said Adams, Mearkle and Swain were working on the scaffolding about 15 feet above the ground when it slipped and fell. King, working below the group on the ground, was struck by the scaffolding as it fell.

The injured men were taken to the hospital in an ambulance and were admitted about 2:15 p.m.

Governor Signs Supplementary Pension Bill

$480 Retirement Boost Is Provided

Governor J. Millard Tawes has signed into law legislation which requires the county to pay a $480 supplementary pension to all school teachers, administrators or clerks who retire after July 1.

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners had asked the governor to veto the bill, sponsored by State Senator Charles M. See.

The bill was signed by Governor Tawes on Wednesday, the governor's office told the Cumberland News yesterday.

As introduced by Senator See, the bill called for the payment of $50 a month but the Allegany County Delegation amended the bill to reduce the payments to $40 a month and to require 15, instead of 10 years of service in this county.

County Asks Veto

The County Commissioners asked the veto on March 20. The action was taken by Commissioners John J. Rowan and John Tucker Mason. Commissioner William A. Wilson said he was "neither for nor against," but had promised support for the original measure last year.

During a hearing on the bill in January, arguments were presented for and against the proposal. The Allegany County Teachers Asociation argued:

—That the Board of Education in 1927 promised new teachers a pension equal to half their annual salary but that rising pay scales during postwar inflation produced pension figures far below those promised.

—That costs will be less than it appears since teachers retiring at top pay of $5,500 a year will be replaced by new teachers getting minimum salaries.

—That the payments will benefit 116 veteran teachers between 54 and 69, as newer teachers will pay enough into the pension fund to get a sufficient pension, and that the maximum actual cost will be in 1970, when the county would pay out $27,220.

Cites Opposition

The County Commissioners, in opposing the proposal, brought out these points:

—The tax rate will have to be increased to pay the pensions and the state, and not the county, should stand back of state pension promises.

—Social Security payments should be taken into consideration when final compensation is figured for retirement pay, and that recipients should be residents of the county.

In a veto petition letter, the county added that the bill provides that all teachers will get the $480 supplementary pensions when some of them have only a $100 deficiency in pension benefits.

The Commissioners also objected to the fact the bill has no termination date and "will go on indefinitely."

Farmers Will Hear Maryland Professor

Dr. George Max Beal, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Maryland, will speak to the George's Creek area farmers planning group at 8 p.m. Friday, April 17, at the Eckhart Square Circle Club, according to County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

"Probable Effects of a State Milk Commission On Maryland Dairy Farmers" will be the topic of his remarks. Two bills to establish a State Milk Commission were introduced in the recent session of the General Assembly in Annapolis but both were killed.

Mr. Steger is hoping that a large number of dairymen will attend.

Rubbish Fire Fills Theatre With Smoke

Blaze Is Located In Old Mill Race

Fire in a rubbish pile beneath an exit way of the Maryland Theatre routed some 15 or 20 early evening patrons of the theatre yesterday and caused the movie house to be shut down for the night.

Central Fire Company answered the first alarm at approximately 5:47 p.m., and spent several minutes trying to locate the blaze as smoke poured into the theatre from an old mill race under the exitway.

Finally one of the firemen spotted the flames through a small opening in the floor of the hallway leading to the rear entrance of the theatre.

Battering Ram Used

Using heavy mauls and a large battering ram, firemen tried for more than 20 minutes to smash through a brick and concrete wall from the basement of the building into the area where the fire was located.

But approximately 18 inches of wall blocked their efforts. Finally a small entrance alongside the building at the rear of Beneman's Furniture Store was located.

Two firemen crawled through the 18-inch-high opening to reach the flames, quickly extinguishing them.

Meanwhile, Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore F. Fleming had ordered a city compressor truck and air hammer to the scene. Firemen, using the air hammer to drill a two-foot-square hole in the concrete floor of the rear exitway, reached the fire area from above and sprayed the rubbish pile with water from a large fog nozzle.

Traffic Detoured

A small crowd of spectators congregated at the rear of the theatre to watch the firemen while city police re-routed traffic off North Mechanic Street, as fire trucks were parked outside the building.

The trucks left the scene shortly before 6 p.m., only to be called back within 10 minutes when some smoke seeped into the store next door.

G. Ray Light, city commissioner of water and light and manager of the Maryland Theatre, said last night that there was no damage to the theatre itself. A night watchman was on duty, as the doors to the theatre were opened to clear the smoke from the auditorium.

Realistic Previews

Ironically, the smoke began pouring into the theatre as the coming attractions were being flashed on the screen, depicting two war films and showing explosions, fires and smoke.

Mr. Light said that the theatre will be open today at the usual time.

Firemen, meanwhile, theorized that a cigaret tossed in some manner into the rubbish pile caused the fire. They added that because of the thick walls surrounding the area it is doubtful if the blaze could have caused any damage to the theatre or other business buildings located on North Mechanic Street.

A fire underwriters survey team, in Cumberland to check over the operation of the city's fire department, got a first hand view of the firemen in action during the blaze. The team accompanied Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker to the scene and watched as firemen battled the flames.
